Farm Laborers to Be Transported Here Year-round farm hands for Lane farmers unable to secure workers locally through farm placement channels will be recruited from "under-employed" farm areas of other regions and transported to Oregon by the farm security administration, reports George S. McCracken, county FSA supervisor with offices in Eugene postoffice.

Special training where necessary will be provided through the state department of vocational agriculture, in cooperation with farmers and the extension service.

Farmers applying for help should first apply to the U. S. employment service, 1133 Willamette, McCracken said. If the office cannot provide a worker, the order will be sent to the FSA office for a transported worker, or the farmer will be referred directly to the FSA. The FSA supervisor will then take the farmer's request, check on housing available and wages offered. To show sincerity, applicant will make a $10 deposit and sign an agreement. The order is then to be forwarded for recruitment of the worker.

"Farmers who can't get year-round workers should place their orders as soon as possible," said McCracken. "Other regions are also recruiting farm workers in the southern states, and we do not know how long the present supply will last. Workers are carefully selected as to their fitness for work in the county."

Farmers in Coos and Curry counties who received the first 25 workers brought to Oregon from Arkansas were well pleased with the industry and willingness of the workers to assume their new jobs, reports McCracken.

Neighborhood Leaders To Talk About Food A series of neighborhood leader training meetings for instruction in Victory Gardens and planning the home food supply is being arranged in different parts of the county the next few days by Miss Nellie C. Lyle, county home demonstration agent. Miss Lyle's schedule follows:

At Elmira grange hall for Elmira and Veneta communities at 8 p.m. Wednesday, March 24; neighborhood leaders, Wayne Elliott and Mrs. W. L. Parker.

At Irving grange hall for Irving, Lone Pine and Alvadore communities at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 25; community leaders, Mrs. Leland Ross, Paul Plank and Ash Bailey.

At Santa Clara district at 8 p.m. Friday March 26; Mrs. Victor Chapman and E. G. Vogt, community leaders.

At Walton school for Walton, Glentena and Noll communities at 8 p.m. Monday, March 29; Farmer Hale and Mrs. Henry Carlile, community leaders.

At Junction City grange hall for Richardson Goldson, Long Tom, Lancaster and Prairie communities Tuesday March 30; Paul Baker, Mrs. Roscoe Allen, C. A. Schooling, Mrs. F. W. Mahony, Mrs. R. F. Thom and Folmer Boliker, community leaders.

Dale Gaeth Gets Advance to Captain Dale L. Gaeth who with Mrs. Gaeth has been visiting in Eugene during his furlough, received word while here that he had been promoted from first lieutenant to captain. He and Mrs. Gaeth and Mr. and Mrs. George Hutchison, also of Enid, Oklahoma, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snellstrom. The Gaeths also have visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. King at Vaughn. From here the visitors will go to Seattle and Captain Gaeth will visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gaeth in that city. Mr. Hutchison is a prominent retail lumberman at Enid.

Old Donation Claim Finally Changes Hands One of Lane county's oldest donation land claims, originally owned by John Shelley, who settled the 180-acre claim back in 1852, has changed hands after being in the Shelley family for more than 90 years. The farm, located in the Pleasant Hill district, on the west bank of the Willamette river across from Jasper, has been sold to Floyd G. Miller, Redmond stockman, for $18,000.

The farm has been operated for many years by W. H. Shelley. William B. Shelley, local realtor, grandson of the original owner and nephew of the recent owner, handled the sale. Miller expects to develop the Lane county ranch into a stock farm.

Noti School Kids Collect 119,610 Pounds Of Scrap In Drive A personal solution to the "sugar problem" has been made by Mrs. Rosa Torrence, who Saturday brought to Eugene a sample of her own maple syrup, tapped and boiled down from her trees at Noti.

She used to make maple syrup when she lived in Michigan. Recent "freezing and thawing" weather, she said, is best for running of the sap, and she has been experimenting with a view of developing the sweet for her own uses. She also reports a number of trilliums have been found in the Noti area by her grandson, Norman Marsh.
