Completion of 1943 Major League Baseball Season Certai

HIGH CLIMBER

By DICK STRITE

Captain Mike Mikulak, Oregon backfield coach who is on leave to handle military police work for the U.S. army in North Africa, sends an interesting answer to our letter of January 5—received March 25. "Iron Mike" intimates that he is still handling prisoners of war along with his many other duties — and should be swamped with work at the present time. His letter follows:

"You know around these parts about the only enjoyment one gets is to receive letters from friends at home. Most of the time life is very dull and unreal, but some inherent force seems to push you along day in, day out. I finally got some dope on the football season. I read with much delight about the victory over UCLA but some of the others were not so good. Well that's the way it goes; the thing that makes football the great sport it is. Needless to say it made me very happy to hear of Tommy's success. Tex (Oliver) and I talked to him about going to Oregon (before Atherton). We were both impressed with his nonchalance and aggressiveness and felt certain that he would be a success. He's a great boy. As are some of the other boys we have had in the last several years. Mecham, Berry, Rhea, Graybeal, Smith, just to mention a few.

"Frankly I don't know about Oregon's defeat by OAC at the time I had some heinies in tow but I was quite angry about several other things at the time anyway. As I look back on it now I'm happy that I didn't know about it for that would have tipped the scales and——.

"Give Colonel Bill my best regards. Was happy to hear that all goes well with him. Would give anything at this time to pull ears with him. Don't know if you ever knew it but Bill is a great ear puller. Have never known of anyone who has whipped him.

"I'd like to relate some of my experiences but you fully realize that it would be impossible at this time. I'll have a few stories that you may enjoy hearing when I get back. This country is very nice, strange and very old and some very interesting sights to see. Sort of miss the good old hamburger stands, however.

"Received a letter from Tex the other day. He told me about his new assignment and that he was vary happy with it. They don't come any better than Tex. He's a born fighter, Dick. Very few men in the coaching game of his caliber. Ran into Dick Clark, former Oregon tennis player, the other day. He's a flier. Also saw Walt Neilson, Tex' former fullback at Arizona. Golly he's a big cuss. Thought that I was sort of on the hefty side but he makes me feel like a youngster. When he gets into an army jeep everyone else evacuates pronto.

"My weight and health have not changed. However, my hair is gradually leaving me. What I do have left is beginning to get a tinge of grayness. All in all, however, I'm well satisfied with my physical well being.

"Well, Dick, all the information I have for the present. Remember me to all.

P.S.: Was sorry to hear of the new football set-up on the coast."

It's very doubtful if a Hobson-coached baseball infield ever committed as many errors in a northern division gabe as the 1943 quartet in fumbling five times in losing at 4-3 decision to Oregon State in 10 innings on Howe field last Saturday . . . Hobby wonders if his decision to use Johnny Bubalo on the mound instead of one of his newcomers made the difference. There is no doubt that the shift, that required bringing Dick Burns in from outfield to first base weakens the Webfoot defense. The fielders may have less confidence in throwing to Burns than to Bubalo. Johnny is certainly a bigger target, and far and away the better first-baseman. Hobby hesitated and rightly so, in sending any of his new hurlers into their first conference games against OSC, even though the Beavers were beaten 14-1 the previous day.

Coupled with the errors was the failure of two veterans, Bill Hamel and Don Kirsch, to hit in the clutch . . . Hamel, leading conference hitter last year with a .407 average, is now batting .125 for two league games . . . Kirsch was charged with his first error in two conference seasons at Corvallis Friday. It was a hard chance, but one that should have been completed without misplay. After all, they all can't be easy . . . The veteran second-baseman made up for the bobble by handling nine chances without error in Saturday's game—and the best fielding play of the game.

Oregon State, incidentally, should be considerably tougher when the only three lettermen on the squad — Don Durdan, Vic Brown, Bill McClusky—return to action . . . Don Cecil is probably a better pitcher than displayed in the first Oregon game . . . and Andy Frahler will be able to chuck with the best of 'em.

Dick Ashcom, Oregon's big veteran tackle, will accept his bid from the Detroit Lions for pro football next fall . . . Dick, a premedics student, will continue his studies in the mid-west while playing pro football in the winter . . . Val Culwell, the only other senior member of last year's eleven available for pro football, has announced he will not enter the play-for-pay game . . . He is making considerable money as owner of a fleet of trucks doing defense work . . .

