Investigation Asked Of Liberty Ship Construction Faults

SEATTLE, Jan. 1. — Declaring two additional liberty ships had broken up since the cracking apart of the S. S. Pan P. Gaines in Alaskan waters Nov. 25, Sen. Don C. Wollgren (D-Wash.) last night said he would call for an immediate halt in construction of liberty ships to troop carriers, pending investigation by the Truman committee into possible construction faults. Ten men are missing from the Gaines.

A member of the Truman and military affairs committees of the senate, Wollgren said he had learned of a similarity in the splitting at sea of at least five liberty ships—the latest being the S. S. Valery Chkalov, a liberty ship sailing under the Russian flag, and the S. S. Chief Washakie. He said the fore and aft sections of the Russian ship were towed into port separately but that the Chief Washakie, held by her double bottoms, made port under her own power.

Other ships having structural trouble at sea, he said, were the S. S. James M. Whitaker and the S. S. John C. Ainsworth, wrecked at the No. 3 hatch.

Wollgren, who said he had always been opposed to conversion of liberty ships to troop carriers as "too slow for safety," added that revision of the ships' interiors "will not insure safety of soldiers to be freighted overseas. I will ask the Truman committee for immediate investigation of this situation, and urge the taking of testimony relative to structural strengthening of liberty ships at No. 3 hatch."

Cash Advances For Aged to Rise

PORTLAND, Ore. — The average cash advance to aged persons in Oregon will be increased to $30.33 on Jan. 1, compared with $24.95 a year ago, the state public welfare administrator has announced.

Miss Loa Howard, administrator, pointed out that, including medical and other aids, amounts received by individuals in some instances surpasses the $40 legal maximum allowed for cash benefits.

Old age assistance was increased for 1578 persons as result of cases reviewed under direction of the commission in cooperation with county officials. Although Multnomah county has completed review of cases, many counties are continuing to check their lists.

Increased Acreage For Hops Forecast

SALEM, Ore. — Willamette valley hop growers estimate 2000 additional acres will be planted to hops in 1944 in view of an exceptionally heavy current demand and forecasts for a good market.

The Marion county recorder's office reported 83 contracts for hops had been filed by one dealer. Most contracts were based on a five year period.

BEATS OPE TO IT — SAN JOSE, Cal. — Elmer Davis, 31, did not wait for the OPA to ask: "Where's Elmer?" Before Justice of the Peace Grandin Miller on a charge of speeding at 75 miles per hour and asked by the judge how he thought he could make peace with the OPA, Elmer replied: "Oh, I've already taken care of that. I've sold my car and turned in gas coupons."

TODAY on the HOME FRONT

by JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE

WASHINGTON.—If you're bewildered by the rapid recent developments such as the steel workers' walkout and the railroad workers' demands for higher pay—you have plenty of company in the best informed Washington circles.

Some of the confusion and uneasiness in wartime Washington was revealed when one of the more highly placed officials charged with keeping down living costs accused congress of a "run out" on the government's "frank against inflation."

Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina and a public member of the WLB, said during a press conference: "Congress has run out, as matters now stand, on prices, taxes, re-negotiation and what have you."

What he meant was this: The WLB is supposed to be keeping down wages but congress has moved to let living costs climb, which means that workers would demand higher wages—as they are doing now.

Congress more than a year ago passed a law designed to prevent inflation and authorized the president to take steps to prevent it. Those steps included OPA controls on prices and rents and WLB controls on wages. Everything was supposed to be kept in line, and all in the same line.

The WLB ruled that workers were not entitled to any more than a 15 per cent increase over the wages they were earning Jan. 1, 1941. When the WLB made that rule in Nov., 1942, living costs had climbed 17 over January, 1941. But the WLB figured living costs and wages were close enough.

Meanwhile John L. Lewis' mine workers made wage demands which WLB said exceeded that formula called "little steel."

Italy Invasion Just Gamble When Yanks Hit Salerno

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGERIA.—Allied headquarters revealed that the fifth army at the time of the original Salerno landings was composed of just one American division and two British divisions and that the whole Italian operation was a gamble the success of which hung by a thread for a while.

