Tale of Two Leaders Told By Elliott
Elliott Roosevelt Reports
FDR-Winnie Tiffs in Book

NEW YORK — (AP) — Winston Churchill waved a finger under Franklin D. Roosevelt's nose and told him that he believed the President was "trying to do away" with the British empire.

This dramatic scene and other incidents purporting to show that the feeling between the two wartime leaders was not always too friendly are reported in a forthcoming book, "As I Saw It," by Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late President.

The first installment of a condensation of the book, which seems likely to stir up a new con-

Separate School District Upheld

The county school boundary board on a three-to-one vote Wednesday reestablished the old Meadowview school district as a separate school unit.

The action came as a result of a petition from residents of that area asking withdrawal from the Junction City district.

The board's decision, according to County Judge Clinton Hurd, climaxed a series of actions over the separationist-consolidationist controversy. The district, originally independent (District 21), voted 21-19 at a general consolidation election to come in with Junction City. A reelection subsequently was held to reverse this action, but a tie vote, 19 to 19, upheld the earlier election.

Monday the board met to consider a petition from the element favoring separation which stated that four persons who had voted in both elections had not been legal voters at the time the election was held. They presented signed affidavits to the board supporting this contention. The board heard the arguments at the Monday meeting and at that time voted to make a decision on the matter Wednesday.

CIO Favorites
Get Trouncing

NEW YORK — (AP) — Favored sons of the CIO Political Action Committee were soundly trounced in an attempt to "invade" the Republican Party ticket, returns from Tuesday's New York State primary showed Wednesday.

They scored victories in American Labor Party primaries and some in the Democratic voting, but had a zero in an ambitious try to garner a Republican nomination.

High-lighting the voting was the defeat of ALP Congressman Vito Marcantonio in the 18th district in his bid for the Republican nomination. Marcantonio, generally regarded as one of the most left winged legislators in Washington, won the Democratic and the ALP nominations, but was whipped by Frederic V. P. Bryan, backed by the regular Republican organization. Two years ago, Marcantonio won all three nominations. Marcantonio's vote over the Democratic aspirant, Patrick J. Hannigan, was unexpectedly close, and a knockdown fight between Marcantonio and Bryan in the November election was in prospect.

Second in interest was the defeat of Rep. Joseph C. Baldwin, a New Deal-voting Republican who was backed by the PAC in the Republican primary for nomination. He was overwhelmed by Frederic R. Coudert, Jr., in the so-called "silk stocking" or 17th district of New York City.

Baldwin won the American Labor Party nomination unopposed, with Myron Sulzberger, Jr., winning the Democratic nomination, thus setting up a three-way contest in November.

Bid on Highway Held in Advertisment

Three project bids opened by the Public Roads Administration at Portland, including one for surfacing of 7.4 miles of the Willamette Highway east of Eugene, were held in advisement Wednesday because they exceeded estimates, the Associated Press reported.

Low bid for surfacing of the Willamette Highway was submitted by J. N. and M. J. Conley, Portland, for $285,110.

Nelson Creek Fire Battled

Western Lane Fire Patrol crews Wednesday were battling a blaze at Nelson Creek near Swisshome while Willamette National Forest and Eastern Lane Fire Patrol officials reported fires in their districts mostly were under control.

Clyde Quam, of the national forest, reported nearly 40 fires were started in Willamette forests by Mon. night's lightning storms but all had been checked with little damage.

Eastern Lane escaped from the lightning storm although Wednesday morning two small fires were extinguished.

No reports on extent of the Nelson Creek fire had been received by noon Wednesday. R. C. Howell, Western Lane Inspector, reported, "A 25 man crew was at Nelson Creek Wednesday. Howell said, and reinforcements were being sent in. It was expected the blaze could be brought under control soon."

The U. S. Weather Bureau in Eugene reported humidity at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday was 46 per cent and was expected to drop into the 30's. Tuesday's humidity fluctuated from 61 per cent at 10:30 a. m. to a low of 21 per cent.

Editors Billed For Meeting

Oregon editors Marshall Dana of the Oregon Journal, William Tugman of the Eugene Register-Guard, Phil Parrish of the Oregonian and Frank Jenkins of the Klamath Falls Herald and News will be on the program of the Southern Oregon Educational Conference and Institute to be held in Ashland Sept. 9-12.

A staff of professors will be on hand to aid in the instruction of teachers of southern Oregon. The staff of Southern Oregon College will also instruct.

Dean Bartky of the school of education at Stanford University has been added to the list of featured speakers. The nature of the meeting is that of a workshop—teachers come before school opens to prepare for the year's work ahead of them. About 800 teachers and administrators from Lake, Klamath, Jackson, Josephine and Curry counties will attend.

