

Reckless Driving Charge Brings Fine

A six-man municipal court jury found Dean Capps, 648 Fourth Ave. W., guilty of reckless driving in a trial held Tuesday night in the city council chambers. Capps was arrested June 14 and charged with operating a motorcycle in reckless fashion. The jury ordered that he be fined $25 and recommended that his driver's license be suspended for six months.

Marital Rule Causes OSC Dean's Resignation

CORVALLIS—(AP)—Mrs. Buena Maris Mockmore, Oregon State College dean of women since 1941, will officially resign Thursday because she is a professor's wife. Under regulations permitting only one member of the same family to hold a staff position, the dean of women became ineligible upon her marriage to Dr. Charles E. Mockmore, head of the college civil engineering department, two years ago. Wartime relaxation of rules permitted her to remain temporarily. Miss Mary Bash, Mrs. Mockmore's assistant, will become acting dean of women until a permanent successor is named.

Willamette Surface, Eugene Job Get State Highway Approval

The state highway engineer reported that while federal funds have been allocated for work on this highway, the commission feels that the need is too great to permit waiting until those funds actually are available. First Time J. E. Turnbull, chairman of the Eugene Chamber of Commerce highways committee, stated Wednesday that much of the Willamette route has never been given final surfacing and expressed his group's commendation of the state commission's decision. Turnbull expressed further satisfaction with the action of the millrace highway relocation plan, an achievement which Chamber President John R. Snellstrom then credited to Turnbull and his committee.

"This important link in the relocation of Highway 99 through Eugene comes as a part of the total improvement for which the Chamber's highway committee has labored many years," Snellstrom said.

The commission allocated this fund with a statement that the route has grown in importance with expansion of the upper Willamette Valley and south-central Oregon areas.

Baldock reported from Salem that the commission hopes to improve a 15-mile section going east from the tunnel, a few miles west of the summit. The aim, he said, is to put crushed rock on the road this summer to prevent further deterioration in the next spring thaw. Hard surfacing will then be added next summer.

Reservations are being received for troops at the council office and room will be made for these units at camp for the period they most desire to go. Heavy registration is already in for periods up through Aug. 8.

A check of troops interests shows swimming and boating at the top of the list, with scheduled hikes to Carpenter Mountain and the Middle Sister rating high. Scouting skills will be taught through use of the ax yard, nature trail and camping and pioneering projects.

The camp staff includes Harold Shearer, director; Don Reeve, program director and assistant camp director; Ted Baker, commissary officer; Ed Milne, program assistant; Herb Baker, provisional leadership; Nick Nickerson, waterfront; Mrs. Mary Scharf, camp cook; and several senior Scouts as junior assistant camp leaders.

The senior staff members are all former Scouts, most of whom have attained Eagle rank.

Local Robbery Suspect Apparently Leaves Town

Eugene police broadcast a "wanted" message to other Oregon cities and the state police Wednesday after finding that a suspect in a local robbery had cleaned out his apartment and apparently departed from the city. The police began looking for the man, formerly employed as a dishwasher in a downtown cafe, after the proprietor of the establishment reported the theft of two money bags, each containing about $20. The money bags were found empty in a ventilating well at the apartment house where the suspect had lived. But the man, himself, had packed his bags and was reported last seen at the Greyhound bus depot purchasing a ticket.

Eight Scout Troops Attending Period at Camp Lucky Boy

This week eight Scout troops from the Central Lane District of the council have checked into Camp Lucky Boy on the Blue River, according to Roy Elliott, camping chairman. Camp opened officially Sunday and will run through Aug. 15. Periods will be one week, opening and closing on Sundays.

Troops who went into camp this Sunday under their own leaders are: 71, Santa Clara, with Scoutmaster Cecil Wicks; 101, Eugene, under Scoutmaster Max Dudley; 18, Cottage Grove, with Scoutmaster Lester Sine; 12, Eugene, with Scoutmaster Vincent McBride; 15, Junction City, with Scoutmaster James Pitney. Troops 13, Row River, 54, Eugene, and 5, Eugene, will report under the provisional troop camp Scoutmaster.

Budget Okayed Without Dispute

will require $115,938 to be raised by tax because of a carry-over last year of $25,000.

The retirement fund will require $35,183. Other funds, such as the $60,000 law library fund and the $52,840 fair budget, are listed as "self supporting," and will require no tax.

The $5800 "sheep killing dog fund" is included in the category of county business supported entirely by its own fees.

Road Budget
The road budget lost another $25,000 of O & C land money in a transfer needed to pay warrants when the county overspent last year's budget but the total road fund will still remain well above a million dollars.

There remained after final revision, $938,749.45 in the road budget, none of which was to be raised by direct county tax. Added to this will be an anticipated $187,500 from the 2.5 mill levy voted by the people on May 21.

Wages stand
At Wednesday's hearing, there was no mention of wages for county employees, although there had been earlier signs of unrest in the courthouse when the budget was published. Under the adopted budget, nearly all employees got at least $15 a month pay increase.
