District Court Finds 'Home'

Eugene office members of the State Highway Department, located in the county courthouse, were moving out bag and baggage Monday, in a general series of reshufflings to make way for the newly-formed Lane County district court.
Center of a problem for a time, the district court finally was squeezed into the cramped county building on approval of the county court.
The highway department will now work in the old postoffice building, the 4-H clubbers will have their headquarters where the county department did, the county juvenile office will be placed where the 4-H's were, and the district court will set up in the present upstairs juvenile office.

Washington Police Say Driver Injures Skull

Washington state police reported Sunday that William W. Down, 25, Springfield, was confined to Renton Hospital at Seattle with a fractured skull after the auto he was driving collided with another Sunday on the Kent-Des Moines Highway near Military Road.
Other passengers in the two autos were from Seattle and Kent, and were less seriously injured.
