

Before the coming of the white man, America had towns of more than a million inhabitants, but they were populated by prairie dogs.

Victory FIRST

On the day of victory, the luxurious Olympic will convert to peace—again become the sparkling center of Seattle's social life. But until that day, the Olympic is dedicated to providing comfort and relaxation for military personnel. We feel sure that our friends will understand.

writer and associate editor of the Oregonian, is recognized for his outstanding work in Northwest letters. Besides editorial work on the Oregonian, which has won him and his paper national acclaim, Mr. Lampman has published several books of poems and essays which stamp him as an authentic voice of Oregon country.

Librarian of the Oregon Historical society since 1919, Miss Nellie B. Pipes has been the silent partner on a great many historical works written in Oregon. She has put her vast store of historical knowledge at the service of a generation of researchers and has herself contributed valuable articles to the Oregon Historical Quarterly.

Young Democrats Going To Meeting

Ethan Newman, national committeeman from the Young Democratic clubs of Oregon, and Paul N. Plank, past state president of the groups, will represent the Lane County Young Democratic clubs at the annual convention in Portland, Saturday. The convention is a one-day event, to be held at the Portland hotel. The business session takes up at 2:30 p.m., the banquet to be in the evening.

At the banquet, Plank, who served two years as president, will preside. Nels Peterson of Portland has been state president the past year.

Robert W. Kenny, assistant attorney general, California, is principal speaker for the banquet. Harland Wood, Tillamook county judge, is the keynoter for the convention. Clare E. Briggs, Washington state, young democratic president, and Edward Mattox, California national committeeman for the young demos, also are on the program for talks.

Ashland Shriners to Give Ceremonial Here

guided in preparing for useful work during and following the war, were other situations commented on.

The need for more comprehensive and useful technical education and how librarians can assist was another topic for the meeting.

The psychological problem coming with high wages both for old and young and how to spend that money in useful pursuits was discussed, too. Along with this problem, too, discussion was held on the general unrest that comes in times of emergency, during which great numbers of people are likely to lose their sense of value.

Other Points Featured

The danger of criticism leveled at minority groups — including racial questions, etc., also was brought out.

The significance of mass movements of people from one community to another, due to wartime and industrial needs, and how such movements affect both communities and their people was another topic mentioned.

Mechanical problems for the librarians, such as ways to combat loss in circulation, shortage of labor, supplies, etc., also were brought before the group, but took second place to the broader social problems in which the librarians can assist.

The question of "indoctrination" on the part of libraries especially in behalf of democracy vs. all the "isms" was brought up with lively talk resulting but no decision or action being taken by the group.

Luncheon Held At noon, more than 50 attended a luncheon held at the Osburn hotel. William M. Tugman, Register-Guard managing editor, was the guest speaker. While his topic dealt with the proposed stockpile of jobs and needed projects for Lane county, it was pointed out the program was one that could be patterned for other sections, too.

"People here should be planning now to assure that no Lane county soldier comes back and has to go on relief. Every one of them should be allowed opportunity to have a respectable job," Mr. Tugman said, pointing to what happened to thousands following the last war. The problem at the conclusion of this war will be much greater with so many more millions of men called into service, and the unemployment problems and resulting chaos will be terrific unless preparations are made now to alleviate such conditions as much as possible, he stated.

As he has before other groups, Mr. Tugman urged that needed taxes be considered now, plans drawn up, and the whole program be made ready to be launched as soon as the war is over so that no time will be lost unnecessarily. "These projects should be be-

Phi Beta Will Give Concert Thursday

An evening of selected music from the music library of Phi Beta, women's music and drama honorary, will be presented by 23 University of Oregon music school students at 8 p.m. Thursday, May 13, in the school of music auditorium. The concert is jointly sponsored by the music school and Phi Beta, and is under the direction of Dr. Arnold Elson, assistant professor of music.

Music to be performed, all of which will be drawn from the Phi Beta collection, will include many obscure and unfamiliar compositions by old masters as well as many unknown modern works. Among composers whose music will be played are Frescobaldi, Mozart, Schubert, Beethoven, Mussorgsky, Faure, Monteverdi, and Beethoven.

Musicians from Eugene are Helen Luvas, Lee Ghomley, Elizabeth Schaefer, Betty Jean Taylor, Everett Fulton, and Margaret Zimmerman. Others to perform are Ray Leonard, Dan Wessler, Janice Hough, and June Johnson, all of Portland; Ruth Merritt, Elgin; Lolita Pierson, Ashland; Jean Burlingham, Forest Grove; Ruth Baker, Bend; Phyllis Taylor, Marshfield.

June Marie Wilson, Nyssa; Alfhild Wahl, Astoria; Elizabeth Walker, Milton; James Gibson, McMinnville; Ruth Van Buskirk, Salem; Barbara Bentley, Mallin; Verne Sellin, Everett, Wash.; and Barbara Bagley, San Francisco.

Margo Appearing At Holland This Week

Appearing all this week through Sunday in an all new floor show at the Holland is Margo, billed as "America's number one eye-ful." Rated as one of the nation's topyond the talking stage and ready to go," he declared. The speaker showed charts on proposed projects, including improved roads and highways, sanitation facilities, a county-city government center, better sewage systems, a new high school plant, and many others. By 1947, he said the city of Eugene will be practically out of debt, and the county school district will be cleared of debt. Offsetting increased millage for these projects will be debt retirement and previous levies, it was pointed out.

By voting needed levies now, the funds can accumulate so there will be cash on hand to start some of these projects as soon as the war is over, it was stated.

The library conference was arranged by Willis Warren, acting head librarian at the University of Oregon, and Miss Elma Hendricks, librarian at the Eugene public library, and their staffs.

notch exotic dancers, Margo was featured for eight months at Leon and Eddy's, in New York. She is a former Post Petty Girl and is well known in the nation's leading night clubs.

Also featured at the Holland is an all star group of entertainers including Russell Delmar, master of ceremonies, wizard of the unicycle, and acrobatic dancer; Helen Jannis, dance control, acrobatic and tap artist; and Jimmy Jensen, personality singer, from Seattle, and the favorite entertainer of men in uniform. Music is furnished by the Hollandaires orchestra.
