worse comedies and musicals this year.

Certainly near the top of the crime list is this film, which traces the history of a murder and the people who were involved in the resulting legal actions.

A glad-handing insurance salesman (Fred MacMurray) comes to the house of an oil man to collect for an overdue payment on a policy. He forgets his business when he sees the client's beautiful blonde wife (Barbara Stanwyck). From her lengthy questioning he decides she is planning a murder, shortly agrees to help her.

After the cleverly-planned crime has been committed, he begins to learn of his accomplice's past, finds that she has murdered a woman to whom she was a nurse. Finally he confesses.

The whole film is well handled; characterization excellent, musical score good, camera work tops.

Adult drama; sometimes morbid; don't take Junior.

Another Week

IN HOLLYWOOD

Am Miller got first B'way bid this week from Billy Rose, who wants to add her to cast of "The Seven Lively Arts."

Charles Vidor is shooting around star Irene Dunne, laid up with sinus infection. Damon Runyon slated to script "I'll Be Seeing You," which Al Jolson will produce for Columbia.

Allen Jenkins will again return to the screen in Goldwyn's "The Wonder Man" after trekking 57,000 miles to entertain troops.

Joel McCrea, Brian Donlevy and Sonny Tufts are slated for leads in Para's technicolor film, "The Virginian," based on famed novel by Owen Wister. Bruce Cabot will return to screen soon after two years with army in Africa. Lillian Gish will return to screen in star role in "Miss Susie Slagle."

Columbia has signed Harry Owens' band for "Song of Tahiti," island song starring Jinx Falkenburg.

Ann Sheridan will take lead in Warner's "Calamity Jane," story of rough-and-ready frontier woman. Alexis Smith will do role of Nora in re-filming of "Of Human Bondage."
