Bullet Ends Raids Of Cattle-Killing Bear

MEDFORD, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Old Crip, the 600-pound cattle-killing brown bear which roamed the Dutchman peak area for years with a price on his head, is dead today.

L. L. Lewis, government hunter, crawled to within a few feet of the animal to fire the fatal shot, after dogs brought the bear to bay in a dense thicket southwest of here.

The bear, crippled by a shot in the left hind leg some years earlier, made—despite his injury—such inroads on range cattle that livestockmen offered repeated rewards for his capture.

Midnight Ruling Irks George Tweed

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Chief Radioman George Ray Tweed, who played hide and seek with the Japs on Guam for 31 months, ran up against the midnight ruling for servicemen last night—and he didn't like it a bit.

When he played his check at a Portland night club at 11:55 p. m. the cashier warned him that he had only 5 more minutes "because you are in uniform."

Tweed left, but when talking to friends later he questioned why a man in the uniform of his country, indicating that he was ready and willing to die for it, should be made to leave public places two hours before civilians.

Western Governors Ask Federal Road Aid

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Northwest governors meeting here tonight announced that they would ask congress to enact the post-war financing bill which would give the five states $750,000,000 for highway construction. The action was made public after a late afternoon meeting of the five governors from Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Wyoming and Montana.

and "in the opinion as to the best methods for their solution."

Huge Task Ahead

He warned, however, that a proper view of the Pacific war effort must take into consideration "the enormous size" of the Pacific, pointing out that the Hawaiian islands, for example, no longer can be regarded as an outpost.

As to the future defense of the Pacific against aggressive attacks by nations such as Japan, Roosevelt said it was "essential" that "our control" of a sea and air navigation line extending from Puget sound to northern China must be "undisputed" after the war.

"You who live in the Pacific northwest," he said, "have realized that a line for sea and air navigation following the great circle course from Puget sound to Siberia and northern China passes very close to the Alaskan coast and thence westward along the line of the Aleutian islands. Must Control Route

"From the point of national defense, therefore, it is essential that our control of this route shall be undisputed."

He went on to say that "everybody in Siberia and China" knows "we have no ambitions to acquire land on the continent of Asia," but that despite our opposition to aggression, the American people were "insistent" that other nations must not tip the "foreseeable future" be allowed to commit "sneak attacks."

"Therefore," he added, "it is essential that we be fully prepared to prevent them for all time to come. The word and honor of Japan cannot be trusted."

Roosevelt followed this theme by declaring the necessity of new defense bases for this country—bases nearer to Japan. He spoke, too, of the defensive need for some of the hundreds of islands in the Pacific which nominally are territories of other United Nations.

No Possessions Sought

"We have no desire to ask for any possession of the United Nations," he said, "but the United Nations who are working so well with us in the winning of the war will, I am confident, be glad to join with us in protection against aggression and in machinery to prevent aggression."

"With them and with their help I am sure that we can agree completely so that Central and South America will be as safe against attack from the south Pacific as North America is going to be from the north Pacific itself."

Roosevelt looked tanned from his ocean voyage through the Pacific. He spoke directly under the upraised forward gun of a sleek destroyer. Surrounding him were members of his personal military and naval staff who accompanied him on his journey which began when he left Washington on July 13.

Pvt. Evensen Wounded

Pvt. Lloyd C. Evensen, of the U. S. marine corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alph Evensen, 1145 Chambers street, recently was wounded in action in the south Pacific, and now is in a naval hospital in Hawaii, receiving treatment for a broken leg. He has written his parents that he would be grateful for letters from friends, and gives his address as U. S. Navy Hospital, Navy 10, W. D. E. 3, FPO San Francisco, Calif.

Private Evensen, a graduate of Eugene high school in 1939, joined the navy soon after Pearl Harbor was attacked, and has been overseas now for 22 months.

PFC Floyd McKay Wounded

Word has reached Eugene friends that PFC Floyd C. McKay, 26, formerly employed at the J. C. Penny company store here, was wounded in action in France, July 13, and is hospitalized in England. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford McKay of Roseburg, but made his home in Eugene.

