J. C. Council Renews PTT

JUNCTION CITY—At the Monday meeting of the City Council the renewal of the franchise to the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company was completed.

The franchise had previously been withheld by the council who gave the company a temporary operating permit promising renewal when and if the service improved.

Louis S. Eases, manager of the Eugene area, attended the session and informed the council that additional equipment for the exchange office has been added and one more circuit to Eugene, better to handle the traffic between the two cities.

The resignation of Vardel Nelson from the planning commission was accepted by the council. In reviewing the work of the commission it was indicated that need exists for a re-statement of the building code and further clarification of the zoning ordinance. Two building permits were issued in July, a residence and a garage.

Must Follow Plan

A number of citizens made requests for improvements, where streets are in bad shape. It was pointed out by the council that in accordance with existing ordinances, street improvements can only proceed in line with planned expenditures, and the amount of new construction will be limited to this extent.

Bids are to be advertised for grading and graveling the west side of Holly St. between Tenth and Twelfth Sts., the motion carrying after some discussion concerning the work necessary.

Monroe Writer Gives Thumbnail Sketch Of "Miss Yard Boss'

By MYRTLE D. STONE

MONROE — Maxine Walden is yard boss of the J. B. Crowson bean yards, and granddaughter of Mrs. Anna Walden of Monroe. She is a graduate of the local schools. For the past 11 years she has run the bean harvest work for Crowson. She holds a good position in Corvallis in a studio there, but every summer she takes her vacation off to put the bean work through, and be out for awhile in the sun.

Pet of the bean yard is Maxine's "microscopic" dog, "Inkspot." If it wasn't for his fluffy coat, he'd be smaller even yet. He's a toy Mexican Pomeranian, black with tan markings. He's a year old now. Maxine bought him from JoAnn of the Ernest Alfredson home here, when he was just a few weeks old.

Inkspot rolls right up to one like a small child's toy on wheels, with his little red tongue sticking out, and wants to be picked up. But he has a sharp little bark too, and he is quick to use it as a watchdog. That makes him just as important, if not as big, as any dog in town.

Ferguson Will Help Burned Out Family With Civic Shower

FERGUSON—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Al Shoopman in the Ferguson district was destroyed by fire Tuesday. Some clothing, bedding and small pieces of furniture were saved by Mrs. Shoopmans' sister and grandson, visiting from California.

Dishes, utensils, canned fruit and kitchen equipment were the greatest loss. The fire was kept from spreading to the fields by neighbors. All cars and men in the community were harvesting and no phone was available. Mrs. Wm. Evans, Buster Grimes, and Mrs. Lee kept the fire from reaching the fields.

A community shower is planned for Tuesday, Aug. 13, at the PULL Hall.

Monroe Gets 40 Cords For School Furnace

MONROE—Forty cords of wood have been stacked in the grade school yard, preparatory to the opening of school. A. T.
