Jail-Breaker Receives Three Years in Pen
 Robert O'Neil, who showed his dissatisfaction with county jail life by trying to build a back door where there shouldn't be one, left the county jail legitimately, Tuesday. He will be housed for the next three years at the state penitentiary at Salem.
 The frustrated jailbreaker pleaded guilty in Circuit Court Tuesday to obtaining money under false pretenses and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary by Judge Carl E. Wimberly.
 O'Neil originally was sentenced to serve two years for a similar offense, and was out on parole when he was arrested by the city police Saturday.
