

More Paper Urged for Textbooks

WASHINGTON—A special investigating committee recommended that the war production board give publishers additional grants of paper to alleviate the serious shortage of elementary and high school textbooks, the WPB said here.

Slightly more than half of the present shortage of several million school books is due to lack of paper, the WPB said. The remainder of the deficiency is due to manufacturing delays. Without alleviation now, the shortage is expected to become "even more acute" next year.

The committee was composed of representatives of general educational publishing companies. Textbook publishers currently are able to produce only 85 per cent of the number of books produced in 1942, a normal year.

U.S. Army Posts Halt Cigarette Sales in England

LONDON. (AP)—Sale of cigarettes has been discontinued at all U. S. army post exchanges in England with the exception of those at air force combat stations.

A critical shortage for use of combat forces on the continent caused the shutdown on sales, the army said. English brands cost about 50 cents for a package of 20.

Hospital patients, replacements and combat personnel in rest areas still will be able to smoke their favorite brands from the states.

PARIS.—Soldiers and officers in Paris and many other rear areas were told Monday they could get no cigarettes, although the black market has them at $4 per pack.

Combat troops at the front recently were on short supply, but now they have plenty.

A large amount of army cigarettes has been diverted, by one means or another, into the black market. Vendors peddled American cigarettes at $1.50 a pack two weeks ago to war-wealthy Parisians. Now since they have boosted the price to $4, they still are getting more offers than they can fill.

Officers in the Paris and rear areas were put on reduced cigarette rations last week and enlisted men got none. The scarcity here is linked to supply and transport problems connected with the offensive. They expected troops in the rear area to get cigarettes next week.

ANSWERS

1 427 gallons per capita, per year. The daily life of the average American is just about 14 times as mechanized as the average European's. Even during peacetime, it takes more than a million Americans working full time in the oil industry to keep the machines of the other 129 million fueled and lubricated.

2 There are 8,267 individual oil companies in the U.S. For their work of finding, drilling, processing and transporting petroleum products to you they average about 8/10ths of a cent profit per gallon.

3 $7,269,199 looks like a lot of money, but it was divided among a lot of people—31,375. So net profits averaged just $231.69 per stockholder-owner.

4 $39,504—That's why, in some industries today, you have to pool the money of a lot of people under legal agreements known as corporations. Very few individuals could finance the "tools" of heavy industry.

5 1 in 12—But by dividing this risk among a lot of people, as Union does ($230,000 ÷ 31,375 stockholders = $7.33 per owner), we have enough capital to keep going until we find oil.

6 Competition. No nation in the world has had as many oil companies (8,267) competing for the business. No nation has had less governmental control of the industry. As a result, the cost of "regular" gasoline to you (exclusive of taxes) dropped from 29.7c per gallon in 1920 to 13 1/2c in 1939. And the quality climbed from 52 octane to 78.

7 24 1/2 million—Union Oil employees got approximately $5.21 in wages for every $1.00 that went to the stockholders.