New Draft Rule Helps Baseball

200 National Players Available Says Frick

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK, April 13.—(U.P.)—President Ford Frick of the national league believes that the new draft revision, putting "pre-Pearl Harbor" fathers in class 3-A, will permit the major leagues to play out the 1943 season.

Discussing the revision at league headquarters, Frick admitted that there had been considerable uncertainty in baseball circles about prospects of continuing play after Labor day or even July 4.

"But now," he said, "It seems virtually assured that we can play out the season—at least in the national league.

Until the major league brass hats learned definitely of the government's policy regarding pre-Pearl Harbor fathers (with children born prior to last Sept. 15), they were uncertain how long the game would carry on and were operating in the hope that such fathers would not be drafted before October.

Frick said, "now that selective service has announced its policy regarding these fathers, I am convinced that they will not be called up until late autumn, at the earliest—although nothing is absolutely certain in wartime.

"I believe the draft boards will be busy until after the baseball season handling the 2,880,000 men whose dependency deferments have been eliminated by the new revision—men who support only wives or collateral dependents. They'll be busy also with the new crop of 18-year-olds coming up."

The senior circuit prexy said there were about 200 players currently available among the eight clubs in the national league. Of these, he estimated that about 137 were pre-Pearl Harbor fathers. About 15 others are in 4-F because of various disabilities. Five are Latin Americans. The others are unclassified, including some who will be benefitted by the new regulations.

Frick emphasized, "Under the new draft rule, our league will lose a few men, but we will be assured of enough to carry on in satisfactory fashion."

State Trout Season Opens This Saturday

PORTLAND, April 12. — (AP) — Oregon's trout fishing season will open Saturday in 26 counties.

In nine eastern Oregon counties —Baker, Grant, Harney, Klamath, Umatilla, Union, Wallowa, Wheeler and Malheur—the season will begin May 1, the state game commission announced. Opening date for Lake county is May 15.

With certain exceptions the bag limit for trout of not less than six inches in length is 15 fish or 15 pounds and one fish in any one day but not to exceed 30 fish or 30 pounds and two fish in any seven consecutive days or in possession at any one time.

Exceptions to this limit will be found in the 1943 synopsis of angling regulations which is available at all license agencies, the commission said.

The commission urged anglers to fill out "catch report cards" which will enable the state to determine results of fish-planting programs and future policies. The cards are available at license agencies, sporting goods stores and resorts, the commission said.

Coast Clubs Speed Up Training For Openers; Stars Lose to USC

By United Press

SAN JOSE, Cal.—Coach Rudy Kallio hustled a practice game for the Beavers with the San Francisco Coast Guard nine today, in addition to the regular vs. yannigan tiff Thursday to offset the Portland club's lack of practice before the season opener Sunday. Manager Merv Shea said he hoped the Beavers would tighten up defense when they bat for keeps in the two pre-season tilts.

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—San Diego Padres started a series of practice games today in preparation for the season opener, April 18. The Padres were to meet the Marine Corps base niners in an exhibition game at Lane field.

Galento 'Debut' In Milwaukee April 30

ORANGE, N.J., April 13.—(U.P.)—The heavyweight comeback of Two-Ton Tony Galento struck an appropriate note today when the human beer keg announced that his first bout would be in Milwaukee—the city of suds.

The battling barkeep, who currently scales closer to three tons, roared that he would pare down to a sylph-like 235 pounds and then "meet any bum they pick" in a 10-round bout at the midwestern city April 30.

"Then I'll moider all those other bums," Galento grunted after a session of punching the bag and shadow boxing in the YMCA.

But little Willie Gilzenberg, who hopes to mangle fat Tony into the duration title — and possibly a post-war title bout with Joe Louis —has other plans for the man who walks like a barrel.

"We're not going to take on guys like Jimmy Bivins, Tami Mauriello, Lem Franklin and Lee Savold just yet," he cautioned Galento. "We're gonna go out around the country and get you into real shape first."

Huskies Win Third; Doug Ford Paces Attack

SEATTLE, April 13.—(AP)—The University of Washington showed a well coordinated attack and a stout defense yesterday in defeating the Seattle Boilermakers 7-3 for its third straight baseball victory.

Doug Ford, ace of the Husky mound staff, was nicked for a three-run homer by Charlie Mitchell, a former Husky player, but otherwise kept the Boilermakers well in hand during his six innings on the mound. He also got two hits in two times up.

Outfielder Tex Warren led the Washington attack with two triples and a single and also stole home on a neat double steal.

