Last Major Hitler Relic Due for Fall

BERLIN—(AP)—Berlin's last major relic of Adolf Hitler, the gutted ruin of the massive Reich chancellery he built for himself in the late 1930's, is going to be torn and blasted down. The building department in the Russian sector of the city made the announcement.

The Russians have already ripped out the building's Italian and Bavarian marbles and rich woodwork. The marble has gone into construction of Berlin memorials to the Red Army.

What is left is now to be dismantled for salvaged building material or simply blown up, the announcement said.

Strike Slows Construction On New Plant

Construction on the huge power plant at the sawmill part of the Weyerhaeuser Timber Company's mill at Springfield slowed down to a near halt Wednesday morning as nearly 70 members of the AFL Boilermakers Union walked off the job in a strike for higher wages.

The United Press in Portland said the boilermakers were asking a 25-cent-an-hour raise plus an additional $1 a day living allowance when away from home, also extra car mileage.

27 Walkouts

The vast Weyerhaeuser operation, which when completed early in 1949 will cut 300,000 board feet per day and turn out fiber material for box use, is the latest to be struck by the boilermakers. More than 27 contractors (all on the West Coast) have been the target of walkouts, and 18 of them have signed new contracts.

The dispute at the Springfield plant is not with the Weyerhaeuser company, but with the United Engineering Corp. of Philadelphia which holds the contract for the power plant. Elmer Williams, the union's business agent in Portland, said that the strike was called against the contracting firm when negotiations bogged down.

Weyerhaeuser Story

Jon Titcomb, manager of the Springfield plant, charged Wednesday there was a question as to the legality of the walkout. He said that the international headquarters of the AFL union had signed an agreement with United Engineering, saying that any contract signed prior to Sept. 15 would hold until Jan. 1, 1949, with no change in rate until then.

Business agents for the various trade locals met in a special session Wednesday morning to discuss the picket line, and most decided to call a special meeting of their locals Wednesday night.

Meeting Called

Ray McInnis announced a meeting for the General Laborers Local 85, and urged that all members turn out for a decision on what he termed a "vital issue" to them.

No comment could be gained from the boilermakers themselves. Most of the workers are from out of the Eugene area.

Child Saved From Ditch

The one-year-old daughter of Gene Mousley, Airport Homes district, was rescued from a 12-foot open sewer ditch near her home at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday by the superintendent of P. S. Lord Co.

The Mousley child had fallen into the ditch, it was reported, which contained about 5 feet of rain and sewage water. The ditch, about 50 feet long, has been open for about three months, and is in the area of the Airport Homes Housing project.

Guerrillas Seize BBC Reporter

ATHENS—(AP)—Greek authorities said Wednesday guerrillas have kidnapped BBC correspondent Kenneth Matthews from a hotel in the northeastern Peloponnese.

Police at Argos said Matthews and a woman, identified as Anne Michael, were abducted by a small band Sunday, but the woman was released after a few minutes. They said military detachments have been dispatched to pursue the rebels.

(The British Broadcasting Co. said in London it had no direct word from Matthews who has been in Greece since March, 1946.)

Dewey or Dentist—Turner Takes Tom

OKLAHOMA CITY—(AP)—The Republicans are sure getting a lot of work out of Roy Turner—the 100 per cent Democratic governor of Oklahoma.

Every time a big Republican like Tom Dewey comes to steal Oklahoma from the Democrats, hospitality forces Turner down to the station to gladhand them.

First it was Earl Warren. Wednesday it's Dewey himself. And Thursday it'll be Harold Stassen.

Reds Treated As Traitors, Dewey Promises

IN ROUTE WITH DEWEY — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey campaigned for the Republican ticket in Oklahoma Wednesday, promising that Communists would be treated as "traitors" and warning people of the oil country against those who would be careless with petroleum reserves.

Dewey's Oklahoma schedule called for 12 stops Wednesday with big political rallies in Tulsa and Oklahoma City. At every stop he plugged for the election of Rep. Ross Rizley (R-Okla.) to the United States Senate.

Against Kerr

Rizley is running against Robert S. Kerr, former Democratic governor, for the Senate seat being vacated by Republican Sen. E. H. Moore.

Dewey received a loud, colorful reception at Tulsa. Crowds lined the streets eight deep from the train to Boulder Park. Clouds of confetti fluttered down from the office buildings.

Large Crowd

The crowd in Tulsa was described by police as being as large as the turnout Sept. 29 for President Truman.

"We can and must and will develop a consistent and strong foreign policy," Dewey said in repeating his promise that his administration would consistently support its representatives abroad.

Advocating a "steady and firm" farm price support program, Dewey told the Tulsans, "we must be sure the farmers do not produce themselves into poverty."

No Price Supports

As he has daily on this campaign swing, Dewey ridiculed Democratic claims that the GOP is against farm price supports.

