The Communism Prod for Christians By G. Elson Ruff, Editor of The Lutheran

This summer in Czechoslovakia all professional men have to go to school for three weeks. Among those sent to the classrooms are physicians, engineers, teachers (even the professors from the Lutheran theological faculty in Bratislava). They are obliged to attend classes from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. and to take daily examinations on what they learn.

Earlier in the year teen-age Czech youth got similar instruction every Sunday morning from 9 to 12. They were taught from books by Marx, Engels, Stalin about the injustices produced by capitalism and about the bright future promised by communism.

All teachers in the public schools of Czechoslovakia must be members of the Communist party. There aren't many church schools permitted, so almost the whole instruction of youth is from the communist viewpoint. Professor Josef Hromadka stated at the World Council meeting in England last month that all Czechoslovakia "is now being educated or indoctrinated along Marxist lines."

Communists are giving us a demonstration of their confidence in the value of education. We in the American churches, with our easygoing ways of teaching Christianity, don't compare very favorably with them.

Partly it's because Communists have the fervor of discoverers, who have something new to teach. The Christian gospel is now so many years old that we forget how startling, how exciting it is. A young fellow who has just fallen in love is likely to be more ardent than a man who has been married 50 years.

Maybe communism will be a good thing for us. It gives us an example of what men do when they are intensely serious about what they believe. It shows us how such men devise effective means of teaching others their faith.

People don't live satisfying lives unless their hearts are ruled by breath-taking ideas which awaken their deep devotion and color every thought and deed.

Many of us are living on the level of mere comfortable existence. In the U.S. we may get stirred up to vote Republican if we are promised reduced taxes, or Democrat if we get more social security. Otherwise we aren't stirred up much.

That's a spiritual vacuum, which something must fill. Hitler came along in Germany to fill the vacuum with his poisonous nonsense. Stalin is trying to teach all eastern Europe and Asia to get starry-eyed about the people's democracy which makes a thousand times more promises than it can fulfill. Sooner or later somebody is going to give Americans something to dream about and march for... maybe a cheap and futile dream which will lead to terrible consequences.

Somebody will do that unless they come too late, after we have been lifted anew by a great tide of Christian conviction.

You'll be able to tell when that day comes. It will be a day when every father resolutely grasps his young son's hand and starts off with him to church school bright and early every Sunday morning. And when churches are so eager about teaching that they are not content with a half-hearted half-hour of instruction, some of it by instructors who haven't had time to study the lesson themselves.

Who Is Eligible?

In spite of frequent evidences of racial injustice and intolerance, there is noticeable progress being made toward racial equality, and the American Association of University Women has just made a real contribution to that progress.

At the recent national meeting of the AAUW in Seattle the by-laws of that organization were changed so that no person can be excluded because of race.

It is not to be inferred that formerly AAUW by-laws excluded Negroes or Orientals, for such was not the case. The by-laws stated that members should hold a degree from an accredited college or university, and that any eligible applicant must be accepted.

That little word "eligible" was the villain. The Washington, D. C., chapter of AAUW did not consider a Negro woman "eligible," even though she had a university degree... Possibly other chapters had also given their own interpretation to the word, but without achieving national publicity.

AAUW delegates went to their national meeting determined to free their association of any stigma of racial discrimination. The Eugene delegates were thrilled by the speeches of southern delegates, especially from Alabama, pleading for recognition of university women regardless of race.

When we realize the problems and difficulties which AAUW chapters in the South may encounter in arranging for meetings or social events, as well as the public disapproval which they may incur, we must applaud their courage and broad-mindedness. Perhaps AAUW will be a counter-influence to the Ku Klux Klan.

After nearly five hours of discussion AAUW voted to reword the by-laws so that any woman who holds a university degree is eligible to become a member of AAUW. Thus the Negro, Japanese or Chinese woman is accepted on exactly the same basis as anyone else.

The Washington chapter decided that it could not accept the national ruling, and withdrew to form a University Women's Club (exclusively white). However, even in the Washington Chapter there were women who did not approve of the discrimination and refused to belong to the club. That group plans to secure a new charter for a chapter of AAUW in Washington.

AAUW has set a good pattern which other national organizations may well imitate. Without loss of dignity we say Three Cheers for AAUW!

Encouraging Signs

By Jacob S. Peyton Washington Correspondent for The Christian-Evangelist

Every now and then someone expresses doubt about America being a Christian nation. While the evidence available on Capitol Hill is not overwhelming, nevertheless even there the Lord has his witnesses.

Each week on Capitol Hill senators and representatives meet for breakfast followed by prayer and Bible discussion. Recently a senator presented an exposition of the Scriptures which was, according to those who heard it, of amazing spiritual depth and clarity.

Each daily session of Senate and House is opened with prayer in accordance with religious custom and statutory authorization. Every attorney before he is eligible to practice before the Supreme Court must take his oath or affirmation on the Bible concluding with the words, "So help me God."

Even the crier offers the petition, "God save the United States and his honorable Court." And the insignia of the Ten Commandments inscribed in profusion on the marble and among the famous carvings in the law library, are testimony that God and His laws are honored in the highest tribunal of the land.

A Man Who Knows God

I had rather hear my friend, the founder of Alcoholics Anonymous, talk about God than any theologian I know. A militant agnostic, scornful of religion, he was hopelessly beaten by drink, and then, to his amazement, reaching out in his despair for some power to save him, he found it. You should hear him talk about God—humbly, no theological dogmatism in him, not thinking he knows much about God, but sure, absolutely sure, of one thing:

A Power is here greater than ourselves that we can get in touch with and that can give to man spiritual mastery over life.

