Estimated Tax Deadline Near

The Eugene office of the Department of Internal Revenue is humming with business as the Jan. 15 deadline draws near for filing and paying estimated tax.

Farmers, business and professional people, investors, landlords, and certain wage earners whose 1946 tax was not substantially paid up by withholding, are waiting in line for professional help from deputy collectors in the office.

Fred Huber, deputy collector in charge of the office, emphasized Saturday that Jan. 15 is NOT a tax date for any wage earner who had tax withheld, provided he did not have more than $100 of other income and his wages did not exceed $5000 plus $500 for each exemption except his own.

Final 1946 income tax returns are due by March 15 from ALL taxpayers, Huber said, but if they are filed by Jan. 15 they will serve as both return and estimate for 1946.

Detailed solutions of individual tax problems may be obtained from the local office located on the second floor of the new Post Office building.

Area Needs 6500 Housing Units to Restore Pre-War Occupancy Ratio, US Expediter Says

At least 6500 new homes are needed to give the Eugene-Springfield area the same housing ratio for its population as it had before the war, Charles C. Bayles, locality housing expediter, said Saturday.

Using a revised Chamber of Commerce estimate which places present population of the twin-city area at 48,000, Bayles said that before the war each dwelling unit in the area sheltered 2.7 persons and emphasized that the achievement of this ratio again will require not only construction but much land-clearing, rezoning and extension of utilities.

VA Appraiser Policy Called Safeguard

In action aimed at giving veterans increased protection against buying of over-priced real estate, the Veterans Administration has taken over selection of the appraiser for each GI loan, at the same time dropping its former policy of permitting lending agencies to pick any appraiser from the VA-approved panel.

Frank Sias, VA representative here, explained that this tightening of GI loan policy against real estate inflation means that the VA now designates by name the appraiser for each piece of property considered for purchase by a veteran.

Explanatory letters have been sent to 300 lending institutions and to 280 approved appraisers in Oregon. The VA's roster of appraisers has not been changed, except for five earlier dismissals.

The new policy, effective since January 2, is expected to halt a tendency of a few lenders to use exclusively the services of certain "obliging" appraisers. The lending agency now sends its request to the VA's regional office in Portland in a simple letter in duplicate for each appraisal, giving the veteran's name and identity of the property. The VA will return one copy after writing in names of its designated duplication of appraisals on the closer control and reduced plication of appraisals on the same property for different lenders are expected, Sias said.

Eugene Man Slugged, Robbed in City Alley

Ray Ortwein, 215 Fifth Ave. W., was slugged and robbed of a 17-jewel pocket watch and $30 in cash early Sunday night as he walked down the alley between Olive and Charnelton and Fourth and Fifth Sts.

Ortwein told police he was knocked unconscious by a blow on the head. He had no description of the assailant, and he did not know whether there was more than one assailant.

Joseph Muhr

Joseph Muhr, 73, of 3101 South Willamette St., died at his home Sunday. He was born Oct. 16, 1873, at Konigsdorf, Austria-Hungary, and married Mary Elsie Raymond at Minneapolis in October, 1911. She died in 1933. A daughter, Mrs. Carolyn Jeans, preceded him in death in November, 1946.

Surviving are a daughter, Margaret Muhr, Eugene; two sons, Raymond J. Muhr, Springfield, and Robert W. Muhr, Eugene; four grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. John Prall, Eugene, and Mrs. Virgil MacMickle, Oswego, Ore.; a brother, Carl, of Eugene.

Private services will be held, with the Rev. W. G. Nicholson and Dr. Leavitt O. Wright officiating. The family has requested that flowers be omitted. Cremation will follow. Veatch-Hollingsworth Mortuary is in charge of local arrangements.

String Quartet Makes Debut

The University String Quartet got off to a splendid start with its first Eugene concert Sunday afternoon in the School of Music auditorium. George Boughton and Mary Kapp Allton, violinists, Mary Coleman, violist, and Milton Dieterich, cellist, performed Beethoven's Quartet Op. 18, No. 2, and Haydn's "Lark" Quartet Op. 64, No. 5, with sincerity and polish.

The two quartets, composed only 10 years apart, make an interestingly balanced program, and the new University group gave a thoroughly comprehending performance of both works. Each player made the audience feel the importance of his instrument's part as it fitted into the whole pattern; their ensemble was excellent throughout. In fact, they thought so completely as a unit that occasionally the meaning of individual lines was lost.

During the development section of the Beethoven Allegro the theme movement became buried in a mass of notes; so exact was the balance in the beginning of the Beethoven Adagio that the violin and cello solo lines did not stand out as such. In some places in the Beethoven, also, the quartet played with less assurance than their ability warranted.

As the program progressed, however, any such weaknesses disappeared. The Haydn Adagio Cantabile movement, featuring singing solo tones, was perhaps the most beautifully played of all. Throughout the concert tone was consistently rich and playing spirited. Noticeable also was the strong rhythmic urge pulling through slow and fast movements alike.

Now that they have worked out the initial problems of playing together, it should not be too difficult for the University String Quartet to build up a larger, varied repertoire. There is a definite place in Eugene for a chamber music group of their high calibre.
