

Baptist Church Mortgage Burned

Two hundred persons who were members of the First Baptist church when the present building was dedicated 16 years ago, were present, seated on mats, at the church Sunday morning, when the mortgage on the building was burned, with ceremony. The morning sermon was given by Dr. C. L. Trawin of Camel, Calif., who was pastor of the church at the time of its dedication.

Dr. Arthur I. Brown, noted surgeon, scientist, lecturer and author, of Vancouver, B. C., started a series of meetings at the First Baptist church Sunday night, which will be continued through this week and the following Sunday. His topic for Monday evening will be "Footprints of God and the Wonders of the Human Body," and for Tuesday evening, "Genesis and Modern Science." The women's chorus of the church will sing Monday evening, the young people's choir on Tuesday.

At the anniversary banquet Friday night at the church, Cal Young, one of the trustees at the time of building, was toastmaster. There were 350 present. Dr. Trawin gave the address of the evening, and invocation was by Dr. O. C. Wright of Portland, who was pastor of the local church from 1904 until 1910. Other brief talks were given, and greetings were read. There was a musical program, and moving pictures, showing the old church and the building and dedication of the new, were shown by Dr. Wright.

High school guild girls served as waitresses, and the men served as waiters. In charge of seating arrangements, Imo Ruyle circle was in charge of decorations, in the Christmas motif. The program committee consisted of A. B. Serfling, Mrs. Norton Pengra and Sallie Hodges.

speed-up was expressed by convention delegates, who laid plans to abolish from the cannery industry all such practices which have already been eliminated from other essential industries, they said.

Delegates attending this convention represented approximately 150,000 organized cannery workers in the Pacific coast states, officials said.

The following officers of state councils were in attendance. California: Lloyd J. Hill, president; H. P. Angus, secretary-treasurer. Oregon: L. D. McLane, president; Alice Bissell, secretary-treasurer. Washington: Aletha Helm, vice-president; Oscar Williams, secretary-treasurer.

Officers presiding over the 60 delegates assembled for the convention were R. M. Tomson, general president; L. D. McLane, general vice-president, and Oscar Williams, general secretary-treasurer.

Guest speakers at the two-day convalescence included organizers of the AFL, Leona Zilkoski and Charles Smith. Greetings from William Green, president of the AFL, were read to the assembled delegates at Sunday's session.

Allies Bomb Japs On Marshall Isles

By The Associated Press

American bombers struck at Japan's defense perimeter along an ever-widening line of aerial attack which the Tokyo radio reported included a raid yesterday by 100 carrier-based allied planes on the Japanese-held Marshall Islands in the central Pacific.

The Japanese, in turn, carried out their first bombing mission against Tarawa and Makin Islands since American capture of the Gilberts. They wounded three men and inflicted minor damage on Tarawa. There was no damage on Makin.

On the ground, too, the Japanese failed in counterattacks seeking to throw back advancing Australians on the Huon peninsula in northeastern New Guinea. In China, the Chinese high command said Japanese forces in northern Hunan province had been defeated.

Big American Liberators made three raids on Hare Island in the Kapunga-Marangi atoll 800 miles northwest of Guadalcanal and only 400 miles south by east of Truk, Japanese bastion in the Pacific.

Army Liberators bombed Mili in the Marshalls and Nauru, 500 miles west of the Gilberts, Saturday without encountering any enemy opposition. Allied bombers, in two days, dropped 242 tons of bombs on Cape Gloucester at the "invasion tip" of New Britain.

Ground action appeared limited to patrol forays on Bougainville in the northern Solomons, but Japanese positions south of the American beachhead at Empress Augusta bay underwent a 95-ton aerial pounding which destroyed a 350-foot bridge and 40 buildings.

a peace which will command good will from the overwhelming masses of the peoples of the world and banish the scourge and terrors of war for many generations."

4. "We will welcome . . . as they may choose to come into the world family of democratic nations . . . all nations, large and small, whose people in heart and in mind are dedicated, as are our own peoples, to the elimination of tyranny and slavery, oppression and intolerance."

5. "We came here with hope and determination. We leave here friends in fact, in spirit and in purpose."

Contrary to expectations in many quarters, the declaration contained no ultimatum to the German people to throw out their Nazi leaders and surrender unconditionally to avoid complete devastation of their homeland.

Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin in a subsidiary statement on Iran's part of the war said they counted upon the participation of all "peace-loving nations, in the establishment of international peace, security and prosperity after the war, in accordance with the principles of the Atlantic charter, to which all four governments (including Iran) have continued to subscribe."