Earlier Wednesday the New Yorker made rear platform talks at Vinita and Claremore, Okla. His schedule called for 12 stops in Oklahoma before he swings north to Kansas City.

'E Nineteenth' Bus Route Established

In an effort to improve bus service to residents of the fast-growing southeastern section of the city, the Oregon Motor Stages Co. has announced the introduction of a new "East Nineteenth" bus route and streamlining of the present Fairmount route.

To go into effect in the near future for a 60-day trial period, the plan will provide service from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. except on Sundays and holidays, on the new route. Buses will follow a 30-minute service schedule as follows:

"East Nineteenth"

"East Nineteenth" route—outbound from Fifth and Willamette south on Willamette to Nineteenth; east to Alder; south to 25th; east to Kincaid; south to 28th; east to Harris; then inbound north to 25th; west to University; north to 22nd; west to Alder; north to Nineteenth; west to Willamette; north to Fifteenth; east to Oak; and north to Fifth and Willamette.

Changes to shorten the Fairmount line will result in the buses traveling on a 20-minute schedule on the following route:

"Fairmount"

Fairmount—outbound from Fifth and Willamette; south on Willamette to Fifteenth; east to Alder; south to Nineteenth; east to University; south to 22nd; east to Agate; south to 24th; east to Columbia; north to Fairmount drive and east to Moss; north to Nineteenth; inbound then on Nineteenth to Alder; south to Fifteenth; west to Oak; north to Fifth and Willamette.

After 6:30 p.m. and on Sundays and holidays, until such time as increased travel permits establishment of two completely separate lines, the Fairmount bus will operate to include on its route service over Kincaid and Harris streets in the area between 25th and 28th Aves.

Student, Teacher Injured in Crash

A student flier and his instructor were in critical condition Wednesday morning from injuries received when their light plane crashed near Dexter about 4:25 p.m. Tuesday.

They were:

Benjamin D. Russell, 21, of Dexter, the student; and S. M. "Monty" Smith, 21, of 185 Sheridan Drive, Eugene.

Smith was flying as instructor in the McKenzie Flying Service of Springfield. He was thrown clear of the plane.

Near Home

The light Aerona Champion in which the fliers crashed nosed into a plowed field about 20 feet from the home of Mrs. Mae Butler, one mile west of Dexter. The crash scene was within 400 feet of the home of Russell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Russell.

The plane, which was hung partially in a tree, was demolished.

Both men were taken to Sacred Heart Hospital by Valley Ambulance.

Describes Crash

An eyewitness, Mrs. Butler said: "My daughter, Delores, and I were watching the plane circle, it was very low, and the motor had been turned off."

"The boys started the motor and began to climb again, but then slipped nose down into the field."

"I ran to the crash and straightened out Monty (Smith) so he could breathe better. He was breathing hard and was unconscious. Benny was conscious but said he thought both his legs were broken. He was wondering if Monty was all right."

"I looked to see if the ignition switch was off, which it was and then ran for help."

Needed Ten Hours

Russell, a student at Eugene Vocational School, needed ten hours of student flying for his license. Miss Butler said he told her Monday night he hoped to complete half of it Tuesday.

Another eyewitness to the crash was Frank Hoard who was sawing wood at a distance from the scene. He said the fliers circled over the area and that Hoard waved to them.

Reduced Octane Rating on Gas Faces Drivers

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—Pacific Coast motorists Wednesday faced a new reduction in the octane rating of gasoline.

The Oil Industry Allocation Committee, after a meeting Tuesday in Los Angeles, said the octane rating would be reduced from 74—or regular grade gasoline—to 72 to permit the companies to concentrate on the production of aviation gasoline.

Group Decides

The committee was named by the oil industry to allocate available gasoline during the current strike of the CIO oil workers union against six major companies. Previously it had recommended that during the strike regular gasoline be manufactured instead of the higher octane fuels for the general public.

In renewed strike violence Tuesday, the Los Angeles sheriff's office reported that a refinery worker was kidnapped and beaten by four men as he entered the Standard Oil refinery at El Segundo. Four men were booked on suspicion of kidnaping, battery and disturbing the peace.

Flying Rocks

Police said drivers of two oil trucks in the Los Angeles area escaped injury when their windshields were smashed by flying rocks.

At Bakersfield, the sheriff's office said an auto convoy of 38 workers was pelted with rocks. Two men were cut slightly by flying glass.

Myrtle Point Rancher Held

COQUILLE, Ore.—(AP)—Lawrence Simmons, 58, Myrtle Point rancher, Wednesday was being held for grand jury action under $500 bail in the apple tree shooting of Arthur Cotter, 17, Coquille.

A coroner's jury charged Simmons with criminal responsibility and ordered him bound over to the grand jury.

Cotter was shot and killed while picking apples in an abandoned orchard. Simmons told the jury he thought Cotter was a bear.

"I saw a movement in the tree," Simmons testified. "I hollered and it raised its back up. I naturally thought it was a bear."

