

Yellow Organdy Chosen By Bride For Wedding Gown

St. Mary's Episcopal Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Virginia Gamble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Gamble of Eugene, to Donald K. Valentine, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Irwin Valentine of Redlands, Calif., August 8. The Rev. Ernest Bartlam officiated at four o'clock in the afternoon.

Miss Gamble wore a gown of palest yellow organdy with white eyelet embroidery trimming the full skirt, which had a deep hem of white organdy. The bodice was made with a Feter Pan collar trimmed with buttons. She wore white elbow length gloves, a white horsehair picture hat, and white linen pumps. She carried a spray bouquet of yellow "Rapture" roses and Shasta daisies. For ornament she wore a string of gold beads, which had belonged to her great, great grandmother.

Miss Margery Warila of Astoria was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of pale blue dotted swiss with white accessories and carrying a bouquet of Shasta daisies.

Jack L. Wood, brother-in-law of the bride, served as best man. Frank D. Timmons of Coquille was usher. Mr. Gamble gave his daughter in marriage.

White gladioli were used to decorate the church. "Ave Maria" and "O Perfect Love," were sung by Clyde Everton, with Mrs. Bartlam at the organ.

A reception was given by the bride's parents at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Watson. Mrs. Jack L. Wood, a sister of the bride, and Mrs. O. L. Ireland poured. Mrs. Everett O'Neil cut the cake. Decorations were of white cosmos blossoms.

SPEAKING OF Furniture
In Eugene . . . It's RUBENSTEIN'S!

GO AHEAD, BE DIFFERENT

The "Joneses" may have a beautiful-looking living room, but don't copy it! Their room no doubt shows individuality . . . which is something you can't always put your finger on, yet you instinctively know when it's there or missing.

Be different. Use informal articles! They in turn will give the room the individuality and informal setting you're after. Look what's happened to the old-fashioned coffee pots in the picture above. They make mighty attractive lamps, don't they? You no doubt have a number of things hidden away in the attic or cellar that would make beautiful lamps . . . just use your imagination.

When it comes to coffee tables you can really be individual. You'll find literally thousands of designs on the market today. The one in the picture above was made from picture frames and makes a pleasantly different table.

If you're using your furniture as a theme basis, carry the theme to the walls with paper designed to follow the mood of the room.

So go ahead and be different, you and the "Joneses" will both be pleased with the result.

In the past we've helped the "Joneses" . . . we'd like to have a chance to help you.
