

Downtown Collision Injures Three

Three persons were injured Wednesday in a collision at Broadway and Charnelton between a car driven by Ramon B. Campbell, 452 10th Avenue west, and a pick-up driven by M. E. Carmichael, 2752 Bell Lane.

Carmichael, C. McCue and Betty Chamberlin, the latter two passengers in Campbell's car, were taken to the Sacred Heart hospital for treatment of shock, bruises and other injuries, none of which was reported as serious.

Carmichael's car was turned around and pushed up over the curb at the intersection. R. E. Chamberlin Jr., Dean Campbell and Mrs. B. Campbell also were passengers in Campbell's car.

Some damage resulted from a 19th and Hilyard sideswiping involving cars driven by James H. Beirnes, 1162 E. street, Springfield, and Junior R. Stults, Crow stage route.

Three hit and run incidents were reported to city police Tuesday. T. I. Dickerson, 931 11th Avenue east, reported that his car was struck as it was parked in front of his residence, and that the driver failed to stop.

Clyde Smith, 1061 Eighth Avenue west, stated that his car was hit as it was parked in front of 14 Lawrence, and J. W. Robinson, route 2, Springfield, reported that his car was hit possibly by the same vehicle, which came through a stop street. He gave chase, but was unable to catch the driver.

TRUMAN TO SPEAK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30—(U.P.)—President Truman will speak for five minutes tonight over all the major networks at about 8:55 PST on a Roosevelt birthday March of Dimes program, the White House announced today.

Flood Rumor—

operated perfectly, according to J. W. McArthur, superintendent of the Eugene water board. People are warned to discount unauthorized alarms and rumors which are attributed to nervousness resulting from the recent flood. It is pointed out that a highly efficient system for flood warning has been worked out by the U. S. Army engineers, with the cooperation of the Red Cross, the state highway department, the state police, the telephone company and the newspapers and radio stations in all parts of the valley.

On a few hours notice, word of any new freshet or flood can be spread directly to every area adjacent to the rivers or subject to flood conditions, and this system proved highly effective in evacuating large areas in advance of the last flood.

More high water trouble this season is still possible, on account of the heavy snowfall in the mountains which could be brought down by protracted warm rains ("a chinook"), but the authorities warn against premature alarms and rumors. They say that with "average luck," the season will pass without any more trouble, and that nobody need fear that the dams will not meet any test.

demand for wage increases. The CIO united steelworkers has accepted President Truman's recommendation of an 18½ cents an hour wage hike, while the U. S. Steel's top offer is a pay boost of 15 cents an hour.

As the effects of the 10-day-old steel strike continued to further curtail operations in allied industries, the action in the national house of representatives was a bill offered as a substitute for fact-finding legislation. The rules committee scheduled a meeting to pave the way for house debate beginning tomorrow.

The measure, which contains several restrictive provisions and calls for a national labor management mediation board, has the support of influential members of both parties with most opposition from congressmen usually considered close friends of organized labor.

John L. Lewis asserted today it was time for labor to "place its internal house in order" and marked the return of his miners to the AFL as "the turning point."

Lewis, claiming 600,000 miners in the United Mine Workers, re-affiliated with the American Federation of Labor—boosting its rolls to 8,800,000 paid-up unionists—and sat for the first time in ten years as a member of the policy-making executive council.

He had broken with the AFL when he founded the CIO a decade ago. Later he quit the CIO over political and personal differences with its leaders.

Lewis did not mention the CIO by name at a press conference held jointly with AFL President William Green, but said he would "leave to the imagination" of reporters how the merger would affect the CIO.

Election Again Asked At Plywood Plant

The AFL lumber and sawmill workers union again filed a request Wednesday for an election to determine whether it or the CIO union shall be the bargaining agent for the nearly 300 employees of the Springfield Plywood corporation.

Search For Victim Of Flood Spurred

Reward of $100 was posted Wednesday for recovery of the body of C. S. Pounds, who fell from a boat and drowned in the flooded McKenzie river above Leaburg dam Dec. 31.

Offer of the reward was made by Manager John Smith of the Lane County Electric Cooperative, employer of Pounds at the time of his disappearance.

Mrs. Eva Pounds, 129 Lawrence street, widow of the man whose body is sought, is denied any form of financial settlement, pending official establishment of his death.

The State Industrial Accident commission office in Salem, however, is asking for affidavits from witnesses of the tragedy. It is expected they will be substituted for a coroner's death certification, F. I. Brown, assistant claim supervisor, said Wednesday, making settlement possible.