Military conferees who accompanied the "big three" included Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. chief of staff and likely choice as supreme commander of the assault from the west, and Marshal Klement E. Voroshilov, hero of Stalingrad and one of Russia's ablest military leaders.

The declaration's reference to "complete agreement" on all major aspects of the three-front war by land, air and sea reportedly confirmed for the first time that Russia has accepted the date proposed by Roosevelt and Churchill for a second front.

It also indicated that Stalin for the first time had informed the United States and Britain of the most secret details of the Red army's plans for offensive blows from the east.

Disclosure that operations also will be undertaken "from the south" pointed to a possible allied thrust into the turbulent Balkans, either across the Adriatic from newly-won bases in southern Italy or from Africa and Levant in the Aegean, in addition to a quickening for the current campaign in Italy.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The brief and general nature of the Tehran declaration published today left unrevealed all details regarding the "problems of the future" surveyed by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin in their historic December conference.

Congressional requests for fuller explanation of conference discussions, agreements and commitments—if any—are inevitable. On the face of the declaration, it would appear that the conferees were more concerned with immediate military than future political questions. But from the standpoint of post-war politics, observers found most significance in the formal commitment of the three conferees to world democracy.

Mrs. Grace Bartholomew

Mrs. Grace Bartholomew, 89, a native of Scotland, died Sunday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Louise Heck, in Springfield. She was born as Grace Jane Young in Edinburgh, Scotland, April 1, 1854. She married Charles L. Bartholomew at Liverpool, England, April 1, 1877, and they came to this country in 1884, settling in Minnesota. They moved to Oregon in 1903.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Heck and Mrs. Minnie Reinheimer of Eugene; three sons, S. Y. Bartholomew of Springfield, Wendell S. and William H. Bartholomew, both of Eugene; 14 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 10:30 a. m., from the Phil Bartholomew chapel at Springfield, Rev. Harry G. Crouse officiating. Cremation will follow at Salem.

Fairmount Street Lights Smashed

New cases of presumably juvenile delinquency were revealed in Eugene Monday by J. W. McArthur, Eugene water board superintendent, who said that nine heavily protected street lights in the Fairmount district have been broken.

He appealed to adults, especially parents, of the area, asking that they report any such offenses to city police, and to try to prevent recurrence of misdeeds of this type. City police are keeping special watch in the district.

The broken lights, all of which have been replaced, were on Fairmount at Birch, Sixteenth, Eighteenth, and Columbia; on Orchard at Fifteenth, Seventeenth, and Nineteenth; at Walnut and Seventeenth; on Thirteenth at Moss and Columbia; at Fifteenth and Agate.

Additional amounts and percentages will be announced as the figures are announced at the report meetings.

Dr. Norman K. Tully, giving the Kiwanisians salute to the war chest, said that Lane is second in size among counties of the state, second in importance, and that Eugene appears to be rising from third to second place among cities of Oregon, due to civic and community spirit.

The Central Presbyterian church minister praised the drive for the intellectual, social and spiritual response which it evokes from citizens. He compared the enterprise to the "four-square house" in Revelations, listing the "walls" as fellowship, signifying the chest's aim to place a hand upon the needy fellow's shoulder "in a friendly sort of way," cooperation, "the hard and difficult art of living together," organization, "not external machinery but an internal attitude" which develops with understanding; and service, meaning to "minister unto others."

Since Monday was listed as Home Front Day in the campaign, directors of the nine local agencies which will receive chest aid were introduced. These organizations and representatives are: Boy Scouts, Lloyd Payne, Kenneth Wells and J. W. Compton; Girl Scouts, Mrs. A. W. Priault and Miss Marjory Stewart; Salvation Army, C. H. Thomas, newly-installed adjutant, and Hart Larsen; St. Vincent de Paul, Rev. Francis P. Leipzig and E. J. Eberdt; University YMCA, Mrs. William C. Jones and Mrs. E. E. DeCou; University YMCA, Karl W. Onthank; city YMCA, Roy E. Morse and A. F. Holmer; University War Emergency council, Robert E. Cushman; and USO, Mrs. Omar Fendall.

Other greetings were expressed by Robert C. Hall, presiding for Kiwanis; Alton F. Baker, campaign chairman; Oluf Houglum, chest president; Ed G. Boehnke, communities chairman; and Mayor Elisha Large.

Second of the quartet of reporting meetings of the 1944 Lane war chest will be held at the Oxbow hotel at 8 p. m. on Tuesday, designated as "Pottery and Pearl Harbor Day," and "Ladies Day."

