PORTLAND, Feb. 21—(AP)—A recommendation that 2,000 more Vapport housing units be made available for veterans elsewhere in the state was made today by the mayor's emergency housing committee. The committee said the housing project would still have 1,230 units on hand, which it considered enough for the area's immediate needs.

NEW BREAD—President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson look over bread made from 80 per cent wheat baked in Department of Agriculture ovens. Presidential order for mill of a greater percentage of wheat grain will provide more food for hungry Europe.

'Truman Loaf' Tested, Tasted And Approved by Authorities

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Housewives, sandwich-lovers, and miscellaneous white bread fans, you can set your minds at rest. The new "Truman loaf" made from 80 per cent wheat is not: Tattle-tale gray. Tasteless. Less nutritious. Harmful. In fact it is: More tasty. More nutritious. A hardly discernible shade less white. Less fattening. After President Truman ordered millers to get more flour out of wheat so America could send additional supplies to starving countries, the Department of Agriculture decided to see what bread made out of the new flour would be like. Ordinarily 70 to 72 per cent of the wheat grain is used for flour. The rest is thrown away. Truman ordered that 80 per cent of the wheat grain be used for the flour. This means less wheat will be thrown away or used for by-products.

Little Difference
Department of Agriculture experts got a small batch of unmilled wheat and made the new 80 per cent flour. It is done by sifting the flour a little less. You can hardly tell the difference between the color of the regular flour and the new. Dough for four loaves was made in the department's kitchen laboratory. It was made according to the exact recipe used with regular flour and the one used by most commercial bakers. Ingredients were measured with extreme accuracy. What came out of the oven would have filled any housewife with righteous pride. Four loaves with regular flour were baked side by side. The regular loaves were a trifle lighter. But from the outside you couldn't tell the difference. When they cooled the eight loaves were rushed to the office of Secretary Clinton P. Anderson. There they were cut open and he ate a few slices for photographers. Everybody — reporters, photographers and department officials — present at the opening agreed the new bread tasted better and that you could hardly tell the difference in color. Then Anderson decided to show the President the latest product of his kitchen, and to prove that someone in his outfit had been slaving over a hot oven all day. But the President was advised not to eat any of the bread by the time it got to the White House. Half the press corps in Washington had nibbled and handled the loaves. Truman just posed with what was left of the loaves for photographers, and Clinton wrapped them up and left.

Pudding Rumor
It is only a rumor that the Andersons had bread pudding for supper that night. If it is true, they can be happy in the thought that they consumed seven-eighths more thiamine and niacin, three-fourths more riboflavin, and four-fifths more iron than if they had had weak old run-of-the-mill bread pudding. Because that's what Clint's experts claim the new bread has that the old stuff doesn't. The only real complaint any person might have, agriculture experts admit, has to do with the making of the 80 per cent flour. It takes just a little longer to mill it. But the department wants to leave this final thought with the public as America moves into an era which history will probably record as the "Thiamine, Niacin, and Riboflavin Age."

"A slightly darker color and a more wheaty flavor will appeal to many people who are interested in better eating. By introducing her family to the new flour and bread, the homemaker can make a personally small but actually a very large and real contribution toward relieving suffering and hunger in the world."

Horatio Alger, who wrote more than 100 books for boys, also produced a volume of poems and several girls' books.

Group Protests Type Of Film Heart-Throb

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—(AP)—Matronly "senior league" women protested against motion-picture bobby-sox lovers and demanded that Hollywood provide more male heart-throbs for "ladies frankly over forty."

The newest film "fan" organization, headed by Mrs. B. H. Brainerd, chided Hollywood for teaming "freckle-faced graham-cracker kids" with mature heroines. "What we want," the senior-leaguers said, "is more magnetic, manly and credible screen lovers like Charles Bickford."

After the virile Bickford, the matrons like Walter Pidgeon, Ronald Coleman and Spencer Tracy. The "kids" they said, look "positively foolish by comparison, and we hasten to shorten the vogue for the 'still-in-diapers' type of screen lover." The senior league, sending its protests to the major movie studios, threatened to stir up sister groups "all the way from the Golden Gate to Sandy Hook" if Hollywood neglected their demands.
