

OPA Finds Many Violations

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP)—Yes, inspectors are paying more for fruits and vegetables than they should—at least more than they should.

OPA says they should.

Recent visits to stores in Portland, Oregon City and Oswego, Ore., and Vancouver, Wash., by OPA investigators found that 54 of 77 stores were overcharging on fruit and vegetable items.

The inspectors found 149 price tags on 15 items of fruits and vegetables under OPA control. The 77 stores, 33 were in full compliance with fresh vegetable tags.

Overcharges on oranges ranged from 1 to 16 cents a dozen, while overcharges on grapes ranged from 9 to 9 cents a pound. On lemons overcharges were from 1 to 2 cents a dozen and from 1 to 2 cents each for grapefruit.

Overcharges on overcharges ranged from 1 to 3 cents a pound, on cabbage 1 to 2 cents a pound. Onion overcharges were from 1 to 4 cents a pound and on potatoes from 1 to 1 1/2 cents a pound.

Tomato prices were found from 7 to 7 cents a pound.

There was one bright spot, although some people will get scant comfort in that; only one instance of a violating violation was found in the price of spinach.

More Camera Film Released to Public

WASHINGTON—Amateur camera clickers who've been thwarted recently by a growing scarcity of films can start relaxing a little. Military demands for film, particularly those of the air force, are lessening, war production board officials said today.

Output of film will not be increased, WPB asserted, but the present system of priorities for military and professional needs means that film released by lesser military stockpiling will make about that much more available to non-priority users.
