

Lane Fire Fighters Good Gardeners Too

The commissary at Mosby creek is well stocked for next season's hungry fire fighters, thanks to the gardening and canning abilities of this season's crew. Two hundred cans of corn, 85 cans of beets, 85 cans of carrots and 150 cans of string beans line the commissary shelves.

Jim Walker, fire warden for the Eastern Lane fire patrol association, says that this is just half the story. The boys kept their tables supplied with fresh vegetables all during the summer, from the small three-fourths acre tract which they tended under the supervision of Z. N. Harvey. The camp cook put up next season's pickles from the cucumbers of this patch, and also made jam in huge quantities from the berries that the boys picked around the camp site.

If next season's crew elects to have a garden, Forester Walker hopes the boys can get it in earlier so that they will have potatoes and tomatoes, the two staples this year's gardeners missed by getting a late planting start.

Latham Health Club First to Report

The first Lane county 4-H health club to report to E. A. Danielson, county club leader, for the fall work is the one at Latham. The report came in Monday.

This club, under the leadership of S. T. Rose, who is the Latham school principal, has a roster of 28 members. Norma Carpenter is president, Leona Brown, vice-president, and Theresa Walker, secretary.

The Latham health clubs in the past have always been very active and have always had a fine record, Danielson said.

Baby Fuller May Be Youngest Bond Owner

Perhaps the youngest owner of a U. S. war bond in the present campaign for the sale of these securities is the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fuller of Eugene, born at Sacred Heart hospital Sunday at 3 p.m.

On Monday the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fuller, 735 Twelfth Avenue west, bought a $100 bond in the child's name and turned it over to her parents.

Grandfather didn't remember the baby's name.

Christian Science

"Matter" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 19.

The Golden Text was, "I am the Lord: that is my name: and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images" (Isaiah 42:8).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world" (1 John 2:15, 16).

The Lesson-Sermon included the following correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mistaking his origin and nature, man believes himself to be combined matter and Spirit. He believes that Spirit is sifted through matter, carried on a nerve, exposed to ejection by the operation of matter. The intellectual, the moral, the spiritual, —yes, the image of infinite Mind,—subject to non-intelligence!" (p.171).

To Make a Long Story Shorter . . .

KANSAS CITY, (AP) — Fifty friends and neighbors gathered at the Harold Miller home and listened intently to a two-hour narrative by Harold's brother, Lloyd G. Miller, 24.

Lloyd, a machinist's mate, first class, had invited the folks in to hear how he survived the sinking of the cruiser Helena.

He said he didn't feel up to telling it more than once.

Evening Planning Class Will Start

An evening class in regional planning for commerce and industry will start on the university campus, Thursday evening, October 7, according to W. G. Beattie, assistant director of the general extension division of the state system of higher education.

The course will cover major developments of economic and political factors affecting the people of this region, and the impact of a new industrial force, such as hydro-electric production, will be emphasized.

The place of forest resources and their more efficient use, particularly plywood manufacture and allied industries as well as discussion of forest policy in the post-war world and the effect of indiscriminate cutting on community life, will be part of the course content, it was stated.

In addition, Beattie said that material covering city and town planning with particular reference to local needs will give Eugene citizens an opportunity to present their ideas and discuss the matter in an open forum. The course is open to both credit and non-credit students, and any one interested is invited to attend the first meeting. Registration for the course will take place at the close of the first session.

The course is offered by the University of Oregon through the general extension division. For further information, telephone 3300—extension 325 or extension 326.

Springfield Potatoes Have Gone Patriotic

Adding to the list of patriotic vegetables which have been appearing in this war year are two queer formations from the garden of Ray Keen, Springfield, Route 1. Two potatoes joined to make the now-familiar Victory "V", but stranger than this are three linked tubers which look much like a soaring fighter-plane.

Keen states that he took 13 large-sized potatoes from this one hill. The potatoes are Burbanks.
