Security Board Says, 'No Data On Earnings'
 PORTLAND, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Just in case you get the idea—as many another Oregon citizen—that the social security board can furnish you with a statement of your 1944 earnings for income tax purposes, this will set you straight: Portland field office manager of the board James Peebles says you can't and here's why. The board gets hundreds of requests for statements every year just about this time. He emphasized that while the records are kept, they are not available in time to meet income tax deadlines.

Mexican Manuscripts
 To be on display in the anthropology department of the University of Oregon as soon as work is completed further identifying them are two early Mexican manuscripts loaned to the university. One, painted on leather, is a combination map and pictorial story of the adventures of an individual or possibly a tribe, crossing the mountains to a school. The place names are all names of saints, a common practice in Mexico making it difficult to identify the locality of the map. Descriptions are basically in old Spanish but break frequently into Indian names and words. The second manuscript is a copy of an early Mexican Indian book and tells, in colorful pictures, the story of the coming of the Spanish, their alliance with a native chief, the conquering of another native chief by the Spaniards and the first group of natives and the following celebration. The descriptions on the manuscript are in some language so far unidentified by the anthropology department, although the Spanish alphabet is employed for it.

Keep the coffee pot, coffee and measuring spoon or cup at the place where coffee is made and An INSULATED house is a comfortable house, warm and cozy.—Twin Oaks, 669 High.
