

Physician Tells Progress Immunization Program

on inoculations against diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis. Eugene schools during this week released this week's progress report. Health Director, Dr. J. H. Marr, school health director, today announced that the immunization program is well advanced. He reported that despite the rapid turnover of students, 95 per cent entered the program. Marr said that the success of the program without the cooperation of all parents. Parents to Help The work of nurses and teachers in connection with the immunization plan would be greatly lightened, Dr. Marr continued, if parents would give specific information requested in standard forms sent home with the children.

"Please let us know," she urged, "whenever your children have had renewal inoculations at their family physicians. It gives the child something to be proud of that he has helped protect himself and his classmates and community."

Permission Needed
Inoculations are being given this week at the junior high schools to students presenting signed permission slips from their parents.

At Woodrow Wilson Junior High the immunization shots will be given again Thursday morning, and at Collin Kelly during the afternoon of the same day. At Roosevelt Junior High the inoculations will be offered again Friday morning.

More Schools
Later in the month, students of the Frances Willard, Lincoln and St. Mary's grade schools will be given the opportunity to obtain the immunization treatments.

In the case of the diphtheria inoculations, Dr. Marr has explained, students in the junior high schools will be given free skin tests (Schick tests) to determine the degree of protection which may have been accumulated through previous inoculations.

However, the vaccine for the smallpox inoculation and the toxoid used for those students who require additional protection against diphtheria require payments of 25 cents for each type of treatment.
