

Retired Railroaders to Receive Bigger Pay Under New Law

President Truman has signed an amendment to the Railroad Retirement Act, which will increase the annuities of 20 per cent the railroad workers.

The new law will affect 65 and 100 former railroaders in the Eugene area who are now receiving pensions will be increased by the amendment.

A conservative estimate of the Southern Pacific pay office reported that 1,500 men are now employed in the area, and will be affected by the new law in the future.

Local pension and what they would have received under the Harriman plan. If this policy is continued, the total pension of these SP veterans will not be increased. Harriman pensioners will receive more from the board, but the revenue from the private fund will be decreased accordingly.

No Word

Local railroad officials have had no direct word from the trustees of the Harriman fund regarding the procedure that will be followed. Total income of all pensioners who do not come under the Harriman plan will automatically be increased by 20 per cent, however.

The money for this increase will come from the surplus of the railroad retirement reserve, the United Press reported.

Reduced

An Associated Press report also said that contributions by the railroads to the unemployment insurance fund are also reduced by the bill, so long as the fund stays about $450,000,000. On April 30, the fund was $928,274,000.

No effective date for this pension increase could be obtained from the press services.

Police Check Victim's Note

PORTLAND — (AP) — A police search was underway Thursday for a missing Seattle businessman who left a note in an automobile here indicated abduction and robbery.

Detective Lt. Carl Crisp said the car belonging to John Bruce Wilson, who owns a North Seattle drive-in restaurant, was taken to the police garage here Monday as an abandoned automobile.

Wilson has been missing since June 14.

A note scratched on a bank check book of Wilson's business firm was found in the car. It read: "Robbed by 2 hitch hikers. P U (picked up) at Boeing. Made me drive to Portland. Lord only know next. One B1 5 feet, 10. One dk 6 feet. Boeing strikers. They know me. I don't them. John Bruce W." Wilson, father of five children, left home June 14 to deposit $500 in the bank. Seattle police reported his wife said he also wore a $1500 diamond ring. He failed to show up at the bank and at Tacoma, where he was due after making his bank stop.

Wilson's wife told Seattle police he may have been an amnesia victim. He had suffered loss of memory one day 12 years ago. She was quoted as saying he had complained of severe headaches prior to his disappearance.

The note on the bank check book was made legible on a bottom page because of a carbon sheet under the top page.
