Kelly School's store had a trial shipment of several dozen "rooter's lids" this week; they went like hot cakes and the supply was way short of demand.

Stock Market Shows Decline

NEW YORK— (AP) —An overwhelming weight of bearishness crushed the stock market down this week in the second biggest decline of the year.

Selling reached climactic proportions in the final hour of trading Friday, and Saturday prices continued their fall but without the severe pressure exhibited yesterday.

The loss this week was second only to that experienced in the final week of June 30 when cease-fire negotiations in Korea were first taking shape and cast a shadow of uncertainty over the immediate economic future of the country.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 80 cents Saturday at $98.30. That brought the loss for the week to $3.10, topped only by the $3.40 decline four months ago.

There was no single factor assigned by Wall Street as the cause of this week's fall.

Tax Solution?

PORTLAND (AP)—Rep. Homer Angell, home from Congress, said Friday he was paired against the tax bill passed Friday.

He said there was no need for the bill and "the only way to stop this (federal) spending is to stop levying taxes."

Angell said he left early to make plans for a meeting Oct. 27 of the House Public Works Committee here.

Police Shake-up On in New York

NEW YORK—(AP)—New York City's police department, its morale shaken by disclosures of bookie bribes to crooked cops, is undergoing one of the most drastic reorganizations in its history.

Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan ordered the sweeping changes after Chief Inspector August W. Flath, 53, top man on the city's police force, announced his resignation.

Flath tearfully made his announcement at a meeting of 300 top-ranking officers. He said he would step down Nov. 18 to keep from impairing his health.

Monaghan rose to praise Flath's services and to announce the appointment of his successor, Detective Chief Conrad Rothengast.

The commissioner immediately entrusted Rothengast with the responsibility of reorganizing the force's law enforcement procedures "relating to public morals, gambling and intoxicating liquors."

Camp White Work Delayed

MEDFORD—(U.P.)—No order to proceed with the plans for reactivation of Camp White has been received here, the engineering firm of Harvey and Watkins said Saturday.

The engineering firm was ordered to stop drawing preliminary plans for the reactivation on Sept. 22, after they had been given a contract for the proposed standby camp.

State Hospital Is Accredited

Ryan Statement Answers Committee

SALEM — (U.P.) — The state hospital here is accredited for resident training in psychiatry, state coordinator of institutions William C. Ryan said Saturday. His statement was in answer to a report made by a committee of the Portland City Club which indicated that the hospital is not so accredited.

The committee report said the state hospitals for the mentally ill here and in Pendleton suffered from "deplorable weakness in the professional staff."

Ryan said the Salem hospital lost approval for a few months for lack of sufficient records and an educational program. But a librarian was hired and a course of study was developed by the staff, which led to renewal of accreditation several months ago by the American Medical Assn. for resident training in psychiatry.

The hospital here also is accredited by the American Psychiatric Assn. for affiliate training in psychiatric nursing.

PARIS — (U.P.) — French officials tactfully accepter three bottles of wine Saturday from California—one of the nation's chief competitors in U. S. wine sales.

The bottles bore the slogan, "Enjoy Dinner with Wine" Mayor Elmer Robinson of San Francisco sent them by air to the Paris Municipal Council to mark the French capital's 2000th anniversary and California's wine week.

Petition Seeks Vote On Punchboard Ban

The referendum vote on the boards will be at the May 19 primary election.

Deny Charges Of Fire Blame

PORTLAND — (AP) — Exclusion of the press from a meeting of the Western Forestry and Conservation Association was not aimed at keeping from the public a report on the cause of forest fires this year.

That was the statement Saturday of Stuart Moir, forest counsel for the association, after the Oregon Journal reported that "reliable sources" had said that representatives of timber interests conceded at the meeting that "a large share of forest fires this year tied back to timber operations."

Moir said a committee was named at the meeting to report back and that it was felt more fitting for the public to hear details of conclusions than "individual comments and arguments."

State and federal forest officials were invited to the meeting to discuss the past forest fire season and what should be done about the future.

Edmund Hayes, a vice-president of Weyerhaeuser Timber Co. who presided at the afternoon session, said "we want nothing about this meeting to get into the papers." He asked those present not to give out details of the meeting before the committee report in November.
