

Success Seems Bitter for Check Artist Turned Honest Entertainer

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Success is making Stanley S. Jaks miserable. He has turned forger into an honest professional, but now even his best friends won't trust him.

Jaks is a professional purveyor of hokum. It has made him a financial success but a social failure. He can't even find a wife. No woman likes to be mystified by any man, and certainly not by her husband.

"Fool" Guy

"Hardly anyone thinks of me as just a man," he lamented. "They all think of me as a guy who'll fool you."

Jaks made his mistake in turning professional. As long as he was amateur, his friends thought he was harmless. But when they saw him amusing audiences by dealing cards from the bottom of the deck, they stopped asking him over for a hand of poker.

Not Trusted

"My erstwhile friends just don't trust me," he added, as he produced an ace of spades out of nowhere. "They don't think I can win a card game honestly. Friends started disappearing as fast as jack rabbits when a check forger taught him to copy handwriting. The no matter how illegible. The forger wound up in jail. But Jaks made a success of it because he kept his fountain pen off the bottom line of checks.

To make his act more confusing, Jaks wears a blindfold while copying signatures for the customers at the swanky Savoy-Plaza Hotel cocktail lounge. He uses the same method as did his ill-fated instructor, but he always gives the copies he makes to his audience, so there can be no trouble later on.

Real Carey

Jaks gave a demonstration of his art as a forger. He wrote upside down and backwards, explaining it is easier to copy a name exactly that way. Once, he said, he showed a group of bankers how it is done and nearly scared them to death.

Jaks, a plump, jovial man who calls himself "Dr. Jaks," was born in Romany. He started out to be a commercial artist and made magic his hobby, until he met the Agha Khan, reputedly the richest man in the world, at a Swiss resort. The multi-millionaire was so impressed when he saw Jaks make money out of nothing he persuaded him to make a career out of it.

Feels Lonesome

"That was the beginning of my downfall," Jaks said. "I don't have any social life any more. When I do go out, I have to do tricks. I get into trouble when I'm just another guest."

"Once I was accused of stealing a lady's wrist watch at a big dinner party. She found it later at home, on her dresser, but she still thinks I used black magic to put it there."

Wild Driving Spree Puts Motorist Behind Bars

WICHITA, Kan.—(U.P.)—Fining the motorist $800 and sentencing him to five months in jail, Judge Roy Rogers said the case was the "worst instance of reckless driving" ever brought to his attention.

Joseph D. Rosario, Jr., 30, drew the penalties for:

Speeding 80 miles an hour at night through heavy downtown traffic in a 20-mile zone, running 12 traffic lights, driving without a license, reckless driving, driving without lights, driving on the wrong side of the street, possessing liquor in violation of Kansas dry laws and resisting arrest.

The wild chase, with two motorcycle officers in pursuit, ended with Rosario's car smashing to a stop in a clump of shrubbery.

Prosperity Wrecks Eskimo's Teeth

LINCOLN, Neb.—(U.P.)—Prosperity brought dental woes to the Eskimos, according to Dr. Carl J. Henkleman.

The Lincoln dentist was sent to the northernmost tip of Alaska by the federal government for a dental survey with the naval Arctic research laboratory. He examined about 600 Eskimos, he said, and found their teeth to be "in terrible shape."

Eskimos employed at the Point Barrow naval base draw $300 to $800 a month as laborers, Henkleman said, and use the money to trade their former diet of seal, fish and walrus for the menus of Americans.

Light, Strong Titanium Put Into Production

WILMINGTON, Del.—(U.P.)—The manufacture of titanium metal, a light, strong material comparable to stainless steel, has been begun by the duPont Co.

The metal, silver white and highly resistant to corrosion, is being produced on a small scale at the company's pigments department plant at Newport, Del.

It is less than twice as heavy as aluminum, but several times as strong. Most likely it will be used in manufacturing high speed planes and industrial machinery, such as printing presses and textile equipment.
