

Surgical Dressings Work Listed at Vida

VIDA - The Vida Red Cross surgical dressings class is making a change in the number of hours of work. Starting Thursday, June 22, the class will meet afternoons only from 1:00 to 4:00 o'clock each Thursday until further notice.

The Vida unit has received a very urgent call from headquarters for all women to come and work on 4x8 dressings this Thursday. The supervisor, Mrs. John West, urges all women who have received training to make a special effort to attend. More women to learn the work are needed. All women of the community and nearby communities can give three hours one afternoon a week for this work as the demand for these dressings, is more urgent now than before.

Mrs. West states that the change in hours was made in hopes of having a better attendance. Arrangements have been made to have an older girl supervise the play of children on the school grounds, so mothers with children old enough to play and care for themselves will be able to bring them. The children will not be allowed to enter the room where work is done on the dressings. It is hoped that this service will enable many more mothers to come who have been unable to leave their children.

Dance Planned
The dance given by the McKenzie River Active club Saturday night was well attended. The club is planning another dance for July 1, which will be in the form of a Fourth of July dance. Mr. and Mrs. Grant March Jr. will be in charge of general arrangements. Members are asked to refer to their program books for other special information concerning committees and refreshments. Mrs. John West, who was general chairman of the dance held Saturday, thanked all who attended for their patronage; also all members who helped with refreshments and tickets, also the musicians Mr. and Mrs. Carol Lansberry and Mrs. Rosalind Clark.

Authority Tells Why Farmers Buy Bonds

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In the following article, Mark T. Buchanan, acting chairman, division of farm management and agricultural economics, Washington State college, tells why a farmer should buy and keep war bonds - now known more appropriately as "invasion bonds.")

By MARK T. BUCHANAN
During the early stages of an inflationary period a farmer should talk like a pessimist and act like an optimist. He should extend himself by means of credit and take advantage of the rising price situation.

During the latter part of an inflationary period he should talk like an optimist and act like a pessimist. He should liquidate his debt and put as many inflationary dollars as possible into a fixed investment. No fixed investment is more satisfactory for this purpose than war bonds of the United States.

In addition to laying aside present money to purchase war bonds, there are several other reasons why farmers should buy and keep war bonds. Reserve for Needed Replacements and Improvements. Every farmer knows that his machinery and equipment gradually wear out and become obsolete. During this time when new machinery and equipment is difficult to obtain, he should lay aside funds with which to replace this equipment when it becomes more readily available following the war.

Prevent Inflation. This war is costing twice as much per year as the total cost of World War I. To the extent that the government can borrow this required money from individuals out of savings or funds that otherwise would be available for living, inflation will be averted. That is why the government is much more interested in selling bonds to individuals than in selling them to banks.

Protection. This country and the war effort have been blessed with six successive years of phenomenal crop yields and agricultural production. If a penny is tossed six times and comes up heads every time, the probability of the seventh toss is still 50-50, heads and tails. Although the succession of good crop years does not necessarily portend crop failure to come, nevertheless crop failure is always something that should be considered possible. Money invested in war bonds will provide protection for living expenses and capital during the difficult years.

Safe Investment. As a rule the paying off of the "mortgage" is a farmer's best investment. During the war years, however, many farmers have accomplished this, and are now seeking a safe investment for extra cash. No investment is safer than the bonds of our government. Not only is this investment a safe one, but the returns are attractive. Series E bonds held for 10 years return interest of 2.9 per cent, compounded annually - in 10 years $4.00 for each $3.00 put in.

Patriotic Motive. Not to be forgotten is the fact that this war must be won. Farmers have more sons and daughters in the service per family than any other group of our population. We must provide the men in the invasion with the planes, tanks, guns, ships, and other materials necessary to speed their return home.
