

Idaho Sawmill Men Refuse to Work

LEWISTON, Ida., July 1.—Operations virtually were ceased at the huge Clearwater plant of the Potlatch Forests, Inc. today when nearly 1,000 day sawmill workers refused to go on shift. Work stoppage began last night when 200 night shift employees in the production department of the mill refused to continue work over a dispute centering around alteration of the day and night shift. The union is demanding a monthly rotation of the day and night shifts with differential pay for night workers. The workers now are rotated every two months. The company objected to the change, holding that it lowers efficiency, results in less production and presents a tremendous problem in keeping time records. The company offered the workers several alternatives—a 60-day rotation policy with differential pay for the night shift; a three-month and two-month rotation with differential pay for the night shift workers; or a 30-day shift change without differential pay. The union was meeting today to consider the company's offers.

Japs Refuse Induction, Get Prison Sentences

DENVER, July 1.—Eleven American-born Japanese youths who refused to enter the army on the grounds their rights as citizens had been removed when they were evacuated from the west coast, today were sentenced to prison terms ranging from 10 to 18 months. The defendants, all from the Amache relocation center in southeastern Colorado, were found guilty by U. S. District Judge J. Foster Symes, who said it was not his court's duty to rule upon the fairness of the evacuation of Japanese-Americans.

Drop In Bombshell Dropped

ample of an industrial boom town. When a government contract was cancelled at Morgantown, N. C., it was like a bombshell to the people, and other such bombshells will be dropped as the war effort recedes, the lecturer prophesied. The National Carbon-Electric had built a war plant in Morgantown at a cost of seven and one-half million dollars, and the plant was only in operation a few months when the government decided it didn't need more carbon, he said. At Akron, Ohio, Davidson had the opportunity of viewing the achievements of the Goodrich Rubber company in the synthetic rubber field, giant pontoons which could be used for bridges, rubber gas tanks, and tires which can carry astronomical mileage. "In 1941 the Federal government approached four rubber companies and asked them to get together and produce 2500 tons of synthetic rubber. Today they have produced 800,000 tons of synthetic rubber and have proven for all time that the United States is dependent on no other country for rubber; indeed they have solved America's transportation problem."
