19 Symphony Concerts Due

PORTLAND —(U.P.)— Portland's first symphony season in nine years will open Nov. 3 and consist of 19 major concerts continuing through March 22, 1948, James S. Hart, business manager of the Portland Symphony Society, announced Wednesday.

The season will consist of 10 Monday night concerts and nine Sunday matinees.

The conductor will be Werner Janssen, now directing his own orchestra in Los Angeles. Janssen, who has conducted some of the world's best known symphony orchestras, is married to Ann Harding, stage and screen actress.

Sleeping car service was first used in the United States in 1847 on the Pennsylvania Railroad's Harrisburg-Chambersburg line.
