

Parents Warned of Medical Exam Need for Pre-Schoolers

Parents of youngsters entering the first grade or kindergarten were reminded Monday that their children must have a complete medical examination before they start to classes.

The examination, said Dr. Madeline Marr, director of health education and physician for the Eugene public schools, is required by state law.

Letters explaining this requirement were mailed in April to all parents of children who are to enter the first grade. This was done, Dr. Marr stated, through the cooperation of the city P-TA organization.

To date, however, less than 10 per cent of the children required to be examined have had completed medical forms mailed for them to the city school offices.

Prompt action by parents is essential, Dr. Marr said, to obtain appointments with their family physicians to have the children examined.

Those who wait much longer, she added, will find that it is impossible to obtain appointments before the beginning of the new school year.

Furthermore, inoculations against smallpox, diphtheria and a tuberculin test are recommended in cases where the children have not had these protections repeated since babyhood.

These safeguards, Dr. Marr said, should be provided before the children start school for their own protection.

Medical examinations also may reveal the necessity for eye, throat, dental or other corrections. Here again, the school health authority noted, early examinations will permit the proper corrections before the youngsters enter school.

The importance of regular attendance during the first school years is generally recognized, Dr. Marr continued. "A child who leaves the first grade to nurse a cold or to have his teeth fixed, will fail to learn several basic words that his class studies during his absence," she said.

"It will be so much easier for all concerned," Dr. Marr pointed out, "and so much better for the children, themselves, if the required examinations are completed and the forms which were mailed in April are returned to our office as soon as possible."

Lana, Press Trade Blows

FRANKFURT, Germany — (U.P.) — Screen Star Lana Turner repelled Sunday to criticism of her printed in British newspapers. She said the feeling is mutual.

Miss Turner and London reporters exchanged cold shoulders during her recent visit there. The newsmen said they did not like the way she treated them.

The actress said she didn't care much for the way they treated her, either. In fact, she added, she doesn't like the way they treat the whole USA.

"They are anti-American," Miss Turner said.

"I was very disappointed. Worst press I ever saw in my life."

"We don't like the British," Miss Turner said.

"Dash press," interposed her bridegroom, tinsplate heir Bob Topping.

The Toppings arrived here from Paris this morning for Miss Turner's scheduled tour of the G.I. summer theater circuit in occupied Germany. She will appear before 35,000 to 50,000 American men while here.

14 Obsidians Make Deer Butte Climb

Fourteen Obsidians made the climb to the top of Deer Butte Sunday, but their enthusiasm was somewhat dampened by rain and fog which hung low over the mountains all day.

Making the trip were Frank Sipe, Homer Townsend, Annie Lahr, Bob Naper, Ray Cavagnaro, Jean Gallagher, Charlotte Berryhill, Mark Anderson, Phyllis Hixson, Bill McCracken, Sigrid Skade, John Banks, Bruce McCracken and Ray Sims. Miss Hixson and Sims were leaders.

The 31 climbers who hiked to Camp Scott at the base of the Sisters to climb the Middle Sister Saturday afternoon were rained out and did not climb. They returned to Eugene early Sunday.

NATIONAL FOREST      O. & C. LANDS      PRIVATE OWNED

CO-OP SUSTAINED YIELD UNITS COME TO OREGON

C. Girard Davidson, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, told an interested crowd in Eugene that the Department has adopted and affirmed the program for cooperative sustained yield agreements between properly qualified timber growers and the Bureau of Land Management. This Bureau manages the revested railroad and wagon road land grants in Western Oregon of approximately 2,500,000 acres.

This decision opens the way for an enduring forest industry, based on sound private enterprise. With well-planned cooperative sustained yield units, remanufacturing plants can multiply the number of jobs available. Slabs and sawdust can be worked up into saleable products; low grade logs salvaged and marketed.

With this increased industry, population will grow. The tax base will expand and stabilize. Under unified management of forest lands, recreation facilities can be improved.

Many points are still in adjustment. The Department's offer must, of course, provide community and industry security and a reasonable opportunity for profit to be acceptable to private enterprise. However, the main principle has been accepted, and must be put into effect. Green Light ahead! Let's Go!
