

Questions And Answers On Work-or-Fight Bill Compiled

STON—Here are questions and answers on the work-or-fight bill and how it affects 4-F's and the 18 to 45 year bracket. It is the purpose of the bill to force all 18-45 year old men into 4-F's, into essential or non-essential service.

Q. What are the nation's estimated manpower requirements?
A. The armed forces need 900,000 additional men and industry 700,000 by July 1.

Q. Is this measure national service?
A. It is for men between 18 and 45. It is, however, a modified form of full national service which would apply to both men and women and cover males in age brackets higher than 45.

Q. How many of the 4,500,000 men in 4-F are in essential industry?
A. One million are listed as being in essential activities; probably another 500,000 are in essential industry but have not yet been so classified, and another 500,000, it is estimated, are not capable of work. That leaves between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 4-F's in non-essential activities.

Q. What other deferment groups are there?
A. A total of 6,725,000 men have been deferred to industry and agriculture and 7,000,000 are between 38 and 45 and have not been classified. Selective service estimates that 3,500,000 of those occupationally deferred would be fit for military service.

New Home Equipment Spots Postwar Market

MINNEAPOLIS—One of the major factors in post-war housing, aside from the need for volume construction, will be the modernizing of homes with new equipment which industry has discovered as a by-product of war manufacture or had developed just before Pearl Harbor. C. B. Sweatt, vice-president of the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator company, said today in an interview.

Estimates of home construction during the first post-war year range from 300,000 to 1,300,000 units, Sweatt observed, with the larger figure reflecting need while the lower estimate is based on fear of reconversion problems, including early material shortages.

"There can be no doubt, however," he added, "that no matter how many new homes are built, they will be constructed around the idea of more comfortable and more efficient living than we have known in the past."

Established homes as well as newly built houses, Sweatt pointed out, will benefit by the new equipment.

"The post-war home will be better lighted, better heated, cleaner, cooler and warmer," Sweatt said. "It will be a better house inside and out."
