UO Library Gets New Music
A collection of 500 classical records, with an estimated value of over $900 has been added to the University of Oregon Douglas Room library of music offerings. Miss Cella V. Hager, Eugene, former psychology instructor here, made the donation.

The gift, announced by Head Librarian Carl Hintz, is the first major collection given to the library since the founding of the Douglas Room last year. Some of the records, Hintz said, are collectors items of music by Caruso, Tetrizini, and Paderewski. There are 87 albums and 182 individual records in the collection.
