

Orides Arrange Monday Meeting

Orides club, an organization for independent women at the University of Oregon and including in its membership many Eugene girls, has notices out for its first gathering of the new school year for Monday evening, seven-thirty o'clock, second floor of Gerlinger hall.

All independent women students are invited.

Officers of Orides this year are: Miss Lucille Bryant, president; Miss Caroline Brockway, secretary; Miss Norma Aalvik, reporter; Miss Ruth Robertson, treasurer.

Orides was organized originally several years ago to provide an independent sorority atmosphere for non-affiliated girls, especially for town or Eugene girls, but has grown so as now to include all independent women on the campus.

Among activities and honors coming to the group the past year were the following: Presidency of the Women's Athletic association (Miss Mary Anne Lawson); president of the Independent Student association (Miss Alice Harter); member of ASVO executive council (Miss Charlotte Calder); Emerald associate editor and worker, Miss Joanne Nichols; editor of Old Oregon, alumni magazine, Miss Margie Robinson; members of campus symposium, Misses Caroline Brockway and Alice Harter; University Symphony orchestra and band members, Wilma Fleming Mathews and Miss Dorothy Lenhart; basketball intramural championship; Phi Chi Theta membership, Miss Calder; Theta Sigma Phi membership, Miss Margie Robinson; Phi Beta Kappa membership and one of senior six, Miss Robinson; Phi Beta membership, Miss Lenhart.

Attendance, committee work, and a campus grade point of two-point, C average, are pledge duties required before initiation.
