

The American Girl Arrives Bride to Live in Eugene

By ANN CONNELL

ING their home in Eugene at 1311 Washington Street and Mrs. Roald Hanson, who were married July 5 at Lutheran Church in Oakland, Calif. The bride was Miss M. Correa, formerly of Rio de Janeiro, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Alfred Hanson of Eugene. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Alfred Hanson of Eugene, and the late Mr. Hanson.

Rev. Ansel T. Severson, pastor of the church, read the wedding vows in late afternoon. The bride is the daughter of Doris Hanson of San Francisco, sister of the bridegroom's attendant, wearing a formal gown and a white shawl. Another sister, Miss June Hanson, also living in Eugene, was among the guests. Best man was Irwin Hemet, Calif.

Hand-Made
The bride's gown was hand-fashioned by her grandmother in Brazil. It was of lustrous white satin made with a wide collar of silk lace and high, round neckline. The dress had close-fitting sleeves and a full skirt with court train. The train was of delicate illusion with fine silk tulle. The bride wore a small crown formed by her mother. She wore a small crown formed by the valleys, and carried a bridal bouquet of white and lily-of-the-valleys.

The bride's mother arrived by plane to attend the wedding. She also was in formal attire. The bride was graduated last spring from the British School in Rio de Janeiro, where she took classical courses. She is the niece of Lurence De Mattos Borges, director of the National Sugar Institute of Brazil. She was making her home in Los Angeles when she met Mr. Hanson, who formerly attended Oregon State University, where he served as flight officer.

Antonio Correa accompanied her son-in-law and daughter to Eugene on a leisurely trip up the coast. She left for Eugene Thursday for her home in South America, and the bride and groom left later the same day on a trip into Eastern Oregon.

Reception in Garden Follows Wedding Party Last at Cottage Grove Church

The large wedding of last Sunday was that of Miss Lois Guggisberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Guggisberg, to Gordon Mills, which was solemnized at four o'clock in the morning at the Baptist church at Cottage Grove. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Mills of Cottage Grove.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry W. Davis, of Cottage Grove, in a setting achieved by use of tall baskets of white and pink flowers, with a background of candelabra and white and pink streamers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white tulle and a long train. Her hair was styled in a finger-tip veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies. The groom wore a tuxedo and a white shirt with a bow tie. The wedding party included Miss Ruthellen Cutlip, cousin of the bride, wearing a similar costume in pink, with pink roses in her hair, and Miss Orlena Martin, who also played traditional wedding music.

Among the many out-of-town guests here for the wedding were Mrs. Carl Carlson of Coos Bay, the bride, was matron of honor. Her floor-length dress was yellow brocade crepe with a nosegay bouquet of lavender gladioli and carnations, with yellow and white ribbons.

Donna Guggisberg, another sister, in blue floor-length gown and wearing delphiniums in her dark hair, and Miss Ruthellen Cutlip, cousin of the bride, wearing a similar costume in pink, with pink roses in her hair, lighted the tapers before the ceremony.

Edgar Fraser was best man, and Brewer Mills of Coos Bay, and Robert Nelson were ushers. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Benton Shrenk of Albany, sang "O Promise Me" (DeKoven) and "Because" (d'Hardelot). She was accompanied by Miss Orlena Martin, who also played traditional wedding music.

Bridal Pair Plights Troth Beneath Huge Oak Tree

A picturesque old oak tree spread massive arms above the principals in the garden wedding Sunday of Miss Elizabeth Ann Potter to Herbert P. Person, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Potter, at The Braes. A leafy screen had been arranged against the tree trunk, and before it the bridal group stood, as Dr. Victor P. Morris read the service. Leading from the house to the spot was a path across the lawn, outlined by a low border of ferns and hydrangea blossoms.

Mr. Person is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Person of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, who flew here for the wedding.

Before the ceremony, Mrs. Donald Allton played violin solos, accompanied at the piano by Mr. Allton, and they also played the wedding marches. James McMullen sang "Always" and "Thine Alone."

Given By Father
Mr. Potter gave his daughter in marriage, and escorted her across the lawn between rows of assembled guests. Miss Potter wore a gown of white nylon marquisette with a train. It had short puffed sleeves, and she wore three-quarter-length white gloves. Her veil of fingertip length was held by a coronet headpiece of net, trimmed with pearl embroidery, and she wore a strand of pearls encircling her throat. Her flowers were an arrangement of white gladioli, centered by orchids.

Several Attendants
The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Judy Potter, as maid of honor. She wore a gown of blue satin combined with matching chiffon, and carried a sheaf of deep maroon-colored gladioli.

The bridesmaids, Misses Joyce Wampler of Roseburg and Fenna Van Gelder of Eugene, wore gowns of pink satin and chiffon, made similarly to Miss Judy Potter's, and they carried the same maroon flowers.

Jean Potter, the bride's cousin, was her junior bridesmaid. She wore a long gown of white tulle with bows of pink and blue velvet ribbon, with matching ribbons in her hair. She wore lace mitts and carried a nosegay of pink roses and white carnations. Best man for Mr. Person was William LeGore of Portland. Ushers were Donald Forbes of Roseburg and Jay G. Deardorff of Eugene.

Mrs. Potter, the bride's mother, wore a formal gown of yellow lace with a small pink hat trimmed with pink feathers. Mrs. Person wore an afternoon dress of blue and white crepe.

Both Miss Potter's grandmothers, Mrs. Julia Bruce of Los Angeles and Mrs. Edith Potter of Ridgefield, Wash., were present at her wedding.

Reception Indoors
Following the ceremony, a reception was held indoors. The bride's table in the dining room was spread with a lace cloth, and centered by an arrangement of white flowers and tulle, from which sprays of white gladioli spread fanwise at each end of the table.

Mrs. Howard Boyd, house-mother of Miss Potter's sorority, Alpha Gamma Delta, cut the bride's cake, and Mrs. Jay Deardorff gave out the groom's cake. Mrs. Carl Baker and Mrs. Kenneth Proctor poured, and Mrs. Alden Potter served punch. Mrs. Robert K. Bertsch had charge of the guest book.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. John Wheeler and daughter, Mrs. Edgar McWhirter, of Seattle, and Mrs. Glenn McCormick and Mrs. Robert M. Fischer, Jr., of Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. Person planned to make their wedding journey to Spokane, Coeur d'Alene, and into Canada. On their return, they will be at home on the South Fork of the McKenzie River, where they will be in business.

For going away, the bride wore a gray suit with black accessories, and an orchid corsage.
