Peace Outlook Dim in Isles

MANILA—(AP)—Sporadic fighting between armed Hukbalahap peasants and military police was reported Saturday over the entire central Luzon area.
 Peasant Supreme Leader Lina Taruc scheduled a conference with Philippine Pres. Manuel Roxas as a prelude to returning to the provinces to make a personal appeal for an end to the bloodshed.
 Taruc was closed for four hours with Interior Secretary Jose Zulueta and afterward announced that an offer he had tendered to make last-minute peace appeals had been accepted by the secretary. Taruc will be accompanied on the mission by a member of the interior department with an escort of Philippine army military police.
 The situation between the peasants (Hukbalahaps) and the MP's has been growing steadily worse and it was considered doubtful whether Taruc, wartime underground peasant leader, would be able to avert large scale fighting. Privately, both the government and peasant factions have expressed slight hopes for peace.

Federal Judges' Pay Bill Goes to Truman

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The House Saturday passed and sent to the White House a Senate-approved bill increasing salaries of federal judges $5000 yearly.
 More than 300 judges, ranging from those on the district bench to the chief justice, will get the pay boost. It will be their first since 1926. Cost of the raise is estimated at $1,500,000 annually.

Airfield Operators Ask Modified Rules

PORTLAND—(AP)—Regulations more lenient than those of the Civil Aeronautics Administration were recommended by Oregon flight operators Saturday to the State Board of Aeronautics.
 The operators, reporting that establishment of CAA rules would leave just 14 men in business in the state, proposed temporary waivers to enable operators to fulfill building requirements.
 They recommended a year's postponement in requiring an initial $10,000 plant, and elimination of a state examination on weather and navigation.
 Other recommendations included allowing operators to maintain auxiliary fields for instruction, and requiring an 1800 by 300 foot runway.

1800 Hours of Sewing Produces Oregon Turkey Feathers Gown

A hobby of making hats and purses from feathers of Oregon birds culminated recently in the creation of an evening gown made of feathers from Oregon turkeys.

Mrs. Barbara Orr, Roseburg, is the energetic seamstress who sewed 1800 hours on the gown. A large picture of the dress has been sent to the Oregon Turkey Improvement Assn. booth at the National Turkey Show at St. Louis, Mo. A picture of the gown, in colors, will also be placed in the window of the J. C. Penney store, in Eugene, by Moderne Studios.
 Used in the dress were 160 yards of feathers sewn on tape. The tape was then sewn to a cloth evening dress. Each feather overlaps another both vertically and horizontally, so that only a quarter of each feather actually shows. This method of overlapping brings out the brilliance of each feather, Mrs. Orr says.

The white cape of the gown and ruffles on the skirt are fashioned of the fluff feathers of the White Holland turkey, and the body of the gown from the Naragansett and Bronze turkeys. All feathers used were from turkeys raised on Oregon farms.
 Mrs. Orr's ambition now is to make a dress using turkey feathers from every state in the union. She believes that production of
