Fashion Trends Shown to Press

By Dorothy Roe Associated Press Fashion Editor

NEW YORK — (AP)—Prices will be lower and skirts higher next fall. That was the main impression gathered by more than 100 fashion editors gathered for the opening of the New York Dress Institute's 13th semi-annual Press Week, at which leading designers previewed the next season's styles.

Strictly cosmopolitan was the opening show of the week, a "round-the-world" collection designed by Tina Leser, whose prankish and often revealing sportswear makes fashion headlines each season. Recently returned from a global honeymoon trip, the far-sighted Tina picked up a few style ideas in each country she visited.

Her wrap-around "kimono coat" in vivid red fleece, was of course, inspired by Japan; her copper-embroidered evening skirts, by India; her braid-trimmed tunic suits by France. And of course she added a liberal sprinkling of Japanese pajamas and exotic cocktail dresses which Tina tagged "near east."

Christian Dior, the Frenchman accused as "father of the new look," intrigued the visiting editors with a handsome, swish and strictly French-looking group of styles, most predominant silhouette of which was the blouse-back suit. Most of his skirts are slim, sometimes slit and sometimes equipped with floating panels to add motion and fullness to the sheath beneath.

Though he makes his creations with such American titles as "Washington Square" and "Chevy Chase," the collection has a highly Parisian flavor. He shows velvet houses with tweed suits, like bulky, belted jackets on casual rough wool suits, buttons back his coat lapels, and uses buttons with a lavish hand on practically everything.

Many untrimmed wool dressmaker suits are accompanied by small fur ascots and matching muffs about the size and shape of a sofa pillow.

AT VENETA VENETA — Glen Mooers and family are staying with his brother Claude until they can get their home at Elmira ready for occupancy.

Mrs. George Cannon enjoyed a visit with her nephew Lester Seyferth one day this week. He is from San Francisco on his way to Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Flick and children have returned home after spending two weeks camping near Vincent Creek guard station. Flick was building roads for the forest service while there.

FALL CREEK VISITORS FALL CREEK — Mrs. Fannie Mead from Prescott, Ariz., mother of Mrs. Stanley Cameron, and Mrs. Ella Harris, Mayer, Ariz., aunt of Mrs. Cameron are visitors at the Stanley Cameron home in Fall Creek.