A detailed review of the Italian campaign and the lessons it had provided was given at a press conference by Capt. Vincent Ruvet of Torrington, Conn. The review was supported by a British colonel from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's personal operations staff. They gave this account:

"Because the campaign in Sicily did not end until August 17 and weeks are required to prepare a division for an amphibious operation, only three divisions were available to Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark for his fifth army at its initial landing.

Previously the eighth army with little more than a corps of British and Canadian troops had landed on the toe of Italy Sept. 3 and by Sept. 8 had advanced 55 miles.

Not all the personnel of the three divisions could be landed at once.

Two days after the initial landings the fifth army still had less than three full divisions although Clark built up his forces as rapidly as possible and was pushing ahead.

In the meantime the Germans brought up reinforcements and launched a full-scale armored attack down the north side of the Sele river.

Conclusions drawn from the campaign by special American and British observers at the front:

1. Soundness of basic training as given American and British soldiers has been proved.

2. Infantry still is the "queen of the battle," but men must be in top physical condition and display initiative.

3. Air bursts by American artillery have been particularly effective.

Eventually the miners, who had demanded $2 a day, got about $2.18 a day.

But it was done in such a way that the WLB said its formula was preserved. The miners didn't get a straight increase. They got extra money for extra work and some expenses.

Then congress was confronted with the government's demands to appropriate subsidies to keep down food prices. Congress is re-belling against that idea. Yet administration officials say without the subsidies prices will rise.

The administration asked congress to raise 10 1/2 billion dollars in new taxes. Congress, aware of the 1944 elections and that high taxes are not popular, has decided to raise only about two billion dollars.

Oil companies wanted 35 cents a barrel extra on crude oil. OPA said no. Congress so far has said "yes" although that action is still incomplete.

There is a law compelling war contract holders to submit them to renegotiations. This renegotiation is intended to cut down profits. But congress has moved to eliminate this. Critics of the congressional move say it will mean huge war profits for manufacturers.

And that brings the whole home front crisis down to a dollar-and-cent basis. Living costs, in spite of government efforts to control them, are 8 1/2 or 9 per cent higher than they were last November when the WLB froze wages.

So labor is looking for an increase. Critics of congress say that body is yielding to pressure groups which want higher prices. Critics of labor say that group is taking advantage of the war emergency to press its demands for higher wages.

Russia Gets 7000 Planes

WASHINGTON.—Foreign Economic Administrator Leo G. Crowley reported that almost 7000 planes were sent to Russia through October as part of $3,550,443,000 worth of lend-lease shipments to the U.S.S.R.

Crowley pointed out that more planes have been sent to Russia than to any other area under the lend-lease program.

The red army also has received from the United States more than 3500 tanks, 130,000 submachine guns, almost 150,000 trucks, 25,000 jeeps, 225,000 field telephones and 750,000 miles of field telephone wire, he said in a report on lend-lease operations.

The report covered all lend-lease material sent to the Soviet Union through last October. Russia was declared eligible for lend-lease on Nov. 7, 1941.

Crowley said that military items accounted for about 56 per cent of lend-lease shipments, based on dollar value, to Russia.

Military items accounted for $1,991,102,000 of the total shipments; $964,788,000 were industrial materials, and $594,555,000 were in foodstuffs and agricultural products.

Industrial items—which include more than 1,000,000 tons of steel, almost 350,000 tons of non-ferrous metals, almost 400,000 tons of chemicals and explosives, 600,000 tons of petroleum products and more than 18,000 metal cutting tools—have helped the Soviet Union to expand its production of munitions, he said. Food shipments of wheat, flour, meat, fats and oils, offset the loss of crops resulting from the Nazi invasion of a large part of Russia's most fertile lands, Crowley said. He added that although these shipments were a very small fraction of the total U.S. supply, they have been vital for maintaining red army rations.

Included in the food shipments were more than 10,000 tons of seeds. Crowley said American shipments to Russia during the first 10 months of 1943 were 63 per cent higher than in the entire 12 months of 1942.