Chairmen, colonels, and brigadiers in this drive will make reports on funds they have received or had pledged through solicitation of their groups. Ernest S. Bartlam, rector, St. Mary's Episcopal church, will speak on "Rotarians Salute the Community and War Chest." Music will be furnished by the Eugene Glens, directed by John Stark Evans, and the Eugene high school orchestra. Henry Korn and C. R. Mansueti have charge of the "off-the-record fun period." The luncheon will start at 12:05 p. m.

boxes and enabled the marines to establish their first beachhead.

Without the flame throwers, that position might have been untenable and the landing might not have been consolidated.

One barge carrying 20 flame throwers was stopped in the water by shellfire from two pillboxes emplaced 20 feet from the beach, and only five men managed to make the shore. A staff sergeant led the survivors against the two emplacements and blew them out, although he had been mortally wounded in the right arm and chest.

Of the 20 men who manned the boat, only two remained alive when the pillboxes were silenced—Pvt. Jack Ashworth, Los Angeles, Cal., and Nolan Rose, Batavia, O.

Pvt. Howard C. Foreman, Spokane, Wash., remained in the water for 12 hours to help a wounded buddy after their assault barge had been blown up, and finally swam ashore to summon aid, leaving the wounded man in the care of Cpt. Otto Mochel, 22, Detroit, Mich.

Despite their staggering losses en route to the beach the flame throwers went into action as soon as they landed. Throughout three days of the bitterest fighting they were in constant demand and were unable to sleep or even rest.

Most of these heroic flame-throwers were just kids—kids who were unwilling to talk of their work.

The flame throwers originally were combat engineers and now that Tarawa has been conquered the survivors have gone back to their job of building roads, repairing the air strip, distilling water and burying the dead.

They rank among the top heroes of the Gilbert islands campaign.

Local Men to Look At Seized Patents

Representatives from the Eugene chamber of commerce will attend the meeting being called in Portland Wednesday by the Portland chamber of the Bonneville power administration, Earl McNutt, Eugene chamber president, announced Monday.

The Portland meeting which will be held at the Multnomah hotel, will be a preview of the foreign patents and patent applications seized by the government and which will become a part of the proposed northwest field office of the Bonneville administration in Portland.

The patents are of special interest to Oregon industrialists. McNutt pointed out, as much assistance for future industrial development may be obtained from them.

A representative of the Lane county war industries will also be among those making the trip, McNutt said.

Mr. Storms Headed For Eugene; Was In Gripsholm Group

Will C. Storms, who was among Americans brought back to this country from the Orient on the Gripsholm, is leaving New York, Dec. 9 for Eugene, according to word sent his wife who lives here.

Storms was in China for 20 years and was with the Standard Vacuum Oil company in Shanghai when war broke out between this country and Japan. For some time he was under supervision of the Japanese following Dec. 7, 1941, and in February of this year was sent to the Pootung internment camp. Mrs. Storms received a card from him through the Red Cross from the camp.

Mrs. Storms left China Nov. 3, 1940, and came to Eugene the following January.

Jones Asks Action On Subsidies Now

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—War food administrator Marvin Jones asked congress today to decide now whether government food subsidies are to be continued or abolished so that price control agencies and the farmers can map their 1944 programs without delay.

Jones objected to a democratic move in the senate to postpone a showdown on subsidies for 60 days, declaring this might disrupt next year's food production plans.

At the other wing of the capital, Rep. Norton (D., N. J.) told reporters that the housewives "are aroused as never before" over the issue. Her mail, she said contains more than 20,000 requests from women that subsidies be continued.

Please do your Christmas Shopping patiently...

THIS YEAR store people are working harder than ever to make your Christmas shopping successful. But they are working under enormous difficulties—with new wartime problems of supply, personnel and delivery, added to the usual rush of holiday buying.

You can do many things to help them—and yourself. Simple and easy things like making a detailed shopping list to save time at the counters . . . buying at less busy hours . . . and carrying purchases home with you. Before you start out each morning, write these words at the top of your shopping list: "BE PATIENT!"

For months, stores have been working out ways to make your Christmas shopping quick and easy. For example, many stores have located their National Cash Registers and wrapping desks in positions convenient to every section. When the customer ahead of you pays for her purchase and the clerk records it on the Cash Register, you know you don't have to wait. National Cash Registers save valuable time on both sides of the counter during the holiday season just as they do all through the year.

Let's put the Christmas spirit into our Christmas shopping this year by remembering to shop early and shop patiently. . . . The National Cash Register Company, Dayton, O.—344 Offices in the U. S. and Canada.
