

Kinsey Nears Completion Book on Human Female

By Ruth Larsen

HEALEY, Calif.—With a few hundred interviews to go, Dr. A. C. Kinsey is nearing completion of his book "The Sexual Behavior of the Human Female," which he has found most women responsive to sex than reported the author of the book, "The Sexual Behavior of the Human Male," women are extreme in their responses.

Some of the females we've interviewed are much more responsive than any males we've ever interviewed, the University of Indiana professor said.

My Confesses Report Error

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The agreed Saturday that it was a "public relations faux pas" in its report on prewar Japanese espionage in China.

George S. Eyster, deputy of the Army's public information division, told newsmen the report should have noted that the information from the police files and did not come from U. S. government sources.

Lacks Proof
The Army had no proof to back up the charge that the writer Agnes Smedley had spied for the Russians in the East in the days before the war.

He said the report should have been more carefully edited. He knew of no plan to make anyone for making the report but he said he is "certainly not making a mistake" that a mistake won't happen.

Author
The report was issued last week and that there were two Communist rings operating in the East before the war—one in Japan and one in China. It said Miss Smedley, a well-known writer on the Far East, was a member of the Chinese ring.

The report warned that the operations of these rings are "a clear danger for today and the future." It said that these Far Eastern spies are "secretly busy with their work at this very moment in the history of the world," and it said the possibility some may be at work in America.

New York, Miss Smedley called the charges "a complete lie." And there were those who criticized the Army's report of bringing out the report.

Irving Grange Opposes HB 202

Members of Irving Grange have issued a letter to members of the Lane County delegation at the Legislative Assembly in Salem concerning House Bill 202, which would alter provisions of the Initiative and Referendum system in Oregon by requiring 8 per cent of the voters in each county to sign an initiative petition. Another provision of the bill would allow the Legislature to attach the emergency clause to any tax bill.

Text of the letter of Irving Grange is:

"To the Member of the Lane County Delegation at Salem.
"Whereas: The Grange has been instrumental in establishing the Initiative and Referendum in the State of Oregon.

"Whereas: We believe these principles to be the basis of true Democratic Government;

"We therefore recommend that you oppose any legislation which would minimize the effectiveness of these measures.

"Signed: Irving Grange
