'Runaways Seek Glamour'

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—The lure of Hollywood glamour is the No. 1 reason why boys and girls leave home, juvenile delinquency experts said Thursday.
 Lt. Harry Englund of the police juvenile detail said 15,317 children under 18 were reported to the department last year alone as runaways from every state in the union. In every case, he said, the fugitives were believed to be headed for "Hollywood."

Boys' Club Director Joseph Thesing said most of the children ran away because their parents did not fill such basic needs as response, recognition and new experiences.

"In a quest for new experiences, children will run away to Hollywood, a well-publicized glamour center," he said.