In the meantime, though, Mrs. Pounds cannot receive payment of his insurance policy, draw on a postal savings account in her late husband's name, dispose of two automobiles, also in his name, or make a property settlement planned for spring.

Pounds fell out of a boat piloted by Prince Helfrich, Vida, while stringing electric wire across the swollen river 12 miles above Eugene's Leaburg dam. As the workman picked up a 150-pound coil from the bottom of the boat he lost his balance and fell into the stream. To steady his boat, Helfrich threw the coil after the lost man. There is a chance the body may be held in that area, but witnesses are not certain whether his arm might have been caught in the line.

Repair work was attempted after a drifting tree had torn out the line across the river.

Britain's offer to put some of her African colonies under UN trusteeship is first evidence of this new trend.

So once the United Nations organization has been set up and is in working order, Great Britain will use her influence to achieve three things:

1. Dispel international distrust and establish world confidence.
2. Democratize the UNO.
3. Establish a world economic order.

First, she will try to place control of atomic energy in the hands of the security council. This does not mean sharing the secret of atomic energy with all the world, but it does mean placing the atomic bombs now in the United States at the disposal of the security council should the need arise to employ them against an aggressor nation.

Then Great Britain will endeavor to make the United Nations organization more democratic by introducing a provision that at the end of three or five years, the delegates to the UNO should not be appointed by the governments of the member states but should be directly elected by the people of the various countries by universal suffrage of both sexes, exactly as United States senators are now elected.

This would be a long step towards making the United Nations assembly a real world's parliament, whose favor each nation would favor each nation might relinquish a portion of its sovereignty, just as each state in the United States has relinquished a portion of its sovereignty to the federal government.

Trade Barriers Eliminated

Finally, in close cooperation with the United States, Great Britain will try through the economic council of the UNO to establish a new economic world order, based on multilateral trade which, if trade barriers can be successfully eliminated, would some day lead to an international currency.

Demobilization Fever

I have had two letters in two days from a soldier friend I respect personally and professionally. He is on Okinawa and would like to come home. This man realized isolationism wouldn't work at least a year before Pearl Harbor. His eyes were so bad he couldn't get into the army for a long time.

Yet he wants to come home now and sacrifice all which was sought in the war. Demobilization fever has permeated his reason and he is forgetting to think.

Of course there is much that could be done to help the boys pass the time quickly and pleasantly. They could be given furloughs to see nearby sights. Additional entertainment, including movies, could be supplied in their

Rank discriminations could be lessened, now the battle is won.

It must not be forgotten, too, that the majority of American soldiers are doing their jobs well. But always there is the minority, and a few hundred soldiers gathering at the Arc de Triomphe to march down the Champs-Elysees in a hurry home demonstration lighted by torches, do not make the French breathe easier about the Germans on the Rhine.

America is still isolationist, they decide.

In considering the changed foreign policy of the British government, it is important that the American people should remember that the present British government is not a completely socialist government. At the last election the voters did not give the labor party which was returned to power, a mandate to socialize the country's entire economy.

The issue of the election was the nationalization of public utilities and certain key industries, and this is being carried out by as little interference as possible with private enterprise.

Chileans Surveying Lane Lumber Industry

A two-day survey of the lumber industry in Lane county was being conducted Tuesday and Wednesday by a three-man delegation from Chile, Willamette national forest service officials announced Wednesday. The delegation, composed of Antonio Fernandez, Enrique Valenquela, and Paul Ducet, visited the Eugene Plywood corporation Tuesday and the Willamette Valley Wood Chemical company plant in Springfield Wednesday.

The survey is part of a trip which the delegation is making to various lumbering sections of the United States. Enrique Valenquela has been with the Willamette Timber company at Longview, Washington, studying its methods of logging.

Bevin said it was all right to have negotiations but "as a party to the treaty (the Russian-Iranian-British treaty of 1942 covering British and Soviet forces in Iran) I ask the Soviet government to leave this on the agenda here."

While the council was discussing the case it was announced in Tehran that Russia was returning key railway lines in the northern part of Iran to the control of the Iranian officials. Iranian officials said privately the Russian move should bring a prompt and basic improvement in the relations between the two countries and might affect significantly the case now before the UNO.

Friends of Iran's new premier, Ahmed Qavam Es Saltaneh, speculated that Russia's action might foreshadow a withdrawal of Red army troops from Iran.

Vishinsky objected that "Iran wants the security council to have charge of the negotiations" and continued: "The security council always can use its powers under the charter, but my contention is that, in the present state of affairs, this is not necessary."
