Inflation Not Topic But Actuality, Found At Quota Auction

Topic announced in the year-book for the social meeting of Eugene Quota Club, held Tuesday evening at the cottage in Skinner Butte Park, was "What About Inflation?" The ways and means committee of the club, charged with the duty of providing funds for its projected service activities, was the hostess group. No talk on the announced topic was scheduled, but members attending found the theme well carried out.

A potluck dinner was announced, but each member also paid for her dinner and her guest's, if any, as well as contributing an article of food. There was a coat-check charge; a fish-pond attraction, paying games and many carnival features, including an auction of hard-to-find household articles, which brought highly "inflated" prices.

Seals to be Mailed By Next Monday

Several Eugene groups are working hard to have all Christmas Seal letters in the Eugene post office by Monday, November 25. This is a late novel dealing with the Negro question, and especially with the problem of the person of mixed blood. It is handled intelligently and with sympathy, taking sides with neither too rabidly.

The story is that of Pinkey, blonde granddaughter of old Aunt Dicey, the Negro laundress. Pinkey has been kept aloof from colored children until she is twelve, when through the help of a northern visitor she is sent north to school. In Boston, she studies nursing, falls in love with a young doctor, but on the eve of their marriage she leaves suddenly for the south. SUSAN HAYWARD says:
 "Even when you brew it the Basque way You can't make a bad cup of M·J·B"

Coffee Basque is an M·J·B trick worth trying... here's how...

US: Bet you a bet, Susan, that if you'd ask a Basque what folks look for first in coffee, he'd say—flavor. Know why they find it in M·J·B? Because it's blended the way we out here like coffee best... rich and hearty, yet smooth as silk.

SUSAN HAYWARD: You certainly tailored M·J·B to my taste. And it never lets me down. Whether I make it mild or strong, that good, satisfying M·J·B flavor seems to shine through. Honestly, I can't seem to make a bad cup of M·J·B.

US: You certainly didn't make a bad cup of Coffee Basque, ma'am. Let's have another while I explain that M·J·B is gently roasted... just enough to coax out the fragrant oils that put flavor in your cup. Try it, you'll see what I mean.

COFFEE BASQUE
 1 square unsweetened chocolate
 4 tablespoons sweetener
 2 cups strong M·J·B Coffee
 1/2 cup evaporated milk
 1/2 cup fresh milk
 Pinch of salt
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/4 teaspoon vanilla

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add condensed milk and coffee; stir until well blended. Add evaporated milk, fresh milk, salt and cinnamon. Heat almost to boiling point. Beat with rotary egg beater until foamy; stir in vanilla and serve in heated cups. Makes 4 servings.

No finer coffee packed... we guarantee it

- Only the world's choicest coffee beans go into M·J·B's magnificent blend!
- A special roasting process brings out all of M·J·B's full flavor.
- M·J·B Coffee is protected by a higher vacuum packing process.
- That's why we say there is no finer coffee on the market.