Such a man really believes in God, and not even a dismaying era like this will whip him. General MacArthur said the other day, "Nobody can stop the irresistible influence of a sound idea." Walk around that statement and consider it well! If that is true, then this cannot be merely a materialistic universe. It is nonsense to suppose that in a merely materialistic universe nothing can stop the irresistible influence of a sound idea. A spiritual Power must be operative in any world where that is true.

Harry Emerson Fosdick in "On Being Fit to Live With"

Take a Risk . . . For Right

It is better to run the risks of doing right than to run the risks of doing wrong. It is better to take the consequences of doing right than it is to take the consequences of doing wrong. Be not deceived, God is not mocked, whatsoever a community sows that shall it also reap.

Our ancestors sowed slavery and we are reaping. They sowed the caste system and we are reaping. Our children will reap what we are now sowing. The harvest includes fear, blindness, hypocrisy, callousness, exploitation, demoralization, intimidation, personal violence, lynching, race riots, terror, misery. The caste system cannot be maintained without perpetuating these evils. It is far more perilous to do wrong than it is to do right.

Kirby Page in "The Will of God For These Days."

Preachers go to summer camp and nearly work themselves to death looking after our children, and when they come back we talk about their "vacation."

This is the time of year when perfectly good Christians wonder why God made ants and yellow-jackets.

Tolerance is a word which has several shades of meaning; to some people it really means condescension; to the Christian it ought to mean sympathetic understanding.

Richard Taylor Resigns At Nazarene

The Rev. Richard S. Taylor has announced his resignation from the pastorate of the Nazarene Church, Eighth and Madison Streets, in order to study for his doctor's degree at an eastern University after which he plans to enter a teaching career in the Nazarene Church schools.

The Rev. Duane E. Muth, at present pastor of the Nazarene Church at Tillamook, has accepted an unanimous call from the Eugene congregation. He has been at Tillamook for six years, is married, and they have one little girl. He is a graduate of Northwest Nazarene College of Nampa, Idaho, and held a previous pastorate in California.

The new family will move into the parsonage the first part of September. The Taylor family Rev. and Mrs. Taylor and David, 14, and Paul, 4, will leave August 22, and Rev. Mr. Taylor will deliver his farewell sermon here Sunday, Aug. 21.

"We have been very happy in Eugene," said Mr. Taylor, "and we appreciate the many friends we have made here."

EUB Conference Opposes Aid to Private Schools

The Oregon-Washington conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, meeting in annual session at Jennings Lodge, Oregon, went on record Friday as being strongly opposed to the measure recently before Congress which would have granted federal aid to private and parochial schools had it been passed.

Eugene was selected as the location of the mid-winter conference, which will be held January 24, 25 and 26, 1950.

Among important posts filled in the Friday conference elections were: Director of "Our Western Challenge" campaign; W. L. Mull of Eugene was named to the conference commission on evangelism. The conference took "an uncompromising stand for the fundamentals of the Christian faith in regard to its support of the church seminaries and colleges."

At Trinity Methodist

"Not I, but the Grace of God" will be the sermon topic of Rev. R. W. Burtner at the morning worship of the Trinity Methodist Church, 11 a. m., in Colin Kelly Junior High School. A nursery for the small children is provided during this hour of worship. Organized games and Bible stories being a part of this time.

The Church School meets at 9:45 in Colin Kelly with classes for all age groups in the instruction of the Christian religion.

Of interest to high school age youth is the beginning of a series of discussions and study on the Bible as a source book of faith.

Sunday evening the Bible Study group of the church will meet at the parsonage at 8 p. m. for study and discussion of the prophet Isaiah. All members and friends of the church are welcome to join the study of the contents of the Bible.

'Farewell' To Jones' At Temple

Lighthouse Temple congregation will hear the farewell sermons of its pastor and wife, the Rev. and Mrs. W. Crawford Jones, Sunday. They leave immediately for a week in California after which they will take up a new pastorate in Spokane, Wash.

Mrs. Jones speaks in the morning, on "Near the Cross," a communion service. The Rev. Jones' farewell sermon will be delivered in the evening. The Jones' will also be singing "Willing to Take the Cross" in the morning, and Rev. Jones is to give a trombone solo in the evening, a medley of hymns.

A farewell gathering for the Jones family was held by the church members and boards of the Temple, out at the camp grounds near Coburg, Thursday evening. A silver "good bye" offering was taken, and presented to Rev. and Mrs. Jones by the chairman of the finance committee, Sol Rexus.

First 'Peek' At Plans For New Church

First reports on what the new United Evangelical Church will be like were revealed this week by Architect John E. Stafford of Eugene, and the pastor of the church, Charles A. Epple.

The first unit will house a chapel and Sunday school. A masonry building is visualized, covering approximately 2400 square feet, and to cost between $60,000 and $70,000. The church will be located on the corner of Washington and Twenty-second Avenue, on College Hill.

Future plans provide for adding more Sunday school room, and building the main portion of the structure, the sanctuary. Church services will be held in the chapel until that time. The church is now meeting in the music chapel of Northwest Christian College.

The chapel will seat 250. In the basement the kitchen and social hall will accommodate an additional 250 persons. The roof of the chapel will be supported by graceful laminated arches. Heating system will be a combination radiant and hot water convective system. There will be asphalt tiling, and the ceiling will be acoustical tile.
