

Bus Purchase Set at Bethel

Bethel School District No. 52 will soon purchase a new 65-passenger school bus as a result of action taken Tuesday night by the Bethel school board.

Meeting in regular session, the board decided to add the new bus to provide for the district's expanding needs. The additional vehicle will bring the bus total in the district to five.

Superintendent of Schools Tom Powers said Wednesday that bids will be opened August 3, but will not be acted upon until August 9 when the board will meet. Bidders can now obtain specifications for the bus from Powers at the Bethel School.

In other action the board hired two janitors for the new Willamette High School, being built on Echo Hollow Rd. Plans were laid for turfing the athletic field for the high school. It is expected that the turfing will be completed by fall, Powers said.

The board also gave Powers full charge of issuing permission to groups wishing to use the high school building when it is completed. A complete policy on fees for usage and other matters will be worked out by the board when the high school is ready for occupancy.

Willamette High School will be a combination junior and senior high school, and will include grades 7 through 12.

Fall Creek Road Closed This Weekend

The Fall Creek Road at Little Gold Creek will be closed to public travel this weekend, July 16 and 17, according to J. R. Bruckhart, Willamette Forest supervisor.

The closure is necessary because of a grade change which will probably be completed by July 18, Bruckhart said.

U of O Play Starts Friday

Clemence Dane, an Englishwoman who is author of "A Bill of Divorcement," production of the University Theatre which will open on the campus Friday, has the name of a man. She took this name because at the time she wrote, women were not looked upon kindly in the field of the theater.

"A Bill of Divorcement" was one of her first plays and it concerns a problem which was receiving public attention at the time. A court report on divorce had just been made in London and a decision reached that a woman could divorce her husband if he was a drunkard, if he had been committed to a penal institution, etc. Such legislation was contrary to all former privilege of women in divorce proceedings.

"A Bill of Divorcement" is a case involving the divorce action of a woman whose husband had been committed to an insane asylum for a period of fifteen years and who suddenly recovers and returns to find his wife has taken advantage of the new divorce procedure.

It was in this play that Catherine Cornell starred on Broadway and made her first definite bid for fame. She took the role of the daughter, a part that will be played by Pat Boyle of Eugene for the University's production.

A five-day run has been scheduled for the play—July 15, 16, 21, 22, and 23.

Shearer Heads Exchange Club

Frank Shearer was installed as new president of the Exchange Club of Eugene in a brief ceremony Tuesday noon at Piluso's restaurant. Bill Boscow was officially named vice president; Doug Erdman, secretary; and Ed Combs, treasurer.

In addition, Richard P. Hiller, Art Kline and Duke Young were named to the board of control to serve with Warren Butler, David B. Judd, and Leland W. Stauffer, retiring president, an ex-officio member of the board.

Installation was accomplished by C. A. Fariss, district governor in Portland of the National Exchange organization, who spoke briefly on the work of the club.

"Youth is the greatest asset of any community," Fariss said. "And it is in youth work that the Exchange Clubs of the nation have found a large field for serving the community."

He discussed some of the tasks being undertaken by other clubs, as well as projects like model airplane building, designed to keep young people busy and out of trouble. The clubs of any city, cooperating with each other, are a powerful force in shaping young minds and bodies, he said.