Heath Gives In; Signs With Indians

SEATTLE, April 12.—(AP)—Outfielder Jeff Heath, holdout who came to terms yesterday with the Cleveland Indians, said today he expected to leave by plane Wednesday to join the baseball club.

"They gave a little, I gave a little and we got together in good shape," Heath said in discussing the negotiations.

Heath, who has been employed in a shipyard here, said he has been working out daily at the University of Washington, taking batting practice, fielding drill, and weight reducing exercises.

Rainiers Gain Revenge; Down Cougars 8-4

LEWISTON, April 13.—(AP)—The Seattle Rainiers of the Pacific Coast league defeated Washington State college 8 to 4 here last night to gain revenge for a defeat at the hands of the collegians earlier in the training season.

Wally Kramer, WSC hurler who set the Coast leaguers down effectively in the first game, found the going much rougher this time and the Rainiers got eight hits and seven runs in the first three innings.

The Cougars also hit heavily, scoring nine hits off Eddie Carnett and four off Elliott, who relieved him in the seventh. They were unable to bunch them effectively, however. Akins, for W.S.C., and Carnett for the Rainiers, hit home runs.

Stanford Star Eyes Third Swim Record—

By NORMAN MONTELLIER

PALO ALTO, Cal., April 13.—(U.P.)—Emmett Cashin of Stanford university, who set three world records in a single swimming race, will try for another new mark this week-end.

The 20-year-old Stanford swimming star is the newest find of Coach Ernie Brandsten, who has coached Indian teams since 1915 and is confident that Cashin can shatter the 100-yard breast-stroke record.

"He can break the 100-yard record and will try for it Saturday against the University of California team at Berkeley," the coach announced.

Cashin, a junior student who reports to the U.S. Marines for duty in August, jumped into the spotlight last Saturday when he churned through the water in Stanford pool to set new breast-stroke records for three distances —200 yards, 200 meters and 220 yards—all set in one race of 220 yards.

In the same race he was timed at 1:02.3 for the first 100 yards, while the world's record is 1:00.6, set by Dick Hough of Princeton in 1939.

Cashin erased Hough's mark of 2:22 for the 200-yard distance Saturday with a new time of 2:19.

Because of the small difference between 200 meters and 220 yards and the difficulty of timing a swimmer at both points, Cashin was timed again only at the finish of the longer race in a manner similar to timing of track events. His mark of 2:33.7 not only broke the 2:38.4 time for the 220, but was also three and a half seconds better than the standard of 2:37.2 for the 200 meters.

"If he'd been timed at 200 meters he would have shaved another three-tenths from that record," says Coach Brandsten.

Brandsten has already filed applications for recognition of the records — a pleasant chore he hasn't handled since 1916 when Norman Ross recorded the first world's record in the university pool at 2:21 1-5 for the 220-yard free-style.

Cashin, not a big youth, weighs 158 pounds and stands 5 feet 7 inches tall. He started swimming about nine years ago and won several juvenile races at the Olmypic Club here. An unusual suppleness and looseness in Cashin's muscles was credited by Bransten with producing great stamina for the breast-stroke events.

At Stanford Cashin showed no unusual ability until last year, when Brandsten says "I saw that he had it" and "went after him."

Hard training won Cashin a place in the National collegiate meet at Columbus, Ohio, in March, where he won the 200-yard breast-stroke in 2:27.

On April 4, at Stanford, Cashin went the distance in 2:21, one second under the world mark, and Brandsten "knew he would make it official agaist competition."

Brandsten, U.S. Olympic games diving coach in 1924-28-36, has coached "a lot of good swimmers" and several who broke world or American records—including Ross, John MacKelvy, Austin Clatt, Ted Wiggard and Bob Small—and declares that Cashin is "of the same calibre."

He cautiously states that many things might upset Cashin's performance Saturday when he goes out for the 100-yard mark, but adds, "If he doesn't do it then, he'll do it later this season."

FDR's Receive Baseball Passes

Major League Season Openers Are Near

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—Regardless of what the schedules say, the big league baseball season is officially on as far as capital city fans are concerned.

President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators, dragged out his Sunday suit, has his shoes shined and his hair neatly brushed yesterday before marching up to 1600 Pennsylvania avenue to present President and Mrs. Roosevelt with season's passes.

He's been making the same trip annually since the days when William Howard Taft was the chief executive.

