GASOLINE ALLEY

The comic strip consists of four panels. In the first panel, a man is shown from the waist up, leaning against a wall and hammering a nail. He has a pained expression. A speech bubble above him says, "OH BOY! MY JOINTS FEEL LIKE SOMEBODY'S BEEN BEATING THEM WITH A SLEDGE-HAMMER". A small dog is visible in the bottom left corner. In the second panel, the man is standing and holding his lower back with both hands, grimacing. A speech bubble above him says, "AH THIS LINIMENT WILL TAKE ALL THE PAIN OUT". In the third panel, the man is seated at a dining table, eating from a bowl. Two women are seated across from him, one looking at her watch and the other looking towards him. A speech bubble above the man says, "GOOD SUPPER". In the fourth panel, the man is seated at the same table, but now he is alone. He looks downcast. A speech bubble above him says, "WHERE IS EVERYBODY?".
