

Hazen Calls For Labor Peace

"In the coming year we'll judge both labor and management by how well they can get along together, not by how good their arguments are."

This was the opinion of Ben Hazen, president of the Benjamin Franklin Savings and Loan Assn., Portland, when he spoke Monday noon at the Osburn Hotel to Kiwanis Club, on labor-management problems in 1947.

Labor Peace Needed
"A total of 120,000,000 man-days were lost in 1946 through strikes alone," Hazen told his listeners. "It's time to quit looking around to find out what each side has to say on the question. The really important thing is, 'Can labor and management get along?' Upon the answer to this question hangs the success or failure of the private enterprise system as opposed to state control."

As international chairman of the Kiwanis business standards committee, Hazen asked Eugene Kiwanians to give sober thought to the national Kiwanis convention's resolution favoring compulsory arbitration.

Battle Expected
"A real legislative battle appears to be shaping around this issue and it is one we're bound to hear a lot about," he said, "but remember, both management and labor are against it, even though employers say it may be necessary in some extreme cases. Most of the opposition has labeled it 'a mere extension of bureaucracy.'" Hazen reminded Kiwanians that most of them have much to gain by a well-paid laboring class, working short hours, and he warned, "We must recognize that unions have the right to strike—that is a right of citizenship and no legislation can take it away."

Hazen, who is a member of the University of Oregon lecture panel, delivered an address Monday morning before the university class on business public relations.

Officer Sees Volcano Erupt

MANILA—(AP)—Southern Luzon's towering Mayon volcano, boiling for five days, erupted this morning with a furious shower of boulders and lava.

Lt. (jg) Robert Case of Nevada, Ohio, a Navy weather officer, circled the volcano at 10,000 feet during the display in an Army plane piloted by Capt. Robert A. Harris of Dayton, Ohio.

"It (the peak) got redder and swelled like a bubble, then broke," Case related. "A lava stream went straight up to a height we estimated at 8000 to 10,000 feet above the peak (itself 7903 feet)."

"We saw huge rocks blown straight up. They looked like small houses to us even at a distance of a mile and a half or two miles. The eruption lasted about a half hour."

Two towns near the base were ordered evacuated earlier as lava boiled over down the eastern and southern slopes and black smoke mushroomed three miles into the sky.

Navy Tells Japs' Anti-Invasion Plan

1. Battalions of underwater swimmer "fukuryu" armed with torpedoes and mines.
2. Large submerged concrete "foxholes."
3. Fixed underwater torpedo installations built in the hulks of deliberately sunken vessels.

The Navy said that the Japanese "dreamed up" the "fukuryu" squads in 1944, when invasion was expected within a year.

Runaway Trailer Kills Sleeping Man

BEND—(AP)—Edward Huffman, of Bend, died early Monday morning in St. Charles Hospital here from injuries received Sunday afternoon when a logging trailer broke loose on nearby highway 97 and careened through his home south of Bend.

Driver of the logging truck was Marshall Engle, of Lapine. Engle told state police he had swerved his truck to avoid hitting another car and then lost control on the icy pavement. The trailer broke loose when the truck hit a tree.

The trailer continued about 100 feet before hitting the house and came to rest with the big dual wheels on the front step and the tongue pierced completely through the corner of the house.
