Franco Avers He Was Never Influenced By Nazi Doctrines

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of two or more columns on Generalissimo Francisco Franco by Dewitt MacKenzie, to whom the chief of the Spanish state has given one of his rare interviews.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

MADRID—Generalissimo Francisco Franco, chief of the Spanish state, has granted me an interview which has taken one of the most unusual turns I've encountered in a long experience with heads of governments and diplomats.

Highlights of his statements are these:

He is anxious for good relations with the United States. He never subscribed to the policies or to the political views of Hitler and Mussolini and he condemns their persecutions. Spain is developing along her own lines, uninfluenced by either Germany or Italy, and he (Franco) is heading for absolute democratic rule by the people.

On the Spanish Monarchy

As for the hotly debated question of a return of the Spanish monarchy, he says: "It will be approached when this is suitable to the interests of the nation. When this time comes, it will have to be the Spaniards themselves who pronounce themselves in its favor."

What happened about our meeting was this: The generalissimo rarely gives interviews, and in granting my request for one asked that I submit my questions in advance. This I did, and when I arrived at his residence—the fine old royal palace at El Pardo near Madrid—I had little hope that I should get more than formal replies to my written queries.

While awaiting my summons in the truly regal reception room, amidst the Goya tapestries and other priceless treasures, I decided I should try for a more open and intimate discussion of Spain's problems.

I was encouraged in this decision by the most cordial greeting of the generalissimo when I was ushered into his private room.

Adds Leading Question

Accordingly, when we had discussed the formal queries and answers, I said to him: "If it is permissible I should like to ask another question. It's a very blunt one, and my sole purpose in putting it is to provide an opportunity for an answer which may help relations between our two countries."

El Caudillo gave me a questioning glance but nodded acquiescence and I hung my question on the line.

"The people of the United States have fought a great war against nazism and fascism. Thousands of our boys have died for this cause. Rightly or wrongly the American public feels that Spain was in effect an ally of Germany and Italy, and it finds it hard to forgive that. Did you subscribe to or support Nazi and fascist policies?"

The generalissimo shook his head.

"No," he declared categorically. "I did not. Spain wasn't influenced by Germany and Italy, but has been developing along its own lines. We condemned all the persecutions which were carried out by those countries. There was no racial trouble in Spain. The Jews weren't persecuted here, nor was any other religion. There is religious freedom for all in Spain."

Declines Nazi Leadings

"Do you subscribe to the political views of Hitler and Mussolini?" I persisted.

He replied emphatically that he did not, and then said in amplification:

"Spain went through a bad civil war, and after such a conflict the country must proceed carefully. It can't jump to another regime haphazardly.

"But I would call attention to the fact that the Cortes has been functioning for three years. The government doesn't make the laws. All the laws which the government recommends go to the Cortes for consideration and possible passage. The Cortes must discuss the measures for at least two months, and frequently its consideration runs much longer. If I, as chief of state, have a measure which I want to see put into effect, I have to take it to the Cortes for approval."

"Does this mean that you are headed for absolute democracy, that is, rule by the people?"

"Yes," answered El Caudillo. "But we must proceed slowly, step by step, until the people are properly prepared."

The generalissimo didn't amplify his reference to the people being "properly prepared," but I have no doubt he had in mind the fact that Spain, being rather set apart from the rest of Europe, has moved slowly through the generations in making major changes.

The chief of state said there was quite a different point of view in the United States with its major political parties. Spain, he continued, had some 20 parties under the late republic, and "foreign countries" got control of Spain's policies. Here again El Caudillo didn't identify the "foreign countries." But the connotation was clear enough. He was referring to communism. He added that this couldn't happen after the revolution which overthrew the republic. He was, of course, the leader of that revolt.

guage aimed at achieving unconditional surrender without an invasion of the Japanese home islands.

Made Prediction Personally Zacharias said he saw Kimmel and Smith between March 26 and 31, 1941, in Kimmel's office at Pearl Harbor. He went there to report on an interview he had at San Francisco with Adm. Kichisaburo Nomura, new Japanese ambassador at Washington.

Zacharias said he told Kimmel that if war came Japan would try a surprise air raid on the fleet in Pearl Harbor, that it would come on a week-end and probably a Sunday morning, and the object would be to destroy four U. S. battleships.

He said he had decided that Japan would have to reduce our fleet by that much to prevent it interfering with Japanese moves southward.

Zacharias said the raid could be made either by seaplanes brought into the area by merchant ships and hidden in the lee of a sparsely settled island. Or, it could be done by planes from aircraft carriers.

He recommended establishment of defensive sea areas around all the islands with a requirement that all merchant ships pass through certain lanes for inspection. In that manner, he said, no seaplanes could be brought in by merchant ships.

He said he predicted that a carrier raid would come from the north because that was the direction of the prevailing winds. He said the carrier force would launch its planes and retreat upwind to escape damage to any capital ships in the striking force.

Zacharias said he specialized in naval intelligence for about 25 years. He said he spoke Japanese "fluently."

Zacharias also explained to the committee a purported "wild goose chase" on which he sent some of the Pacific fleet in October, 1940.

He said that on Oct. 16 he received word from an informer in Mexico that Japan was planning a 12-plane raid the next day aimed at knocking out four U. S. battleships. All the planes would carry bombs and four of them would be suicide pilots with orders to dive down the battleship stacks.

At the same time, Zacharias said, he heard that Adm. J. O. Richardson had arrived at San Pedro, Calif., with three battleships and a heavy cruiser.

Zacharias flew to Los Angeles and told Richardson what he had heard. He said he wasn't able to assure Richardson that there were no Japanese planes in Mexico or Pacific waters that could accomplish such a mission. He said Richardson left the next morning for San Francisco.

pay increases the fact-finder might recommend.

This pledge was solicited by Lewis J. Clark, CIO Packinghouse Workers union president, before he would urge his 193,000 members to go to work for the government. Duration of the "temporary truce" declared by representatives of 55,000 AFL meat cutters and butcher workmen also depends on the fact-finder's report. The CIO wants at least 17 1/2 cents hourly pay increase, and the AFL said it would accept 15 cents.

GM Accused

General Motors corporation faces union charges of refusing to bargain in good faith with the CIO United Auto Workers at a national labor relations board hearing opening today in Detroit.

GM, alone of the automotive industry's "big three," has not made its peace with the UAW. Wage settlements over the weekend will give Ford employes an 18-cent hourly wage increase and Chrysler workers an 18 1/2-cent raise.

The UAW insists General Motors must pay an increase larger than those agreed to by the other big motor makers. The highest GM has offered to date is 13 1/2 cents. A 19 1/2-cent raise recommended by a fact-finding board, which the union said it would accept, was rejected by the company.

The railroad arbitration agreements affected 1,350,000, or approximately 85 per cent, of the country's rail employes. They were entered into by the major roads and 18 of the 20 railroad unions.

Conspicuously absent from the latter stages of the Chicago mediation conference, which brought about the decision to submit wage demands to arbitration, were the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Representatives of these two groups left the conference because the arbitration plan did not cover rules changes asked by the brotherhoods.

The BRT now is conducting a strike vote, and the engineers next month will decide whether to take a similar ballot.
