

Interstate Tractor Has Warlike Program

Collis Johnson, president of Interstate Tractor and Equipment Company and allied equipment companies, announced today that he has accepted the position of manager of the Eugene division, in complete charge of all sales and service in the Eugene area, and with a substantial financial interest in the company. Mr. Hunter has resided in Eugene since the opening of the Interstate Tractor & Equipment Company. He is chairman of the Lane county salvage committee and is active in civic affairs.

BYRLE HUNTER

Manager Hunter is prepared by experience to help prospective buyers of new machines and parts in working out priority forms and other necessary details. Interstate Tractor & Equipment company, in their new plant at 1855 Sixth avenue west, are distributors for Caterpillar tractors, road machinery and power plants, also Skagit donkeys, loaders and yarders, LeTourneau dirt moving equipment, Hyster logging winches and arches, La Plant-Choute bulldozers, Young logging blocks and general logging supplies.

ED BYRNE

Mr. Johnson also announces the promotion of Ed Byrne to the position of manager at Portland. Mr. Byrne assumes all matters of sales management and customer relationship at Portland. In addition to his management duties he will continue his special relations with industrial concerns and governmental agencies.

New Service Program
The new intensive service program is of special interest to the loggers and contractors in this district. The service includes salvaging worn tractor parts, tracks, track rollers, etc., by new methods of building up wearing surfaces by welding processes. Metallizing worn shaft bearings by spraying white hot metal is a new interesting feature.

Servicing and complete overhaul of tractor motors, fuel injection equipment, every job necessary to keep every tractor working at highest efficiency, is planned through added shop facilities.