Grove's Water Inadequate

COTTAGE GROVE — With more hot weather the city water board has a good many worries. Continued dry weather has run the consumption to more than a million gallons daily, which is too heavy for the present reservoir. The old main pipe line continually springs new leaks and demands much patching.

Some water patrons are not limiting their irrigation to the hours requested, 6:00 to 8 a. m. and 8:00 to 8:00 p. m., which adds to the difficulties. The new steel pipe line under construction from Row River to the reservoir is progressing slower than had been hoped because the crews have to stop work and patch the old line.

The city council is meeting this week to formulate plans for the bond issue for better water facilities and citizens here should follow the needs in this respect with intelligent consideration.

Election Lineup

Last Saturday was the last day for filing petitions to run for the city offices in the coming general election and one ward will have a vacant line, as George Matthews, who has been councilman from Ward 3, does not choose to run again. Matthews stated he feels he has done his duty in that matter and it is time for another citizen to accept the responsibility.

Mayor H. A. Hagen will be up for re-election, also Edgar Rickard, city treasurer, to succeed himself, and Bill Thum as councilman for Ward 1. Donnell Allen will be the new candidate for city recorder to succeed Lester Coiner, as Coiner did not wish to accept the position another term. For Ward 4, Glenn Flatters, present councilman has moved out of the city limits, but he had two years left in his term, and the council will appoint someone to fill this place.

Labor Unity
Plan Defeated

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — (AP) — Two proposals for uniting the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations were beaten down amid sharp debate by delegates to the 88th annual convention of the International Typographical Union here Wednesday.

Delegates rejected by voice vote a resolution by E. B. Furgurson of Danville, Pa., calling for the resignation of presidents William Green (AFL) and Philip Murray (CIO) "to make it possible for more progressive and harmonious successors to effect the amalgamation of the two organizations."

The resolutions committee had reported unfavorably on the proposition and the nearly 300 delegates upheld the report.

The second resolution by J. J. Moody and H. L. McCormick of Houston called for "a unified political action and mutual welfare on the part of the AFL, the CIO, railroad brotherhood and all legitimate independent labor organizations" and was given an unfavorable report by the committee. Delegates also upheld the report.

Sharp debate featured a proposal that the United Nations charter be amended to provide that as a condition of membership "an unhampered and unrestricted free press be permitted within the boundaries" of member nations.

Carl E. Linder of Des Moines, chairman of the resolutions committee, took the floor to defend the committee's unfavorable report and asserted:

"We have no right to go outside when we don't have a free press in our own country."

As debate on the question developed, a roll call vote was asked for and the unfavorable committee report was upheld 143 to 90.

"Civilized Man Cannot Live Without Cooks"

BETHEL — Mrs. Faye Higgins arrived from Portland Monday and is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wolfe. Mrs. Higgins is to be second cook for the hot lunch program at Bethel School this coming year. She is trying to find a small apartment or housekeeping room. Can anyone help? Call 3080-J.

Mrs. Juanita Salas and children Angelina and Joe of Los Angeles are guests here of Mrs. Salas' cousin, Mrs. Miguel Sanchez and family. Mrs. Salas and children, Mrs. Sanchez and daughter Linda spent several days in Portland last week and on Saturday attended the wedding of Olivia Soria and Dario Salerno. They all returned here Sunday. The Salas family plan to return home the last of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cooley and daughter Sally spent the week-end in Portland with relatives.

Fishing Boats Flood Harbor at Florence

FLORENCE — The largest number of boats ever to use the Florence harbor facilities at one time has been called out by a large school of fish off the Siuslaw, moving north toward Heceta light-house.

Nearly 70 boats brought in catches of sea bass, ling cod, chinook and silverside salmon Monday night, it is reported. Three buyers are running trucks to the city and port docks.

ALPINE MEETINGS

ALPINE — Wednesday, Aug. 28, the Woman's Society of Christian Service will hold a potluck dinner at 7 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Erta Larkin. There will be informal singing and special. Everyone is welcome.

Sunday morning, Sept. 1, Rev. and Mrs. William Osgood of Corvallis, returned missionaries from Africa, will have charge of the church services. The Osgoods expect to go back to Africa around the first of the year.

Bad Mishap

Fred Simpson, a former resident of Alpine, met with an accident while slaying a right-of-way for the R.E.A. over near Toledo, where he is living. Simpson was crossing a ditch when the log he was walking on broke and he fell on his axe, cutting a tendon in his knee. He was in bed when Mrs. L. C. Davidson, Eugene, and Virginia drove over. Virginia stayed to help Mrs. Simpson with the work.

George Urbach has built on a new porch on the front of their residence and also is reshelving their roof.