At Your Grocers'

Lieut. Com. Hanns Sent to New Post

CHARLESTON, S. C.—Lieutenant Commander Satolli W. Hanns, USN, formerly of 1287 Oak street, Eugene, Ore., has reported for duty at Wilmington, N. C., as executive officer of the sixth naval district commissioning detail.

He was formerly assigned as officer in charge of the commissioning detail of the Charleston navy yard and was succeeded in that position by Lieutenant Commander H. M. Ericsson, USN, of West Hampton Beach, Long Island, New York.

A veteran of 26 years in the navy, Commander Hanns was in Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, when the Japs attacked, and came through without injury, though his ship was bombed and strafed.

The guns on his vessel were among the first to spit back at the Japs after the surprise attack.

He has spent considerable time in Alaskan waters and was in the thick of the Aleutian Islands fights. He left the Aleutians in June, 1943, after having participated in the capture of Attu.

Commander Hanns graduated from the University of Oregon in 1918 and joined the navy. He had boot training at the Bremerton navy yard and entered an officer candidate school, being commissioned ensign on Jan. 2, 1919. He served a number of years in the Pacific and Atlantic fleets, three years with the special service squadron at Panama and spent three years in the Philippines. He had three tours of duty at the Philadelphia navy yard, and served one year, under the war department, in command of a veterans' CCC camp.

His two brothers, P. J. and Stephen J. Hanns, and his sister, Mrs. J. A. Kremmel, reside in Eugene. His sister, Mrs. Rosina H. Bruhn, resides at Oakland, Calif., and his sister, Mrs. Viola E. Williams, resides in Los Angeles.

ing lot at the corner of Tenth Avenue west and Charnelton street at 7 a. m. The yards that have reported to the farm labor office as intending to pick Sunday are those of Peter Evankuk of the Eugene district, G. E. Hawkins in the Cottage Grove district, Carl Kirk near Junction City and Frank Rice near Coburg.

The farm labor office is calling attention to the fact that standard pay is being paid for all pickers and good wages are being made by all. There is free transportation and children who desire will be assigned to platoons supervised by adults. All pickers are requested to take their lunch along.

Information Center

Information regarding the work may be had at the county farm labor office at 979 Olive street. The telephone number is 1831.

Cooperation of Eugene citizens in picking the county's food crop was urged Saturday by William Lush, chairman of the retail merchants division of the chamber of commerce. He stated that Eugene stores were 100 per cent behind the move to save Lane county's food crop and that their management were urging customers to get out into the fields and pick.

an entire battalion of their comrades who had been isolated in the Mortain sector.

In the most sweeping attacks since D-day against enemy transport in France, swarms of allied planes Saturday destroyed or damaged the amazing total of 325 locomotives, 2,860 railway cars, 172 ammunition cars and 400 army trucks.

Indirectly responsible for gains in both sectors were the sweeping operations across the German rear by American flying columns which have not been officially pin-pointed since they left Le Mans five days ago.

The whereabouts of these Yanks, who Berlin insists are led by Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., obviously is the key to the entire situation and for exactly that reason the situation beyond Le Mans "must remain obscure for security reasons," it was announced.

The blackout of official news is typical of any major offensive, particularly when the stakes are so great. It can only be said that the American offensive is progressing with a success that still has many observers groggy and every hour that the Germans remain in the Vire and Caen areas their peril grows.

War Moves Expected In Mediterranean

ROME, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Allied air might was thrown against the southern approaches to Hitler's crumbling European fortress today for the second time within 24 hours, with 750 U. S. heavy bombers scouring German military defenses along the southern coast of France.

There was a feeling among the public that momentous developments in the Mediterranean were impending as high American military figures arrived to join Prime Minister Churchill, who already is in Rome. The arrival of Churchill alone was interpreted by Popolo, organ of the Christian Democracy party, as a sign of the importance the Italian theater of war "may assume in the near future."
