Air Force's Long Range Jet Plane, 'Flying Wing' Set for Production

WASHINGTON — (AP) — An eight-jet Flying Wing bomber, the Air Force's longest range jet plane, will go into production at the Fort Worth, Tex., plant of Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp., Floyd Odium, New York financier, announced Thursday.

Odium is chairman of the Atlans Corp., which last November took over from Victor Emmanuel's Aviation Corp., the role of largest stockholder in Consolidated Vultee.

Subcontract
 Under his management, there has been an upturn in the fortunes of the Convair Company, a highlight being negotiation of the sub-contract with Northrop Aircraft to build 30 of the controversial B-49 Flying Wings. B-36 Superbombers also are built at the Texas plant.

Odium made his announcement to reporters at the White House after what he described as a non-business call on President Truman. He wanted to show that he

Bank Clerk Faces Charges

SPOKANE — (AP) — Donald C. Glenn, 25-year-old teller, will be returned to Chicago to face charges of embezzling $25,250 from a bank.

He waived hearing on an order directing transfer of the case in federal court Wednesday.

Glenn was arrested earlier this week while on a hunting trip near the small Washington town of Addy. Law enforcement officers found $15,000 under a mattress in his room.

He was honeymooning with his 18-year-old bride.

Hereford Sells for $8,700

KANSAS CITY — (AP) — Herbert Chandler, Central Oregon rancher, paid $8,700 for one of 55 champion Hereford breeding animals sold at the American Royal Live-stock Exposition.

The bull was M. W. Prince Larry 7th from the Milky Way Hereford ranch, Phoenix, Ariz.

Hereford cattle put on the auction block drew $98,450 for an average of $1,790. The average price for bulls was $2,197 and for cows $1,303.