ST. LOUIS — Although the major league opening is only a little more than a week away, managers of both St. Louis teams are juggling their lineups today in the third game of the city series.

Manager Billy Southworth of the Cardinals, is trying to round out a smooth functioning infield while Luke Sewell of the Brownies, must find a replacement for outfielder Glenn McQuillen, who likely will be inducted today.

NEW YORK—Manager Mel Ott of the New York Giants received a double blow today when Tom Sunkel, left handed pitcher, went to take his draft screening test and Cliff Melton, his ace southpaw, reported that the elbow of his pitching arm was swollen and that doctors had advised rest as the best cure. The joint was repaired late last fall.

MUNICE, Ind.—The Pittsburgh Pirate outfield has manager Frankie Frisch worried and he ordered another intra-squad game today to get a better line on all his candidates. Right now he is not certain that even Vince DiMaggio, sure-fielding veteran will be in the lineup on opening day.

FRENCH LICK, Ind. — Jimmy Dykes, cigar-smoking manager of the Chicago White Sox, is disturbed over the slowness Thornton Lee, a 22-game winner in 1941, has shown in getting into condition for the coming season. Lee annexed only two decisions last year.

Lee signed a provisional dollar-a-year contract earlier this spring which will be revised upward when and if he proves he is healthy enough for major league competition.

CAMP UPTON, N. Y. — The Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants came here to entertain the soldiers today. The Giants landed on Bob Chipman for four runs in the first inning of their battle at Camp Dix, N. J. yesterday before the contest was called because of the weather.

Manager Leo Durocher indicated that Albie Glossop was ahead of Alex Kampouris in the race for the Dodger second base position.

RICHMOND, Ind—Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds is proud of the efforts of his pitching staff to date and today named Johnny Vander Meer, Elmer Riddle, Ray Starr and Bucky Walters as his big four. Clyde Shoun and Rookie Bob Malloy go against the Cleveland Indians today in a game for which 2,500 tickets were sold before the teams arrived in town.

Novikoff No Worry To Cubs

FRENCH LICK, Ind., April 13. — (AP) — The longer Lou Novikoff holds out, the less he is being missed by the Chicago Cubs—Dominic Dallessandro, a little chunk of a man, is seeing to that.

In the absence of the mad Russian, "Dally" is making his bid for stardom, which he has not quite reached since breaking into the majors with the Cubs in 1940.

He came up with eight years of minor league experience, attracting attention when he hit .368 with San Diego in 1939. He fashioned a comparatively weak .268 with the Cubs his first season; .272 in 1941 and last year's mark was .261 in 96 games while Novikoff, the rookie flop of 1941, was wringing .300 from his bat as the in-and-out left fielder.

"Dallessandro has handled left field nicely this spring," said Manager Jim Wilson. "Novikoff is far from being a star, and it would be stretching the truth to say we miss him."

"Dally," only 5 feet 6 inches tall, one of the shortest players in the big time, has made 10 hits in 25 times at the plate while staking his claim to a regular job. Two of the blows have been homers, one a triple and one a double. He has batted in eight runs and scored seven of the 37 the Cubs have tallied in seven exhibition games.

"I'm down to 170 pounds—19 less than I carried last year," he grinned. "It's given me a looser swing and more confidence in my hitting. I've got my chance, and I'm grabbing it."

Belcastro, Lipscomb Sign For Re-Match

Matchmaker Don Owen and the Eugene wrestling commission have listened to local wrestling fans in their request for a re-match between Pete Belcastro and Jack Lipscomb — following Lipscomb's surprise victory over Belcastro in the headline attraction at the Pearl Street arena last Saturday night.

The match has been signed as the main event of next Saturday's weekly show here. Belcastro also requested the return chance at the Pacific coast light-heavyweight champion. Although he said he had no alibis, the Weed, Cal., "walloper" pointed out that Referee Walt Achiu handicapped his campaign by breaking up the "infighting." Pete said, "I'll have to do more wrestling with a guy like Achiu officiating."

Belcastro has asked that someone besides Achiu referee the next match. And because Lipscomb refuses to wrestle with Elton Owen as third man, the local matchmaker is seeking a third man for the mat battle.

"No referee at all would be okay with me," Belcastro said, but pointed out that regardless, he would promise local fans a result more to their liking this week. He said.

here without a guarantee, Owen will be making the long jaunt

Besides a referee, Owen was also seeking four formidable grapplers to appear in the two supporting matches of the program.