Boston's Mayor Pays Series Bet

BOSTON—(AP)—Boston's mayor or James M. Curley paid off his World Series bet Wednesday.

He shipped 100 pots of Boston baked beans to Mayor Thomas Burke of Cleveland. Burke keeps the wooden Indian he put up against Curley's beans.

The beans were loaded aboard a United Airliner which is scheduled to deliver them in time for a dinner in the Ohio city Wednesday night.

Eugene Man Caught with Car

ROSEBURG—(AP)—Pursuit of a stolen automobile and the arrest of the driver after its crash with another car was reported Wednesday morning by State Police Sgt. Lyle Harrell. The arrested driver is Samuel Jack Dukes, 20, of Eugene.

The state police patrolling the Pacific Highway north of Sutherlin Tuesday pursued the stolen car until it crashed with another south of that city, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Velvie Jones, Jr. of Sutherlin. The Jones car was badly damaged, but the occupants were not injured.

Dukes ran from the scene of the crash but was captured after an all night search on the railroad tracks at Winchester five miles north of Roseburg at 7 a.m. The car he was driving was stolen at Eugene Tuesday, Sgt. Harrell said.

What's New?

What's new in home furnishings? Eugene and Lane County residents can find out easily this week at the Lion's Club Home show which opens at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the county fairgrounds.

The show is free and will feature nightly entertainment, a few concessions, and, of course, many exhibits of appliances, home materials and furniture.

40 Exhibits

Forty exhibits have been set up in the Industrial Building on the fairgrounds, Rogers Kimberling, co-chairman, said Wednesday, and the show is ready to go.

A small home, built of pumice stones and using aluminum door frames and a tile fireplace, has been set up, and blends with other after row of models which illustrate materials for the modern

Food Index Drops

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food index on Oct. 12 dropped to the lowest point in 15 months.

The index, which represents the total cost of a pound of each of 31 foods in general use, stood at $6.48 on Oct. 12. This compares with $6.51 a week earlier, $6.85 a year ago, and $6.41 on July 8, 1947.

Telephonitis?

The Springfield fire department did not extinguish any fires Tuesday night but got plenty of exercise answering the phone. They cite answering 21 calls between 6 and 6:30 p.m. The "big fire" was at the Rosboro Lumber Co which had been issued a permit to burn trash.

Tomatoes Thrown

It was the second mishap of the evening. Small boys threw tomatoes at the Dewey train at Mt. Vernon, Ill., and one splattered the candidate's grey suit.

Tindle, asked about Dewey's remarks, said that the candidate was "about as dumb as I was to make a mistake like that."

The engineer admitted that he was at fault for overshooting a water spout and backing up.

"But I only moved a few feet," he said. "Anybody could have crawled out of the way. Anyhow, nobody told me there was supposed to be a speech at that point."

Multiple Fractures and Serious Head Injuries

MULTIPLE FRACTURES AND SERIOUS HEAD INJURIES were received by Benjamin D. Russell, 21, Dexter, and S. M. "Monty" Smith, 21, Eugene, in the above plane crash on the fringe of Dexter. Note clothesline from which tail is suspended. The plane nose-dived into a plowed field and narrowly missed the home of Mrs. A. L. Russell by 20 feet. West Bloc Gets Berlin Crisis Reply

PARIS—(AP)—Russia has asked the western powers to drop the Berlin dispute from the Security Council and go back to the Moscow Agreement of Aug. 30, a usually reliable source said Wednesday.

The Aug. 30 agreement "in principle" provided for a settlement based upon establishment of the Russian mark, under four-power control, as Berlin's sole currency. The four military governors in Berlin were never able to agree on the details.

The six neutral powers of the United Nations Security Council met Wednesday to consider Russia's answer to their proposal to end the Berlin blockade.

The informant said the Soviet reply was delivered to the representatives of France, the United States and Britain by Argentina's Juan Atilio Bramuglia, acting president of the council on the Berlin issue.

Move Backward

"The Russian answer puts the western powers back where they were," the source said. "I imagine some of the 'little six' who have been attempting to mediate the situation will be disappointed."

A British spokesman said: "This confirms our feelings that we have been right to be firm."

Charges Sabotage

Earlier in the day Sir Hartley Shawcross of Britain charged before the 58-nation Political Committee that Russia's fifth column is sabotaging world reconstruction through Communist parties in every country in the world.

A French spokesman said the Russian answer on Berlin was delivered to Foreign Minister Juan A. Bramuglia of Argentina, acting president of the council.

Talk Reported

Bramuglia was reported to have talked for an hour with Andrei Y. Vishinsky, deputy foreign minister of Russia, who had tried in vain to keep the issue off the Security Council agenda.

The United States, Britain and France had accused Russia of endangering peace and security by blockading Berlin late in June. The neutral powers—Argentina, Belgium, Canada, China, Colombia and Syria—are not directly involved in the dispute and have tried to bring about a compromise.
