Representatives Want State House Clock Made More 'Visible'

SALEM, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The house adopted a resolution by Rep. Harvey Wells of Portland to require the painting of the hands on the house clock so that members can tell what time it is.

The clock, almost invisible, has bronze hands, bronze numerals and a bronze-colored background.

Wells, who suggested the hands be painted white, said in his resolution that old members work so hard that their eyesight is bad, while younger members can't see "various and sundry reasons."

County Food Survey Now in Full Swing

Pioneer State Editor Succumbs in Salem

SALEM, Jan. 21.—(AP)—R. J. Hendricks, 79, editor emeritus of the Oregon Statesman and who had worked on that newspaper for 58 years, died late yesterday at the home of his son, Paul R. Hendricks, Salem attorney.

Five weeks ago he wrote his last daily column, becoming ill with pneumonia.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow, with burial in the Odd Fellows cemetery.

The son of pioneer parents, Hendricks was one of Oregon's leading authorities on pioneer life. He was born May 6, 1863, on a farm in Cooper hollow, Polk county.

Hendricks began his newspaper career at the age of 16, when he was editor and manager of the Roseburg Platdealer.

When he was 21 years old, he came to Salem and bought an interest in the Statesman, being editor of that paper for the next 44 years. In 1928 he sold the paper to Carl Abrams and Sheldon F. Sackett, who then sold it to Charles A. Sprague.

Wickard Increases 1943 Food Goals

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The agriculture department tonight sharply revised 1943 food goals in an effort to bolster production, which now appears likely to fall below "minimum needs" pronounced by Food Administrator Claude Wickard.

Following closely upon increasing goals for hogs, corn, poultry and barley, the department announced new goals for potatoes, dry beans and fresh truck crops—a so-called "quick foods" crops. A system of bounties also was announced to encourage planting to these "quick food" crops.

A department spokesman said that due to shortages of machinery and labor, prospects of meeting 1943 food requirements are "not good." Farm bloc senators agreed that farmers probably will not be able to meet total food production goals.

Tonight Wickard asked for 100,000 acres more potatoes—from the earlier goal of 3,180,000 to 3,280,000 acres; for 500,000 acres more of dry edible beans—from 2,800,000 to 3,300,000 acres; and offered a subsidy of $50 for each acre of truck crops in excess of 90 per cent of each grower's goal.

WCTU AGAINST FUNDS

SALEM, Jan. 21.—(AP)—State headquarters of the Women's Christian Temperance Union wrote all legislators today it would oppose any move to use liquor revenues to support education.

Former Star Accused of Assaulting Lumberman

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Once famed Madge Bellamy of the silent films went free for the time being on $500 bail today after solemnly promising a municipal court judge she would not again shoot at or molest the man she says jilted her for another—A. Stanwood Murphy, 54-year-old lumber company executive.

Judge Chester Morris granted continuance of a week before arraignment on the charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Freely the brown-eyed actress admitted she had waited for Murphy last night behind the exclusive Pacific Union club on Nob hill, and fired at his car "to scare him."

"I am a good shot," she told newsmen today. "I could have hit him if I had wanted to."

Lobby Population Drops Off At Salem

SALEM, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Faithful indicator of activity in the Oregon legislature is the lobbyist population puffing its cigars outside house and senate chambers.

Since the legislature opened 11 days ago, the lobby census has been dwindling daily. Yesterday it got down to four.

The quartet commandeered a table, relieving its boredom with a game of high, low, jack and the game. The game was played right in the main lobby.

"This session is so dead," observed President of the Senate W. H. Steiwer, "that the lobbyists' expense accounts have been cut and now they're mooching off each other."
