of Interest
at Art Museum

Scheduled to open today at the American Textiles '48 Museum, located in Portland, is the spotlight on paintings in textiles. Assembled by the American Museum of Art and the Metropolitan Museum of Art, this exhibition represents an American industry in a post-war period without foreign inspiration. The displays show the classic fibers of the past—wool, silk, linen, and cotton put to present day uses, as well as the new man-made fibers, rayon, nylon, vinylon, velon, saran, fiberglass, and ramie. The two hundred textiles on view are the best of more than five hundred entries submitted by more than one hundred and twenty-five firms from Maine to California, in response to the Metropolitan Museum's invitation to enter fabrics, produced in 1948, which "represent their best efforts, and are most fully in the spirit of the present day." is scheduled through September 15.

The extended showing of the Swiss Collection of Paul Klee is drawing near its close. At the end of this month it will leave Portland and travel East, where this comprehensive review of Klee's life work is eagerly awaited. Portland has been most fortunate in being able to keep the collection for most of the summer, since most of the works are owned by the Paul Klee Foundation in Berne, Switzerland, and will return to that country at the close of the tour.

Masterpieces of Italian Religious Painting, lent by the Knoedler Galleries of New York, is drawing many visitors. The age of these 14th, 15th, 16th and 17th century paintings, their devotional qualities, the interest of their portrayal of sacred scenes and stories, and their artistic importance make the collection unforgettable.

Hoover-Stecher Rites Are Said

CRESWELL—Miss Beverly J. Stecher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Stecher, was married to William E. Hoover, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hoover, all of Creswell, at the Presbyterian Manse, August 12. The Rev. W. Lee Gray officiated at eight o'clock.

The bride wore a two-piece dress of white with navy blue trim and white accessories. She had a corsage of mixed flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Chapman of Creswell, brother-in-law and lections are spread invitingly before the visitors from the upper floor to the basement. The Print Cabinet in the basement displays pages from the book, The Shooting-Star Circus by Georges Rouault. The Northwest Coast Indian collection upstairs is a mecca for all visitors to the Northwest Coast region.

Yoncalla Couple Recently Wedded

YONCALLA — Miss Beverly Lunny, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lunny of Drain, became the bride of James Wales, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wales of Rice Valley, at a double-ring ceremony Thursday morning, August 4, at ten o'clock. The vows were read by the Rev. James Brink in his parsonage at Oakland, Ore.

The bride wore a pink dress with white accessories. She was attended by Miss Barbara LeMar. James Lang was best man. A reception was given at the J. G. Wales home.

Both bride and bridegroom attended school at Yoncalla. They are living at present, in an apartment at Yoncalla, but are planning to build soon at Rice Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lambdin, aunt and uncle of Mrs. Wales, gave a dinner in their home Wednesday evening honoring the young couple, with Miss LeMar and James Lang present. Several friends came in later for a party and brought gifts for the bride and bridegroom.

Members of the Women's Society for Christian Service of the Methodist Church were hostesses at a bridal shower for Mrs. Wales at the church Thursday afternoon.

Young Couple Leaves

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bruce Bray left Eugene Monday by train on the first lap of a trip which will take them to France.

They will visit in New York City with Mr. Bray's uncle before sailing August 24 from New York on the Liner DeGrasse. They will spend two months in Paris and then go to Strasbourg, France, where Mr. Bray will study musicology at the university. The couple intends to spend two years abroad.

Mr. Bray, a June graduate of the University of Oregon, is a veteran of World War II. They were married July 2 at La Grande. Mrs. Bray is the former Donna Marie Siegman of Junction City.
