Looking toward their first concert of the season—the annual Christmas program on Dec. 11—members of the Women's Choral club of Eugene, Tuesday, launched their yearly associate membership drive.

Each member is working on the drive to sell the associate memberships, Mrs. Frank Gordonier being in charge. Nearing the 100 mark, the club this year has its largest membership in its history. During the late fall a get-acquainted party was held, refreshments being served. Mrs. E. W. Armes was acting social chairman for the event in the absence of Mrs. C. C. Cole. The Women's Choral club is one of Eugene's community-service singing groups, appearing on many civic and community programs each year, in addition to its two regular full concerts. Maud Densmore is chairman of the organization.

Trent Schoolboy Hit By School Bus

Gordon Casey, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Casey of Trent, was seriously injured Monday at about 4 p. m. when his bicycle was struck by a school bus, west of Trent. He suffered scalp lacerations, concussion, a fractured left thigh and lower leg, bruises and shock. His condition was not regarded as critical Tuesday, unless complications should develop. He is at Eugene hospital. Bound for his home, and traveling west, the boy had a package tied to the handlebars of his bicycle, it is reported. The high school bus, going east, struck the handlebars.

Eugene Girl Top Scholar At U. O.

Leading all members of the senior class in the University of Oregon in grade point average with a remarkable 3.96 out of a possible 4.00, Shirley Kathryn Anderson, 738 Twelfth Avenue East, Eugene, was elected to the Oregon Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa as member of the Senior Six at a meeting of the chapter Monday evening. Miss Anderson is a mathematics major.

The other five honored by election are Charles S. Politz, journalism, and Shirley Druisilla Johnson, architecture and allied arts, both of Portland; Ruth Kay Collins, journalism, Fresno, Calif.; Vivian Marcella Anderson, business administration, Tillamook, and William Howard Buell, English, Lakeview.

Arrangements for initiation are yet to be announced. Miss Mary E. Kent, for 17 years secretary-treasurer of the chapter, was elevated to the presidency for the ensuing year; Dr. F. M. Combelleck was chosen vice-president, and Dr. E. C. A. Lesch, secretary-treasurer. The chapter passed a resolution honoring the memory of one of its members, the late Miss Ida Patterson, who for 45 years was a teacher in the city school of Eugene. Miss Patterson, inspiration to many a successful man and woman, entered the university as a preparatory student in 1876, the year it opened, and was graduated 10 years later. She was elected to Phi Beta Kappa when the Oregon chapter was installed 21 years ago, as a recognition of her scholarship in the university and her influence as an educator.

Reds Forging Miskolc Trap For Germans

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Red army troops closed in today on northern escape routes for enemy troops rolled back to the outskirts of Miskolc, Hungary's fifth city, as the Germans declared the Russians had opened their winter offensive far to the north against 300,000 nazis pocketed in western Latvia.

Late front reports said a German withdrawal from Miskolc appeared imminent. Nazi escape routes to the east and west of Miskolc, 58 miles northeast of besieged Budapest, already were cut. One Red army column had battled to the outskirts of Eger, 22 miles southwest of Miskolc, Russian front dispatches said.

Another Soviet armored division which had rolled through Dnyegor, three miles west of Miskolc and within 20 miles of the old Czech-Slovakian frontier, veered north to grapple for a hold on road and rail communications between Miskolc and the rail hub of Losonc (Lucenec) on the Slovak border.

Berlin reports on the Latvian offensive said the Russians had thrown huge infantry, tank, plane and artillery forces against the Germans on a 30-mile front near Liepaja, one of the two Baltic escape ports left to the Nazis.

Lumber Industry To Be Honored On Air

The lumber industry, in which Oregon plays a vital part, will be the first of six major United States industries to be recognized in a series of national radio broadcasts for their part in the war production program and in promoting sale of war bonds.

Tuesday evening, from 8:30 to 9 p. m., over Columbia broadcasting system stations (KOIN in Portland), a program which will originate in New York and move to Seattle will tell what the lumber men have been doing for the war and the part they are playing in the success of bond sales. The programs are part of the sixth war loan drive.

Stewart Holbrook, Portland, a leading northwest author and forest authority, will be master of ceremonies for the Seattle portion of the broadcast, which probably will contain mention of several Oregon mills. Many of the plants in the Willamette valley are flying the minute-man flag, awarded by the treasury department to those concerns which meet certain requirements for war bond purchase.

Rent Ordinance—(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1)

The ordinance states, "It is urgently necessary for the maintenance of adequate living space at a reasonable price, and for the effective prosecution of the war effort, and for the protection of the health of persons engaged therein, that rentals, occupancies and evictions be regulated."

Should it be declared unconstitutional, there would be no regulations of rentals in the city, unless the office of price administration should deem the local situation bad enough to establish federal rent control. Daniel Gage, district rental control official for the OPA in Portland, in a visit here Oct. 21, said that agency could make no decision until the bureau of labor statistics finished its report on local conditions, which was under way.

Milo Ryan, rental information specialist for the Portland-Seattle-Spokane OPA districts, who was in Eugene last week, reported the bureau of labor samplings indicated that 40 per cent of the city's rents had increased 15 to 20 per cent. He said his visit did not indicate that OPA intended to extend its control here.

Gage suggested that the local committee do its best to keep the rental situation in hand here until OPA has decided whether it would come in. He pointed out that some time, possibly several months, might elapse before the bureau of labor's report and the possible entrance of OPA.

The complaint against Mrs. Dismore charges her with refusing to accept the committee's ruling on the rental for a "certain cottage" at 349 12th Avenue west, that she failed to adopt the figure set as maximum rental and that she served eviction notice on her tenant, who had requested the committee's action.

war and another big increase coming at the close of the depression. With Oregon's population due to increase greatly in the post-war period as the state makes new strides in developing its natural resources and industries, Dr. Hunter said, it is a matter of common sense to expect a huge increase in enrollment right after the war.

The story of state support in Oregon doesn't encourage any such increase, he commented.

On another chart, the speaker showed that during the past decade the state provided only 9 per cent of the funds for new physical plant and equipment in the institutions of higher learning in Oregon, all other support coming from federal or self-liquidating sources. In comparison with other western states, the Oregon total is pitifully poor, the speaker commented.

Why does California, as illustration, give so much support to education? he asked. Because, California has realized it is a matter of common sense, a matter of dollars and cents value to give attention to its valuable human resources, its people, he answered.

For the next biennium from student fees and self programs it is planned to begin a $2,518,000 building program, while in the same period the state will be asked for $2,237,000 towards the institutions of higher learning. The first program will be for such buildings as the Erb Memorial union building at the University of Oregon and the new basketball pavilion at Oregon State college; while the state funds will be used for classroom, laboratory, and instructional buildings.

During the 10-year building program the state will be called on further to supply $630,000 for the second biennium of the 10-year
