Church Work Gains Backers

By Ruby Hufstaeder
MOHAWK—Appropriate indeed these last few days is the large thermometer which appeared recently in front of the Mohawk Community Church, and if it is any true indication of temperatures let us hope that Mohawk weather becomes hotter and hotter and more hot.

For a long time the church building has been anything but a true indication of the progressiveness of this community. There has been a great need for a place to carry worthwhile social activities for the young people, as well as a place of fellowship through dinners for those older ones who take pride in their community as a social center.

The people of the church have realized for a long time the need of more rooms for Sunday School classes and the religious social in connection with church principles, which after all is practically the chief agency for good in a community, and as a result enough money has been saved to cement and tile the basement, which work has already been completed and to buy enough plywood to seal all of it. The young people have purchased and cleaned enough brick to build a large fireplace and flue. Further plans call for tearing down of the present belfry and entrance hall and building a much more modern and satisfactory entrance, purchase of a furnace and pump for the basement, and installation of kitchen equipment.

The thermometer will register all financial contributions and we hope for a hot time in Mohawk for a few weeks.
