

Glenwood, Downtown Eugene Postal Stations to Operate

Glenwood station number one of the Eugene postoffice will be open for business Wednesday morning, June 23, at the Stohl and Dorsey Hardware store. The site is near the Y at Springfield Junction.

The new station will service the needs of 3200 people living in the Glenwood area. Glenwood has sought more convenient postoffice facilities since the end of the war, and the new station is the result of extensive efforts by Glenwood citizens.

Normal Operation
All normal functions of a postoffice will be offered. Packages may be mailed, registered, insured or sent COD, stamps can be purchased, money orders obtained and all classes of letters mailed. Postal savings stamps will not be sold.

Several pickups are planned daily, meeting all east, north and south train connections. There will be no delivery service from the station, however.

Postoffice hours are tentatively set from 9 until 5 daily, including Saturdays.

One part-time store employee will be put on full employment, and will have charge of the postoffice.

This is the first contract station working out of the Eugene postoffice since before the war. Stations were formerly located in the old McMorran and Washburne

Government-Supplied Food Help County School Lunches

The school lunch menus of more than 26,000 Lane County children were enriched last year by $41,096.88 worth of federally supplied foodstuffs, the county school office reported Saturday.

The children, and millions like them throughout the nation, were the beneficiaries of the federal school lunch program which also serves the function of helping to underwrite farm prices by draining off the surplus in over-expanded production.

Walnut Meats
For example: Lane County distributed during the last school year some 157 cases of choice walnut meats, worth about $2943.75 on the market.

Multiplied by all the other participating counties in the nation, this program was instrumental in keeping the walnut industry profitable. It also enriched the menus in school cafeterias.

Other Job Too
Lucille Klinge, superintendent, and Margaret Blanton, her assistant, not only inventoried and apportioned the tons of food but also had a hand in loading and unloading it, all this while conducting a score of consolidation elections and maintaining the office that supervises the 70 county schools.

Here is the breakdown of foods distributed to the schools:

Commodity	Amount	Value
Dried eggs	146 cases	$6806.25
Orange juice	2063 gallons	5350.80

Prunes	828 cases	2380.50

Tiny Victim Calls For Her Daddy

EVERETT —(P)— Tiny Mary Bernice Williams, who lay beside the bludgeoned body of her mother for 17 hours, called Sunday for the father who has given authorities a signed statement that he left his wife and daughter for dead after beating them with rocks.

"I wanna go home and I want my daddy," the four-year-old girl told hospital attendants. "My mommy's gone."

The father, Wayne L. Williams, 31, has been accused in a first degree murder "holding charge" of battering his wife, Hallie Lucille, 27, to death.

Prosecutor Phil Sheridan said he would file a formal information in superior court Monday.

Doctors listed the child's chances of recovery as "much better." She ate her first meal Sunday since undergoing an emergency operation Friday to relieve pressure on the brain from a double fracture of the skull.

The youngster and her dead mother were found early Friday on a narrow cliffside ledge near Mukilteo.

LOS ANGELES —(P)— A Jury of three men and nine women, including a Japanese-American girl, will hear the trial of Tomoya (the Meatball) Kawakita, former Japanese prison camp guard accused of treason against the land of his birth.

Selection of the jury was completed and the trial went into weekend adjournment. Actual testimony will begin Tuesday before Federal Judge William C. Mathes.

It will be the first treason trial in California history and U. S. Attorney James M. Carter, chief prosecutor, said he expected the case to last a month.
